Dulles Leads West Drive To Counteract Asian-African Plan

U.N. Showdown Near On Mideast Peace Proposals

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A key group of Asian-African nations tried Tuesday to scuttle a Western-backed Middle East peace plan. They sought support for counterproposals that would stress immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Lebanon and British forces from Jordan.

But the Western powers remained confident they can win the necessary two-thirds majority in the 81-nation U.N. General Assembly emergency meeting for a seven-nation resolution authored by Norway.

Secretary of State Dulles met with representatives of the Latin-American nations in an effort to win maximum support from this 20-nation group. Five or six members were reported reluctant to go along.

The United States was telling U.N. delegates it could go no farther toward compromise than the Norwegian resolution giving Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold a key role in working out recommendations for a Middle East settlement.

Dulles Cancels Trip

He would report by Sept. 30 to the regular fall Assembly. The resolution also embraces some features of President Eisenhower's broad Middle East program.

Dulles was working hard for a Western victory. He canceled a trip to Washington in order to confer also with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, newly arrived on the U. N. scene.

Sir Leslie Munro, Assembly president, said the Assembly will meet Wednesday morning, afternoon and evening in an effort to wind up policy speeches.

Representatives of India, Ceylon and Indonesia, chief movers for the counterproposals still to be formally presented to the Assembly, met privately with the full 28-member Asian-African group.

No Agreement Reached

Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon, current group president, said no agreement was reached in the 40-minute session. The group will meet again Wednesday. Some of its members are known to favor the Western-backed resolution.

One delegation close to the negotiations said 10 or 12 sponsors would line up behind either a new resolution or amendments to the Norwegian resolution. The exact tactics to be followed were not yet formulated.

In general, the resolution or amendments emphasize speedy troop withdrawal. They avoid any mention of a U.N. standby police force.

PLEADS FOR HELP—School Supt. Virgil Blossom said yesterday the Little Rock (Ark.) School Board would appeal from the Court of Appeals ruling for continued integration at Central High School "and we mean it." His statement came after Gov. Orval Faubus demanded to know what action the board would take to maintain school segregation. Earlier, Blossom pleaded for cooperation and understanding "in helping us to carry out our educational program, whatever the outcome may be."

Bill Raising SS Benefits Sent To Ike

House Approves Measure; Would Boost Payroll Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed by voice vote and sent to the White House Tuesday a bill raising Social Security payments by seven per cent starting next Feb. 3.

This election year measure also boosts the maximum pay check deductions for 75 million covered workers to $120 a year from $94.50 starting Jan. 1.

On that date, the payroll tax for workers and employers will increase from 2¼ to 2½ per cent each, and the taxable wage base will be hiked from $4,200 to $4,800 a year. The self-employed tax will jump from 3⅜ to 3¾ per cent.

The payroll tax boost is designed in part to insure the long-range soundness of the system, which many officials say is now out of balance.

House Acts To Avoid Veto

To avoid a threatened presidential veto, the House accepted Senate-passed revisions which reduced an increase in federal public assistance grants to the states from 288 million dollars to 197 million. This is a four-part program of aid to the needy aged, blind, disabled and dependent children—now totaling 5,600,000 persons.

The increase in public assistance grants would take effect in October, the month before elections.

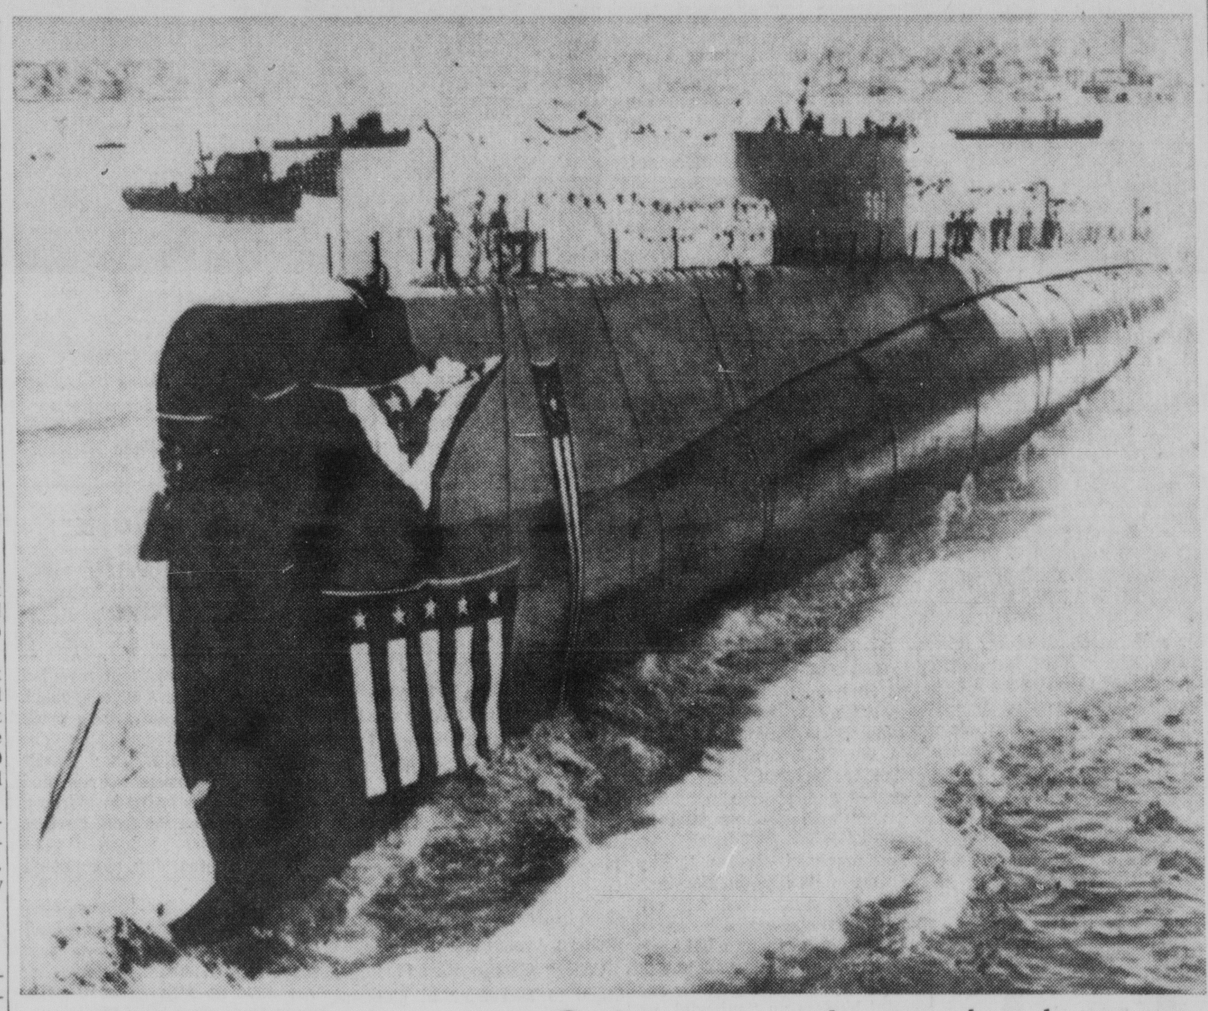

The amount of federal contribution available for the blind, aged and disabled would go up from the present $60 per month level to around $64 or $65. The rate for a dependent child would be placed at $30.

Other Provisions

Authorizations for maternal and child welfare assistance were increased 15 million dollars, divided equally for use among crippled children, child welfare and maternal child health services operated by the states.

Also, dependents of disabled workers retired at age 50 with full Social Security benefits would receive the same benefits as dependents of workers retiring at age 65.

For the 12 million retired workers now on the rolls, the new higher monthly payments will range from $33 to $116 compared to the present scale of $30 to $108.50. The minimum increase will be $3. The maximum family benefit will increase to $254 a month from $200.

World's Largest Submarine Launched

The USS Triton, believed to be the largest submarine in the world, slides into the Thames River at Groton, Conn., after its launching yesterday. The vessel, first to be powered by twin nuclear power plants, is 447 feet long and weighs 5,900 tons. It has tons of electronic detection devices, which will enable it to travel far in advance of task forces and relay warnings of any impending sea or air attacks. The Triton will be readied for sea trials sometime next year. (AP Photofax)

Prods School Board To Act In Race Crisis

Governor Outlines Three Alternatives To His Intervention

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Little Rock School Board announced Tuesday night that it will ask the U. S. Supreme Court to stay an appellate court ruling which overturned a lower court's decision to delay integration here for 2½ years.

Supt. of Schools Virgil Blossom said the request probably will be made Wednesday.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)— Gov. Orval E. Faubus announced Tuesday that he will not intervene immediately in the new Little Rock integration crisis.

He said Little Rock school board officials, NAACP leaders and Negro parents should try first to peacefully settle the crisis now that a U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has refused an integration suspension.

"Any action taken by the chief executive, the legislature or the people before the attitude of these people is known might prove to be premature and unnecessary," he said.

School superintendent Virgil E. Blossom called a meeting of the school board and its lawyers for Tuesday night to "examine the governor's statement and decide what action it is possible to take."

He said he will answer questions Faubus raised and perhaps announce a plan of action "maybe before the week is out, but you understand I can't promise that."

Nine Negroes integrated Central High School last September after President Eisenhower sent in 1,000 troops from the elite 101st Airborne Division to protect them from mobs of segregationists.

But last June 21, U. S. District Judge Harry Lemley granted Central a two-and-a-half year suspension of integration because of continued violence by white students inside the school through the 1957-1958 term.

Lemley Decision Reversed

The Eighth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis reversed Judge Lemley Monday. Faubus said Tuesday that this was "most regrettable."

"The higher court's decision indicates an indifference and disregard for the will of the people that is most alarming and dangerous," he said.

Faubus outlined three alternatives to action by himself and the legislature:

—The school board can invoke the school assignment law, under which a student is allowed to change schools if he doesn't like the school nearest him.

—The school board can meet with parents of the Negroes who attended Central last year and warn the Negroes what an insistence on integration may bring about and the Negroes might withdraw the students from Central.

—"Failing in the above, the school board could resign . . .and allow the people to select a new board which would have the courage to act in conformity with their wishes."

Requires Quick Action

In any case, he said, the situation requires immediate action, because the opening of Central High School is less than two weeks off. It opens Sept. 2.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the NAACP, would comment only on Faubus' suggestion of a meeting between the school board, NAACP leaders and Negro parents.

"As far as I am concerned, that is nothing more than an observation on the part of Mr. Faubus," she said. "As for the rest of it, no comment."

Richard C. Butler, a school board attorney, said it was "still an unanswered question" as to whether Negroes will attend Central this semester.

He said the school board won't know exactly where it stands until it receives a mandate from the appeals court's decision and that could take as long as 20 days.

M'Keldin Backs 75-Day General Assembly Plan

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. McKeldin agreed today the present legislative schedule is inadequate and indorsed a Legislative Council proposal for annual 75-day sessions of the General Assembly.

"Much time could be saved if more counties would adopt home rule and thus keep much of their local business out of the General Assembly," McKeldin said.

"But until this happens, I believe we should try annual sessions of 75 days each."

The sessions would be open to all types of legislation. Under the present setup sessions of 90 days are held in odd-numbered years and 30 days in even-numbered years with the short session limited to emergency legislation and bills dealing with finance and the general public welfare.

The 1958 Legislature ran into a heavy work schedule while working out a tax program and several proposals for constitutional changes were offered. They were referred to the Council for study. The Council finally voted in favor of the 75-day plan offered by Sen. William S. James (D-Harford).

McKeldin said he had no doubt that longer sessions were needed in even-numbered years "to take care of those things which are accepted as legislation in the public welfare and local emergency legislation, plus the budget matters.

"Maryland continues to grow," he added. "Its business has multiplied. Public understanding of and interest in legislative affairs and state business have increased tremendously in recent years.

"This could mean the introduction of more and more bills and more debate and consideration. It is reasonable to believe the total number of legislative days in a biennium should be increased."

Union Welfare Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Tuesday passed and sent to President Eisenhower the only major labor bill of the session—a measure that would throw a publicity spotlight on operation of employe welfare and pension funds.

The compromise bill was approved by voice vote with no debate. The Senate passed it last week. The final version generally followed the original House bill and was considerably milder than the Senate's first version.

It was the lone accomplishment of Congress in the labor field this year since the House Monday killed the broader labor reform bill which the Senate had passed earlier by a smashing 88 to 1 vote.

Ex-Gun Runner Mum On Kidnap Ransom Link

WASHINGTON (AP)—A convicted St. Louis gun runner balked Tuesday at telling the Senate Rackets Committee whether he knows the whereabouts of $300,000 still missing from the Greenlease kidnap ransom.

Joseph Costello told the senators that answers to their questions might incriminate him.

He invoked the Fifth Amendment on nearly 50 questions, refusing to say whether he was involved in the theft of the money, whether he helped split it up and whether he knows where it is now.

The Senate probers confronted Costello with the testimony of two witnesses linking him with the missing fortune.

Capt. John Doherty, a St. Louis detective, had testified a short time earlier that police believe Costello has the money.

The divorced wife of Robert (Barney) Baker, a Midwest boss of the Teamsters Union, also swore that Baker once told her Costello "got the Greenlease money, and that's why he tried to kill himself."

"I may get killed for telling," Mrs. Baker, a plump red-haired woman, added. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark), assured her the committee would undertake to protect her.

When 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City was kidnapped and slain in 1953 his parents paid a $600,000 ransom. About half of it was recovered when the two kidnappers were arrested but the rest is still missing.

Doherty said four men are believed to be involved with the money. He listed them as Costello, John Hager, a driver for Costello's Ace Cab Co. in St. Louis; and two former St. Louis policemen, Lt. Louis Shoulders and patrolman Elmer Dolan.

Hager furnished the tip which led to the arrest of Carl Austin Hall, one of the kidnapers, and Shoulders and Dolan made the arrests.

Costello is now appealing a federal conviction on charges of transporting guns illegally across state lines.

He wouldn't say whether he knows James R. Hoffa, international president of the Teamsters, Barney Baker and a variety of underworld figures with whom his name has been linked in prior testimony.

East-West Experts Agree On Atom Test Detection System

GENEVA (AP)—Scientists from both sides of the Iron Curtain agreed Tuesday on a technical system to spot violations if governments ban the testing of nuclear weapons. The system could include earth satellites.

The 16 scientists from eight nations did not attempt to reach any political decisions on whether there should be an agreement to halt atomic and H-bomb tests.

So far as is known they did not even discuss one of the most difficult political questions — whether Red China should be included in the control system.

Details of the agreement, reached in seven weeks of secret talks were not disclosed. Sources close to the conference said these would not be revealed until they have been studied by the governments represented here.

The final report on the conference, which may be agreed upon before the end of the week may be published later as a formal notification by the eight governments to the U. N. General Assembly.

The conference began July 1 after the Soviet Union had threatened to boycott it. Moscow insisted that the United States agree beforehand to ban its tests if a technical conference showed detection of sneak experiments was feasible.

The United States refused. When the West sent its scientist delegates here anyway, the Communist bloc showed up.

The agreement was announced as Britain warned that a wide area around Christmas Island in the Pacific again would be a danger area beginning Wednesday because of a new series of nuclear tests.

Just a week ago the United States carried out the second of its stratospheric nuclear missile tests above Johnson Island in the Pacific. The Soviet Union announced a ban on its own tests last March.

The Geneva conference has three scientists from the United States, two from Britain and one each from Canada and France. Dr. James B. Fisk heads the American delegation.

Triton, Mighty Radar Picket Sub, Launched

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The atomic powered Triton, mightiest submarine ever built, slid massively but easily into the water Tuesday in a spectacular ceremony.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, Atlantic Fleet commander, said the Triton with her powerful radar for spotting enemy aircraft will roam "to the distant corners of the earth."

She will be "a nuclear-propelled, invisible, electronic brain hundreds of miles in advance of our atomic strike fleet always ready to guide and direct its atomic delivery forces," said Wright, principal speaker at the ceremony.

And, from Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover, often called the father of atomic submarines, came a message saying the Triton was a symbol of the future day when even the big capital ships of the U. S. Navy will be submersibles.

The 447-foot, 5,900-ton Triton slipped don the building ways of the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. as smoothly as a canoe slips from a beach.

Tugs edged up, nudged her bow upstream and headed the Triton for the fitting-out dock where several months of work remain to be done.

Among other things, the two nuclear reactors and propulsion machinery will go into her. The reactors, being built in an Atomic Energy Commission laboratory operated by the General Electric Co. at West Milton, N. Y., will develop more shaft horsepower than any other sea-going nuclear plant.

The Triton was the eighth American atomic submarine launched. In all, the United States has a fleet of 33 nuclear subs already built, being built or authorized for construction.

Torch Burning Probe Stymied

DETROIT (AP) — Authorities Tuesday gave up on plans for a possible grand jury investigation of the Frank Kierdorf torch burning after finding no link with a series of violent incidents in Detroit.

"We're back to scratching for the small leads and following them out," said Michigan Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams.

He said after a meeting with prosecutors from three communities that no pattern of organized racketeering could be seen in the fiery death of Kierdorf, Teamsters Union business agent, a fire at a Flint, Mich., dry cleaning plant and 11 explosions in the Detroit area since January.

Missing since Aug. 4, the day his nephew appeared at a hospital with burns over 85 per cent of his body, Herman refused to answer most police questions.

The 68-year-old Herman, himself a former Teamsters Union business agent, passed a lie detector test in which he said he had no prior knowledge of the Flint fire, was not on the scene and had nothing to do with transporting his critically burned nephew to the hospital. He agreed to answer only those questions.

Boy, 13, Escapes Serious Injury In 13-Story Fall

NEW YORK (AP)—A 13-year-old boy fell five stories from the roof of an upper East Side tenement Tuesday and may have escaped serious injury because he struck several clothes lines in his plunge, police said.

The boy, Gilbert Ruiz, was taken to Metropolitan Hospital, where a preliminary examination showed no serious injury.

Airman Satisfies His Curiosity— And Then Some

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Leslie Simms' curiosity about what happens when you press the afterburner button on a jet plane is now satisfied. Completely. And then some.

Simms is a crew chief from Cannon AFB, N.M., who was brought to nearby Nellis AFB for training. He knows that the afterburner is something pilots cut in when they need an extra surge of power. But until Monday he'd never actually pressed the button.

So, according to a Nellis spokesman, Simms' curiosity finally got the best of him while he was taxiing an F100 Super Sabre along a runway. He pressed away, and . . .

Whoosh! the plane rocketed across the runway, off the base, across a highway, spun to a stop, exploded and burned.

The Air Force estimated the loss at a million dollars.

Peiping Military Moves Called Political Gimmick

Seat At Big Power Parley Seen Goal

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials said Tuesday Red China is seeking to create new Far East military tensions to bolster its claim to a seat at any big power East-West conference.

This is the considered view of authorities who have been carefully watching the build-up of Chinese Communist airpower opposite the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

An estimated 250 Soviet-built MIG jet planes have been moved into five previously unoccupied airfields on the mainland coast near Fukien. This has aroused fears among Nationalist leaders on Formosa that it may be a prelude to an attack against the offshore islands and perhaps even Formosa.

American intelligence officials do not share this alarm, however. They believe it more likely that the Peiping military moves, accompanied by tougher anti-Western propaganda, are aimed at political rather than military objectives.

Peiping leaders are deliberately whipping up a war scare, these officials said, hoping this would get party chief Mao Tze-tung an invitation to any high-level meeting. Some nations might favor this, it is believed, on the theory that Mao might be persuaded at any such parley to call off any war preparations.

Ike News Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will hold a news conference at 10:30 a.m. e.d.t. Wednesday, the White House said Tuesday.

Scouting Museum

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP) —The Boy Scouts of America Tuesday announced plans to build a museum to house historical items of scouting.

The museum is a gift of Gale F. Johnston, St. Louis banker and vice president of the BSA since 1951. It will be a memorial in honor of his late wife.

Construction of the one-story brick building will begin this fall with dedication during 1960, the 50th anniversary of the organization.

Rickover Will Represent Ike At Nautilus Welcome

Admiral Gets Promise Of Third Star

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover won a promise of a third star Tuesday and an appointment as President Eisenhower's personal representative at the homecoming of the atomic submarine Nautilus from its epic North Pole voyage.

The Navy confirmed a Newsweek Magazine interview in which Navy Secretary Thomas S. Gates said he was sure he can promote Rickover, a frequent Navy storm center, to the three-star rank of vice admiral. But he said it "will take a little while."

The President's designation of Rickover, the so-called "father" of the A-sub, to greet the Nautilus in New York Monday apparently was to make amends for not inviting him to White House ceremonies Aug. 8 announcing the submarine's historic under-ice voyage.

The White House said the President acted on the advice of Gates, who previously apologized to Rickover for omitting him from the White House invitation list. The ommission provoked protests from Rickover supporters in Congress.

These congressmen also have warned that Rickover would be forced to retire from the Navy unless he receives a promotion next year. But the Navy has said he can be retained in his present rank on a year-to-year basis.

New Space Agency's Top Officials Sworn In

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drs. Thomas K. Glennan and Hugh L. Dryden were sworn in at a brief White House ceremony Tuesday as the two top officials of the government's new space agency.

President Eisenhower attended the ceremony, the first double swearing-in since he became President.

Glennan took the oath as administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Dryden was sworn as deputy administrator.

The Senate probers confronted Costello with the testimony of two witnesses linking him with the missing fortune.

Capt. John Doherty, a St. Louis detective, had testified a short time earlier that police believe Costello has the money.

The divorced wife of Robert (Barney) Baker, a Midwest boss of the Teamsters Union, also swore that Baker once told her Costello "got the Greenlease money, and that's why he tried to kill himself."

"I may get killed for telling," Mrs. Baker, a plump red-haired woman, added. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark), assured her the committee would undertake to protect her.

When 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City was kidnapped and slain in 1953 his parents paid a $600,000 ransom. About half of it was recovered when the two kidnappers were arrested but the rest is still missing.

Doherty said four men are believed to be involved with the money. He listed them as Costello, John Hager, a driver for Costello's Ace Cab Co. in St. Louis; and two former St. Louis policemen, Lt. Louis Shoulders and patrolman Elmer Dolan.

Hager furnished the tip which led to the arrest of Carl Austin Hall, one of the kidnapers, and Shoulders and Dolan made the arrests.

Costello is now appealing a federal conviction on charges of transporting guns illegally across state lines.

He wouldn't say whether he knows James R. Hoffa, international president of the Teamsters, Barney Baker and a variety of underworld figures with whom his name has been linked in prior testimony.

East-West Experts Agree On Atom Test Detection System

GENEVA (AP)—Scientists from both sides of the Iron Curtain agreed Tuesday on a technical system to spot violations if governments ban the testing of nuclear weapons. The system could include earth satellites.

The 16 scientists from eight nations did not attempt to reach any political decisions on whether there should be an agreement to halt atomic and H-bomb tests.

So far as is known they did not even discuss one of the most difficult political questions — whether Red China should be included in the control system.

Details of the agreement, reached in seven weeks of secret talks were not disclosed. Sources close to the conference said these would not be revealed until they have been studied by the governments represented here.

The final report on the conference, which may be agreed upon before the end of the week may be published later as a formal notification by the eight governments to the U. N. General Assembly.

The conference began July 1 after the Soviet Union had threatened to boycott it. Moscow insisted that the United States agree beforehand to ban its tests if a technical conference showed detection of sneak experiments was feasible.

The United States refused. When the West sent its scientist delegates here anyway, the Communist bloc showed up.

The agreement was announced as Britain warned that a wide area around Christmas Island in the Pacific again would be a danger area beginning Wednesday because of a new series of nuclear tests.

Just a week ago the United States carried out the second of its stratospheric nuclear missile tests above Johnson Island in the Pacific. The Soviet Union announced a ban on its own tests last March.

The Geneva conference has three scientists from the United States, two from Britain and one each from Canada and France. Dr. James B. Fisk heads the American delegation.

Triton, Mighty Radar Picket Sub, Launched

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The atomic powered Triton, mightiest submarine ever built, slid massively but easily into the water Tuesday in a spectacular ceremony.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, Atlantic Fleet commander, said the Triton with her powerful radar for spotting enemy aircraft will roam "to the distant corners of the earth."

She will be "a nuclear-propelled, invisible, electronic brain hundreds of miles in advance of our atomic strike fleet always ready to guide and direct its atomic delivery forces," said Wright, principal speaker at the ceremony.

And, from Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover, often called the father of atomic submarines, came a message saying the Triton was a symbol of the future day when even the big capital ships of the U. S. Navy will be submersibles.

The 447-foot, 5,900-ton Triton slipped don the building ways of the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. as smoothly as a canoe slips from a beach.

Tugs edged up, nudged her bow upstream and headed the Triton for the fitting-out dock where several months of work remain to be done.

Among other things, the two nuclear reactors and propulsion machinery will go into her. The reactors, being built in an Atomic Energy Commission laboratory operated by the General Electric Co. at West Milton, N. Y., will develop more shaft horsepower than any other sea-going nuclear plant.

The Triton was the eighth American atomic submarine launched. In all, the United States has a fleet of 33 nuclear subs already built, being built or authorized for construction.

Torch Burning Probe Stymied

DETROIT (AP) — Authorities Tuesday gave up on plans for a possible grand jury investigation of the Frank Kierdorf torch burning after finding no link with a series of violent incidents in Detroit.

"We're back to scratching for the small leads and following them out," said Michigan Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams.

He said after a meeting with prosecutors from three communities that no pattern of organized racketeering could be seen in the fiery death of Kierdorf, Teamsters Union business agent, a fire at a Flint, Mich., dry cleaning plant and 11 explosions in the Detroit area since January.

Missing since Aug. 4, the day his nephew appeared at a hospital with burns over 85 per cent of his body, Herman refused to answer most police questions.

The 68-year-old Herman, himself a former Teamsters Union business agent, passed a lie detector test in which he said he had no prior knowledge of the Flint fire, was not on the scene and had nothing to do with transporting his critically burned nephew to the hospital. He agreed to answer only those questions.

Boy, 13, Escapes Serious Injury In 13-Story Fall

NEW YORK (AP)—A 13-year-old boy fell five stories from the roof of an upper East Side tenement Tuesday and may have escaped serious injury because he struck several clothes lines in his plunge, police said.

The boy, Gilbert Ruiz, was taken to Metropolitan Hospital, where a preliminary examination showed no serious injury.

Airman Satisfies His Curiosity— And Then Some

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Leslie Simms' curiosity about what happens when you press the afterburner button on a jet plane is now satisfied. Completely. And then some.

Simms is a crew chief from Cannon AFB, N.M., who was brought to nearby Nellis AFB for training. He knows that the afterburner is something pilots cut in when they need an extra surge of power. But until Monday he'd never actually pressed the button.

So, according to a Nellis spokesman, Simms' curiosity finally got the best of him while he was taxiing an F100 Super Sabre along a runway. He pressed away, and . . .

Whoosh! the plane rocketed across the runway, off the base, across a highway, spun to a stop, exploded and burned.

The Air Force estimated the loss at a million dollars.

Seat At Big Power Parley Seen Goal

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials said Tuesday Red China is seeking to create new Far East military tensions to bolster its claim to a seat at any big power East-West conference.

This is the considered view of authorities who have been carefully watching the build-up of Chinese Communist airpower opposite the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

An estimated 250 Soviet-built MIG jet planes have been moved into five previously unoccupied airfields on the mainland coast near Fukien. This has aroused fears among Nationalist leaders on Formosa that it may be a prelude to an attack against the offshore islands and perhaps even Formosa.

American intelligence officials do not share this alarm, however. They believe it more likely that the Peiping military moves, accompanied by tougher anti-Western propaganda, are aimed at political rather than military objectives.

Peiping leaders are deliberately whipping up a war scare, these officials said, hoping this would get party chief Mao Tze-tung an invitation to any high-level meeting. Some nations might favor this, it is believed, on the theory that Mao might be persuaded at any such parley to call off any war preparations.

Rickover Will Represent Ike At Nautilus Welcome

Admiral Gets Promise Of Third Star

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover won a promise of a third star Tuesday and an appointment as President Eisenhower's personal representative at the homecoming of the atomic submarine Nautilus from its epic North Pole voyage.

The Navy confirmed a Newsweek Magazine interview in which Navy Secretary Thomas S. Gates said he was sure he can promote Rickover, a frequent Navy storm center, to the three-star rank of vice admiral. But he said it "will take a little while."

The President's designation of Rickover, the so-called "father" of the A-sub, to greet the Nautilus in New York Monday apparently was to make amends for not inviting him to White House ceremonies Aug. 8 announcing the submarine's historic under-ice voyage.

The White House said the President acted on the advice of Gates, who previously apologized to Rickover for omitting him from the White House invitation list. The ommission provoked protests from Rickover supporters in Congress.

These congressmen also have warned that Rickover would be forced to retire from the Navy unless he receives a promotion next year. But the Navy has said he can be retained in his present rank on a year-to-year basis.

New Space Agency's Top Officials Sworn In

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drs. Thomas K. Glennan and Hugh L. Dryden were sworn in at a brief White House ceremony Tuesday as the two top officials of the government's new space agency.

President Eisenhower attended the ceremony, the first double swearing-in since he became President.

Glennan took the oath as administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Dryden was sworn as deputy administrator.

Soviet Interference Could Cause Chaos Or War, Dulles Says

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles told AFL-CIO leaders Tuesday that continued Soviet interference in affairs of other nations could lead to chaos or war.

Dulles gave a private luncheon briefing to members of the AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting here in the Pocono Mountains.

They said 11th hour opposition by Mitchell helped kill a general labor bill in Congress Monday and was obviously politically inspired.

AFL - CIO President George Meany indicated he plans to criticize Mitchell to his face when the labor secretary visits with the AFL-CIO bosses here Thursday.

In Washington, Mitchell issued a statement calling the council remarks about him unwarranted. He said "nothing could be further from the truth" that the statement that he was opposed to constructive labor reform legislation.

Mitchell said he had "fought consistently for effective, thorough and fair congressional action." He said he had helped get improvements in the labor bill when it was in the Senate and had repeatedly urged the House to make even more changes to make it "a sound bill."

Of his meeting with Meany, Mitchell added, "I look forward" to it.

The AFL-CIO statement said the Senate-passed labor bill had been killed by what it called an unholy alliance of business groups, reactionary Republicans, and the Teamsters and United Mine Workers unions—labor groups outside the AFL-CIO fold.

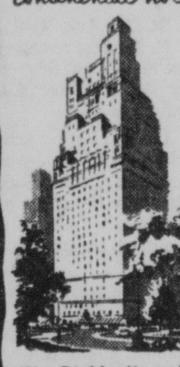

Dulles made a special trip here from the emergency United Nations session in New York to meet with the labor leaders at a closed luncheon session.

Businessmen Become Party In Zoning Suit

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Owners of two gas stations and a restaurant were authorized Tuesday to join a contest by the State Roads Commission to exclude itself from county zoning laws.

Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson approved intervention by owners in a suit by which the commission asks immunity from the zoning regulations of Anne Arundel.

The petition to intervene was filed by attorneys Hyman A. Pressman, Milton Talkin and C. Bowie Rose on behalf of William Lyons, who operates an Odenton service station; O'Lexey's Auto Service Inc. located on Maryland 175; and Arthur J. Steiner, operator of the Captain's Table restaurant on U. S. 50.

The three establishments are located near where the state proposes to construct and lease a service station-restaurant facility on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway.

The roads commission had requested rezoning of the proposed site from agriculture to heavy commerce. Then it decided it was not subject to the county zoning laws and filed a suit to determine the question.

The SRC suit named the county commissioners, the planning and zoning commission and the planning administrator as defendants. It claimed the SRC is an agency of the sovereign state and "enjoys the immunity of such sovereign from . . . local laws. . ."

In asking to intervene as defendants, the three businessmen said the SRC is attempting "to clothe (a) private filling station operator and private restaurant operator with governmental immunity."

The proposed service facility, the first of its kind in Maryland, would cost more than one million dollars and would be leased to private interests on a bid basis.

The petition for intervention said the SRC plan would give the successful bidders an "unlawful, unfair and discriminatory advantage over their competitors" and would cause the petitioners a loss of profits.

The petitioners claimed they had an additional interest in the SRC suit because granting the declaratory decree sought by the SRC would deprive them of their right to protest the proposed zoning change.

3 Of 4 Fugitives Are Recaptured

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three Patuxent Institution fugitives were recaptured Tuesday while a fourth prisoner, believed to be armed with a stick of dynamite, remained at large.

Robert C. Caple, 22, and George J. Crisp, 22, were found by a Pennsylvania Railroad policeman after they parked a stolen car too close to the railroad tracks along Eastern Avenue here.

Officer George Kraft forced Caple to surrender at gunpoint, but Crisp fled as Kraft fired a warning shot over his head.

The other fugitives, James C. Combs, 28, and William Starkey Jr., 20, were recaptured early Tuesday walking along Windsor Mill Road near where Starkey lived.

Crisp was believed to be carrying a stick of dynamite stolen Monday night from a construction construction company office in Baltimore County.

High School Must Admit Negro Girl

BALTIMORE (AP) — Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen ordered the St. Mary's County Board of Education Tuesday to admit a Negro girl to the high school at Great Mills where only whites have attended in the past.

The county board eliminated segregation in its elementary schools last year and will do the same in junior high schools next month.

Judge Thomsen previously had approved this plan as more than complying with the deliberate speed of school integration directed by the Supreme Court of the United States.

However, he could see no "legally sufficient justification for denying" Joan Elaine Groves her "constitutional right" to attend the high school with whites.

Courting Duck Receives Only Glassy Stare

EAST ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Charlie the drake is in love but his sweetie doesn't give a quack about him. She can't. She's made of clay.

For years, the William Alwells have had a ceramic duck and three ducklings posed in a frozen family group on the front lawn of their home.

Then, the other day, along came Charlie.

Two passers - by first spotted him making passes and quacking at the ceramic duck who just gazed stonily ahead. The Alwells, who have no idea where Charlie came from, first tried to discourage Charlie's attentions but finally gave in and gave him both a name and food.

Charlie has come courting every day since, undismayed that his darling's feet are made of clay.

Influence Curb Bill Shelved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Commerce Committee, faced by the congressional adjournment rush, Tuesday shelved its own first-step bill to curb political pressure on federal regulatory agencies.

The committee buried the measure for this year by failing to act on it at its final executive session for 1958. But members predicted it would be revived next year as part of "a comprehensive attack on the problem."

The legislation was the first to be proposed as a result of hearings by the group's influence - investigating subcommittee on the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and other agencies.

The bill would hit at abuses uncovered by the subcommittee before it turned to charges of an influence-for - favors relationship between presidential assistant Sherman Adams and millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Rep. Oren Harris (D - Ark.), chairman of both the subcommittee and the full committee, said the bill was put aside because of lack of time to act on it this session.

However, Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), a subcommittee member, said the bill could just as well be included in "a comprehensive attack on the problem" next year. Other members agreed.

Loyalty Demonstration

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — About 100,000 civilians and army men turned out Tuesday in a demonstration of loyalty to the Shah and his regime. It was the anniversary of the 1953 uprising that overthrew Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, who tried to restrict the Shah's powers.

"Boatel" Part Of D.C. Dream

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 1,000-guest "boatel" and a monorail transportation system are included in a multimillion dollar plan outlined for Southwest Washington Tuesday by O. Roy Chalk.

Chalk, president of D. C. Transit System, estimated the development would cost between $18,500,000 and $27,700,000.

To carry out his dream he has offered to buy from Washington's Redevelopment Land Agency a vast area fronting on the Washington channel between 6th and 12th Sts. S.W. The Washington channel leads from the Potomac River into the Tidal Basin near the White House.

The four main parts of the plan call for a 1,000-guest "boatel" which would provide deluxe as well as dormitory accommodations; a "Williamsburg-type reconstructed early American residenial area" containing about 50 structures; a high-speed fleet of 50 passenger diesel speedboats to carry tourists and commuters to the southwest area of the city, and a monorail transit system from the Capitol area to beyond the Pentagon in Virginia.

Second Quarter Business Pickup Greater Than Originally Thought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported Tuesday that the April-May-June business pickup was slightly greater than federal economic experts thought at first.

The steady rise in spending and income since the slump touched bottom last spring increased official concern that inflation is becoming a bigger economic threat than recession.

The Commerce Department, in a new report for the second three months of 1958, said:

—Total spending on goods and services was at an annual rate of 429 billion dollars, a rise of one billion over the previous preliminary estimate.

—Personal income increased by $2,500,000,000 from April through June, rising to an all - time peak in July.

—The spending figure — known as the "gross national product"—exceeded the $425,800,000,000 rate of January through March. However, it was well below the all-time high rate of 446 billion dollars in the third quarter of 1957, just before the recession.

—Personal consumption rose in the second quarter of this year. Factory purchases also increased as merchants used more new goods and less stock on hand.

—Spending at all levels of government climbed $1,500,000,000 from the first quarter to an annual rate of 91 billion dollars — four billion higher than in the third quarter of 1957.

Net foreign trade receipts remained unchanged, the report said.

The legislation was the first to be proposed as a result of hearings by the group's influence - investigating subcommittee on the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and other agencies.

The bill would hit at abuses uncovered by the subcommittee before it turned to charges of an influence-for - favors relationship between presidential assistant Sherman Adams and millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Rep. Oren Harris (D - Ark.), chairman of both the subcommittee and the full committee, said the bill was put aside because of lack of time to act on it this session.

However, Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), a subcommittee member, said the bill could just as well be included in "a comprehensive attack on the problem" next year. Other members agreed.

Loyalty Demonstration

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — About 100,000 civilians and army men turned out Tuesday in a demonstration of loyalty to the Shah and his regime. It was the anniversary of the 1953 uprising that overthrew Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, who tried to restrict the Shah's powers.

"Boatel" Part Of D.C. Dream

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 1,000-guest "boatel" and a monorail transportation system are included in a multimillion dollar plan outlined for Southwest Washington Tuesday by O. Roy Chalk.

Chalk, president of D. C. Transit System, estimated the development would cost between $18,500,000 and $27,700,000.

To carry out his dream he has offered to buy from Washington's Redevelopment Land Agency a vast area fronting on the Washington channel between 6th and 12th Sts. S.W. The Washington channel leads from the Potomac River into the Tidal Basin near the White House.

The four main parts of the plan call for a 1,000-guest "boatel" which would provide deluxe as well as dormitory accommodations; a "Williamsburg-type reconstructed early American residenial area" containing about 50 structures; a high-speed fleet of 50 passenger diesel speedboats to carry tourists and commuters to the southwest area of the city, and a monorail transit system from the Capitol area to beyond the Pentagon in Virginia.

Nixon Says Bertha Adkins' Experience In GOP Politics "Factor On Plus Side"

Salisbury, Md., Woman Assumes $21,000-A-Year HEW Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon said Tuesday experience in partisan politics would be "a factor on the plus side" for Bertha Adkins, new under secretary of health, education and welfare.

The vice president and Mrs. Nixon were among those who joined some 500 persons in an unusually elaborate swearing-in ceremony for Miss Adkins, 52-year-old former assistant chairman of Republican National Committee.

She was named to the $21,000-a-year job July 21 by President Eisenhower.

Instead of the usual simple ceremony for such officials, the Salisbury, Md. woman took the oath in the HEW auditorium, which was filled with well-wishers who lined up later to shake her hand.

Nixon said there were some who might think her recent experience in partisan politics might have a tendency to inhibit her doing an effective job.

But he said he was one who believed such an interest in public affairs should in no way disqualify anyone from serving in a position such as Miss Adkins has taken on.

In fact, he added, her experience working with people throughout the country "is a factor on the plus side rather than on the negative side." He predicted she would do an effective job.

Miss Adkins won unanimous approval from the Senate for her appointment, but there have been some partisan politics charges over the naming of Mrs. Barbara Gunderson of Rapid City, S. D. to the Civil Service Commission. Mrs. Gunderson is a member of the GOP National Committee.

Miss Adkins, in a voice filled with emotion, promised: "I will give this job all my energies."

The oath was administered by her boss, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, who only recently was made head of the department.

She paid tribute to her father, Fred P. Adkins, as the one "who has given me insight, standards and who has through his lifetime exemplified public service done by private individuals in a voluntary capacity."

Miss Adkins concluded her remarks with the smiling comment: "Women are wonderful," adding:

"I am but a symbol, I think, of the recognition that women can perhaps be helpful in this role which I am assuming."

Among the first to greet Miss Adkins with a kiss and presenting a bunch of roses tied with an orange ribbon, was 4½-year-old Todd Williams, a former Washington next-door neighbor. His mother, Mrs. Richard N. Williams, said Miss Adkins was practically Todd's godmother and was "the highest unpaid babysitter that ever existed."

BTC Move To Cut Service Opposed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro has instructed the city's Law Department to oppose a move by the Baltimore Transit Co. to reduce its transit service.

He made the statement after a Tuesday conference with Transit Commissioner Henry Barnes and Acting City Solicitor Hugo Ricciuti.

The BTC has asked the Public Service Commission for authority to cut back some of its lines.

"It is now obvious," D'Alesandro said, "that the Baltimore Transit Co. has embarked upon a deliberate program of reduction of service and increased fare rates at the expense of the already beleaguered transit riders.

"This vicious circle at the expense of the riding public must be brought to a halt."

Rains Benefit Most Md. Crops, Slow Harvest

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland and Delaware farmers made good use of sunny days last week before rains interrupted most harvesting.

The weekly report of the Maryland - Delaware Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday that hay and clover cuttings made slow progress because of rains which started at midweek.

Other crops benefited, however. Corn and soybeans showed excellent progress, and tomatoes for processing were moving in heavy volume.

The Southern Maryland tobacco crop was being topped and harvested. Planting of the fall snap bean crop was about finished throughout the two-state area and watermelon and canteloups continued to move to market in volume.

Most lima bean fields were in excellent condition, and the quality of tomatoes was reported improved, although there was some sunburn and ground rot in a few areas.

Green clover worms were feeding heavily on soybeans on the lower Eastern Shore, and insects were causing trouble in other areas. Corn leaf aphids were reported to be abundant in some Caroline and Queen Annes County corn fields, and corn borer eggs were found in Frederick County.

LAST PLANE DEPARTS

BONN, Germany (UPI) — The last of 14 chartered Super-Constellations airliners in an emergency "air bridge" to Johannesburg left here Tuesday carrying special insecticides to combat a plague of plant lice in South African grain fields. The plague was said to have been the worst in South Africa's history.

Boy Dies In Fall From B&O Train

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —A young boy described as an habitual sleep-walker fell to his death from a fast-moving passenger train some 25 miles east of here late Monday night.

Marvin Lewis, 11, of Washington, D. C., apparently wandered in his sleep through several coaches of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's crack National Limited before finding a door unlocked in one of the coaches.

He died of a fractured skull when he tumbled through the door and his head struck either the side of a tunnel or a rail on the tracks.

He was missed about an hour and 15 minutes after the incident but it was eight hours later before searchers, backtracking for about 60 miles from Clarksburg, W. Va., found the body just inside Silver Run tunnel two miles west of Cairo, W. Va.

Republican Leader Quits Planning Group

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—David Scull, a Republican who last week accused Montgomery County Democrats of playing politics in a planning decision, Tuesday resigned as a member of the Maryland - National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Scull recently was elected chairman of the county's Republican state committee. After his election he offered to resign from the bipartisan planning group but other members urged him to remain.

He said today in a letter to the Montgomery County Council that "subsequent events in this election year have persuaded me, however, that there are those outside the commission who, in an effort to misconstrue forthright decisions of one or more commissioners, would be willing to make a political football of major planning decisions."

Czechs Ban Private Practice Of Medicine

VIENNA (UPI) —The Czechoslovak Communist government has decreed a ban on the private practice of medicine by doctors effective next Jan. 1, Czech newspapers disclosed Monday.

The decree, issued by the Prague health ministry, will abolish one of the last vestigates of capitalist economy in Czechoslovakia.

Prague newspapers said the health ministry had ordered all doctors to close down their private practices by the end of the year. The decree said that no new licenses would be issued for setting up of private practices.

The decree granted a limited exemption to a few university medical professors and lecturers "who in some cases will be granted permission to maintain their private work provided that they also work in the state health service."

Ike Signs GI Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top payment for disability under World War II GI life insurance would be raised from $50 to $100 a month by a bill signed into law by President Eisenhower Monday.

World War II insurance policy holders now can get income up to $5 per $1,000 of insurance in case they become disabled.

The new law raises the disability payment ceiling from $5 to $10 per $1,000 insurance. The limit on the GI insurance is $10,000.

W. Va. Labor Federation Convention Set Sept. 4-5

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Labor Federation AFL-CIO will formulate its 1959 legislative program and discuss its political education program at a special state convention here Sept. 4-5, it was announced Monday.

The organization may also make recommendations regarding candidates in the Nov. 4 general election, according to Glenn Armstrong, state director of the Committee on Political Education (COPE) and administrative assistant to federal president Miles C. Stanley.

Some 350 delegates, representing an estimated 70,000 members in 350 local unions and affiliates, are expected to attend the convention, first since November, 1957, when the AFL and CIO state merger was ratified.

Armstrong said the first day of the convention would be devoted to formulating and discussing the program which the AFL-CIO will sponsor in the 1959 Legislature.

There will be planks on workmen's and unemployment compensation, a state minimum wage law and the state tax structure. The group opposes sales taxes and favors a severance tax or other levies based on ability to pay.

Friday's sessions will be devoted to the COPE program, including registration of federation members, information and education on labor issues, and the stand various candidates have taken on those issues.

Specific recommendations on candidates would be made by the 55-member COPE executive committee, then submitted to the convention for ratification.

W.Va. Conservation Chief Raps "Private Interests"

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia Conservation Director Warden M. Lane said Monday night "private interests" had dictated conservation policies in the state to the detriment of the general welfare.

Addressing West Virginia University's first annual summer workshop on conservation teaching, Lane declared:

"This state cannot long afford to maintain such a listless, unprogressive, destructive way of thinking" toward its natural resources.

"Conservation will become a reality only when government policy, as dictated by the voting public, becomes directed to the basic interests of all the people, for the longest period of time, instead of being dictated by the economic interests of those who influence the policymakers," Lane said.

Lane said a lackadaisical attitude on the part of persons in some areas of the state is partly to blame for such things as stream pollution, erios, "timbering plundering" and "mineral gouging" which he said "wreck the earth and wreak havoc on the people here."

As an example of the cost to the state, Lane said if conservation practices such as those in the northeastern area of the state were followed throughout West Virginia, it could have a billion dollar annual tourist business instead of the present 225 million dollar business.

Czechs Ban Private Practice Of Medicine

VIENNA (UPI) —The Czechoslovak Communist government has decreed a ban on the private practice of medicine by doctors effective next Jan. 1, Czech newspapers disclosed Monday.

The decree, issued by the Prague health ministry, will abolish one of the last vestigates of capitalist economy in Czechoslovakia.

Prague newspapers said the health ministry had ordered all doctors to close down their private practices by the end of the year. The decree said that no new licenses would be issued for setting up of private practices.

The decree granted a limited exemption to a few university medical professors and lecturers "who in some cases will be granted permission to maintain their private work provided that they also work in the state health service."

Ike Signs GI Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top payment for disability under World War II GI life insurance would be raised from $50 to $100 a month by a bill signed into law by President Eisenhower Monday.

World War II insurance policy holders now can get income up to $5 per $1,000 of insurance in case they become disabled.

The new law raises the disability payment ceiling from $5 to $10 per $1,000 insurance. The limit on the GI insurance is $10,000.

W. Va. Labor Federation Convention Set Sept. 4-5

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Labor Federation AFL-CIO will formulate its 1959 legislative program and discuss its political education program at a special state convention here Sept. 4-5, it was announced Monday.

The organization may also make recommendations regarding candidates in the Nov. 4 general election, according to Glenn Armstrong, state director of the Committee on Political Education (COPE) and administrative assistant to federal president Miles C. Stanley.

Some 350 delegates, representing an estimated 70,000 members in 350 local unions and affiliates, are expected to attend the convention, first since November, 1957, when the AFL and CIO state merger was ratified.

Armstrong said the first day of the convention would be devoted to formulating and discussing the program which the AFL-CIO will sponsor in the 1959 Legislature.

There will be planks on workmen's and unemployment compensation, a state minimum wage law and the state tax structure. The group opposes sales taxes and favors a severance tax or other levies based on ability to pay.

Friday's sessions will be devoted to the COPE program, including registration of federation members, information and education on labor issues, and the stand various candidates have taken on those issues.

Specific recommendations on candidates would be made by the 55-member COPE executive committee, then submitted to the convention for ratification.

W.Va. Conservation Chief Raps "Private Interests"

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia Conservation Director Warden M. Lane said Monday night "private interests" had dictated conservation policies in the state to the detriment of the general welfare.

Addressing West Virginia University's first annual summer workshop on conservation teaching, Lane declared:

"This state cannot long afford to maintain such a listless, unprogressive, destructive way of thinking" toward its natural resources.

"Conservation will become a reality only when government policy, as dictated by the voting public, becomes directed to the basic interests of all the people, for the longest period of time, instead of being dictated by the economic interests of those who influence the policymakers," Lane said.

Lane said a lackadaisical attitude on the part of persons in some areas of the state is partly to blame for such things as stream pollution, erios, "timbering plundering" and "mineral gouging" which he said "wreck the earth and wreak havoc on the people here."

As an example of the cost to the state, Lane said if conservation practices such as those in the northeastern area of the state were followed throughout West Virginia, it could have a billion dollar annual tourist business instead of the present 225 million dollar business.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures prices closed in mixed tones Tuesday, with mostly heavy to easy levels on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed off ½ to 1⅜ cents; corn (old) up ½ to off ⅛ cent; (new) off ⅛ to ⅜ cent; oats up ¼ to off ⅛ cent; rye off ¾ to 1⅛ cents; soybeans up ½ to off ¼ cent.

Declines led September and December wheat contracts down to seasonal record low prices today. Many observers believed long liquidation and strong hedge selling were responsible for the market's weakness. As the scale was marked down, there was moderate commercial buying. The northwest crop movement was reported heavy as favorable threshing weather brightened the skies. Yugoslavia's reported purchase of 700,000 bushels of red wheat was the only export business noted.

After an active opening, corn activity slowed to a walk and became progressively quiet. There was only a fair commission house trade and various export houses were reported interested in the new December option.

And easiness softened up the soybean trade, although cash house buyers gave some strength to the September delivery. Favorable crop conditions caused a selling trend in most deferred contracts. Commercial houses concentrated on the November delivery. The range:

Stock Market Advances After Two-Day Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some favorable business news helped to push the stock market into higher ground Tuesday after two sessions of fairly sharp decline. Volume failed to match Monday's pace.

A Commerce Department report pinpointing an economic recovery in the second quarter helped to shape market sentiment. The report showed that key economic barometers such as gross national product, personal income and consumer spending in the April-June quarter over the initial three months of the year.

In reversing the two-day decline the market generally ignored another increase in short-term money rates. The rise in interest rates and other tighter money market signs had been blamed for the declines suffered on Friday and Monday.

Steels featured among the major groups. Gains in this group ran to 2 points at the highs but profit - taking late in the session left most of the leaders only fractionally higher at the close. This group was helped by rising production and signs that some steel users are starting to replenish their depleted inventories.

Studebaker-Packard led the market in turnover, although it closed unchanged at 6½. The firm's president, Harold E. Churchill, announced that a series of agreements have been signed covering a refinancing program. He said this program will enable the company to carry out a more effective marketing program, including a small car that will be introduced in November. Studebaker-Packard also will conduct a diversification program.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures prices closed in mixed tones Tuesday, with mostly heavy to easy levels on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed off ⅛ to 1⅜ cents; corn (old) up ½ to off ⅛ cent; (new) off ⅛ to ⅜ cent; oats up ¼ to off ⅛ cent; rye off ¾ to 1⅛ cents; soybeans up ½ to off ¼ cent.

Declines led September and December wheat contracts down to seasonal record low prices today. Many observers believed long liquidation and strong hedge selling were responsible for the market's weakness. As the scale was marked down, there was moderate commercial buying. The northwest crop movement was reported heavy as favorable threshing weather brightened the skies. Yugoslavia's reported purchase of 700,000 bushels of red wheat was the only export business noted.

After an active opening, corn activity slowed to a walk and became progressively quiet. There was only a fair commission house trade and various export houses were reported interested in the new December option.

And easiness softened up the soybean trade, although cash house buyers gave some strength to the September delivery. Favorable crop conditions caused a selling trend in most deferred contracts. Commercial houses concentrated on the November delivery. The range:

A Commerce Department report pinpointing an economic recovery in the second quarter helped to shape market sentiment. The report showed that key economic barometers such as gross national product, personal income and consumer spending in the April-June quarter over the initial three months of the year.

In reversing the two-day decline the market generally ignored another increase in short-term money rates. The rise in interest rates and other tighter money market signs had been blamed for the declines suffered on Friday and Monday.

Steels featured among the major groups. Gains in this group ran to 2 points at the highs but profit - taking late in the session left most of the leaders only fractionally higher at the close. This group was helped by rising production and signs that some steel users are starting to replenish their depleted inventories.

Studebaker-Packard led the market in turnover, although it closed unchanged at 6½. The firm's president, Harold E. Churchill, announced that a series of agreements have been signed covering a refinancing program. He said this program will enable the company to carry out a more effective marketing program, including a small car that will be introduced in November. Studebaker-Packard also will conduct a diversification program.

Interfaith Friction Develops Over Birth Control Queston

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The runaway population boom, in this country and elsewhere, has underscored the issue.

In the intensified atmosphere, Roman Catholics are re-emphasizing the church's firm opposition to artificial means of contraception.

On the other hand, several major Protestant denominations have made formal pronouncements, expressly approving birth control under certain conditions.

Church journals and speeches are analyzing the question.

There, the still unresolved controversy is over an unwritten policy barring doctors from prescribing birth control measures in municipal hospitals.

The problem came to light in the case of a physician stopped by an order of Hospital Commissioner Morris A. Jacobs from fitting a diabetic Protestant woman with a contraceptive device.

Catholic groups have applauded the policy, terming it in keeping with natural law and morality in marriage.

Protestant and Jewish groups have protested it, mainly on the ground that one religious group's views should not be imposed on the others of different views in public hospitals.

The city is about 45 per cent Roman Catholic, the rest divided into smaller Protestant, Orthodox and Jewish segments and other persuasions.

A review of the problem by the Hospitals Board is set for Sept. 17.

Neither city nor state law forbids dissemination of birth control information and treatment. Two states in the country do have such laws — heavily Catholic Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The immediate controversy in New York, however, is only a localized outbreak of heightened religious concern with the issue.

With population experts predicting the human race will double in the next 40 years, straining means of subsistence, the question has developed social as well as individual religious implications.

"Whether we all end up in a world slum or not is going to depend on how sensibly and energetically we tackle the problem," says the Rev. William J. Gibbons of Loyola College, Baltimore, a leading Catholic demographer.

But he and other Catholics stress that other answers must be found than artificial birth control, which is prohibited by papal encyclical and constant Catholic teaching as a violation of the God-ordained natural law of life.

Amid the growing concern with the matter, several major Protestant churches, for the first time, have given official endorsement to birth control at recent national conventions. Said the United Lutheran church: "Irresponsible conception of children up to the limit of biological capacity and selfish limitation of the number of children are equally detrimental."

Others which have formally sanctioned birth control or "planned parenthood" are:

The Methodist Church, the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the Congregational Christian Church, the Augustana Lutheran Church, the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Unitarians and Universalists and the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

Huntington Airman To Get Hero's Award

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First Lt. Robert M. Kerr of Huntington, W. Va., will receive the Air Force's annual award for bravery in a ceremony here Thursday, Sen. Chapman Revercomb (R-W. Va.) said Monday.

The Chaney Award will be presented Kerr by Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White at 11 a. m. e. s. t. He was cited for his feat of safely landing a jet plane without any prior flying experience after the pilot "blacked out."

The incident occurred earlier this year at Yokata Air Force Base in Japan, where Kerr was assigned to the 67th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing.

Kerr took over the controls of the T-33 trainer and brought it down at night with the aid of instructions by radio. He was an observer on the plane.

War Clouds Recede Into Word Battle

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

A month ago a strained world was listening for the reverberations from the Iraqi revolt and the boldest American diplomatic effort since the Korean War.

The West was demonstrating, with American Marines in Lebanon and British troops in Jordan, that it would fight for its interest if necessary.

Eyes were glued to Baghdad, to see whether such a necessity would be attached to the change of government there.

The nuclear bombers were up, ready for any call. The fleets around the world were alerted.

The British Prime Minister flew to Washington. In an atmosphere which thrummed like taut wires in a wind, the traditional alliance which had been strained since the Suez crisis was fully renewed.

The Soviet Union was grumbling, her troops near the Turkish border.

The world searched the skies for portent. Were those clouds taking the form of mushrooms?

But everybody stood fast. Nobody made a misstep. Deeds had been committed, but the cold war turned back to words.

Realizing that the final, vital issue of survival had not yet been posed, opposing nations once more turned to the United Nations and started beating out a compromise.

Whatever form this compromise finally takes, war between the great powers has, in this month, been put aside as an immediate issue.

The U.N. General Assembly debate promises to produce little more than another round of negotiations between its secretary general and the Middle Eastern governments.

There still does not seem to be sufficient support for a U.N. military force to keep the peace, but the crisis has produced gains for that general idea.

There is grave doubt that sufficient Arab cohesion can be put behind the Eisenhower suggestion for cooperative economic development. Indeed, the suggestion is not new. The idea has been kicking around under the feet of Arab politics ever since the war.

There is encouragement, however, in the general recognition that even indecision is better than war.

"Hits" Force Las Vegas Casino To Shut Down

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—One of this gambling resort's plush casinos closed down for a time Monday because of a shortage of funds.

A spokesman said a series of heavy winners had reduced the gaming room nest egg at the Tropicana Hotel to the point where it was feared another big winner could not be paid.

The owners provided a financial transfusion a few hours later, however, and the dice started rolling again.

Council Accepts Routine Reports

The Mayor and Council Monday accepted a report showing water consumption was normal last week and that Lake Gordon was three feet, one inch below the crest, while Lake Koon was half an inch above.

Parking meter receipts for the week of August 10 totaled $833.80, an increase of $30.90 over the week before.

City Hall To Close On Labor Day

City Hall will be closed Labor Day, September 1, and the regular meeting of the Mayor and Council will be held Tuesday, September 2.

William R. Carscaden, city attorney, was instructed by the council to prepare a resolution of respect to the memory of Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, who died Sunday in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Bomb Damages Club

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, (AP)—A powerful bomb damaged a club in downtown Buenos Aires early Monday. There were no casualties. The club, a meeting place for naval officers, was deserted at the time.

Output Of Steel Due To Rise 7th Straight Week

NEW YORK (UPI) —Steel production this week is slated to score its seventh straight weekly advance, reaching the highest level since last December, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated Monday.

Demand for steel has been rising in line with the improvement in industrial production.

Output for this week is expected to hit 1,678,000 tons, which would be equivalent to 62.2 per cent of rated capacity and 104.5 per cent of the 1947-49 production average.

Actual production last week, rising for the sixth straight week, totaled 1,632,000 tons. This was a gain of 46,000 tons over the previous week but was some 24,000 tons below the estimate for the period. Actual output last week was equal to 60.5 per cent of capacity and 101.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

A month ago production of 1,546,000 tons was equivalent to an operating rate of 57.3 per cent and an index of 96.2 per cent. A year ago the mills operated at 82.1 per cent of the then rated capacity and produced 2,101,000 tons. The index was 130.8.

This week's estimated output would be the best for any week since Dec. 16, 1957, when the mills produced 1,742,000 tons.

The truck trailer business was founded in 1912 and enjoyed its first big boom during World War I.

W.Va. Man Found Dead In Orchard

The Preston County, W. Va., man who was under investigation in the fatal shooting of a 14-year-old boy was found dead Sunday in a neighbor's apple orchard.

The body of Ersel J. Shaffer, of Corinth, was found hanging from a tree. The body was found by a searching party of which his young son was a member, according to James Dailey, prosecuting attorney for Preston County.

Shaffer had been under an official inquiry into the shooting of Donnie Bowser, 14, which occurred on the Shaffer farm on August 10. Dailey said Shaffer had been in Kingwood Friday and had agreed to take a lie detector test to support his story that the shooting of the Bowser boy had been accidental.

The man had been quoted as saying that he believed he was shooting at a stray dog in the grass and that the second of the .22 caliber bullets had struck the boy in the head. The grass was about three feet high and Shaffer has said that he was unaware the boy was in the grass.

Shaffer was last seen at about 7 a. m. Sunday when he told William Stewart, a neighbor, that he was going up into Stewart's apple orchard. At noon, when Shaffer had failed to return to his home, a search was begun, and Stewart and Shaffer's son, Darrel, went to the orchard.

Shaffer had been free on $1,000 bond and was due to appear before the October term circuit court grand jury at Kingwood.

Shaffer was the son of the late James and Ethel (Smith) Shaffer.

He is survived by his widow, Ida (Resyal) Shaffer; two children, Deloris and Darrel, both at home; two sisters, Mrs. Thelma Singleton of Clarksburg, and Mrs. Wilda Allen of Vienna, and one brother, Willis Shaffer of Steubenville, O.

Sound Budget Is Urged For City By Mrs. Roeder

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder said yesterday that in bringing the city's budget into its proper perspective "We must also maintain a sound balance among those services which citizens enjoy even in the smallest of our country's communities."

Mrs. Roeder said the people of Cumberland have indicated by their vote in June that they wanted the administration to practice economy and she endorsed the conservative approach.

Noting that government costs, department personnel, population and services have increased since 1940, Mrs. Roeder said that in that period the expense of operation mounted faster than the city had means to add to its income.

"How then can the city keep adding to its personnel and providing extra services when it does not increase its revenue? The people have ruled they are not in favor of more taxes by defeating a proposal to increase the tax limitation last August and by rejecting the $500,000 bond issue in the last general election. At the same time they were heard to urge more economy and insist that certain services be decreased in some way," she said.

Then she added: "Since the city deals mostly in labor (personnel) rather than materials, any retrenchment has to be done in that field."

She pointed out the city had $130,900 less surplus to begin this fiscal year, there was no increase in revenue but expenses went up.

"As a result, cuts which have been made were tailored to suit the money we have and the anticipated revenue. We have taken a conservative view of the revenue anticipated and the economy might have been carried further but for projects to which the city was committed by the previous administration including the new Armory, Cumberland Thruway, relocation of utilities in connection with the Thruway, and the Housing Project. Meanwhile, we are trying to find out just what the cost of these projects plus other improvement programs will cost.

"Naturally, a bond issue has to be considered. But in my opinion this is not the time because we do not know how much we want to borrow. In the second place, it would be poor economy to borrow a little now and then find more is needed later. It would be better to borrow all at once and let some of the money work for you by drawing interest while various projects are completed," she said.

Noting there has been talk the city is considering long-range financial planning, Mrs. Roeder said it is not only being considered but has started with balancing of the budget conservatively as the first step.

Referring to a change of policy in regard to services, Mrs. Roeder said council should first "think it out" and have something better to propose.

She said the first step has been taken to erase the city's "down at the heels" physical appearance by providing $36,000 for special projects in the budget. The city has had no general improvement bond issue since 1920 and "while our efforts in this budget are only a drop in the bucket, the fact that a step toward future improvements has been taken brightens the outlook somewhat," she continued.

Mrs. Roeder said she wanted to clarify her position on certain matters and correct wrong impressions she said had arisen from reports of budget sessions.

"Let me state I am heartily in favor of retaining the school crossing guards, recreation, improvement of library facilities and a pay raise for city employes."

Then she listed each as follows:

Recreation: "I can say that sufficient money was provided to carry out the present summer program without curtailing it ahead of schedule. We did not force the playgrounds to close early."

Library: "I feel we should continue our study toward getting it into the position of being eligible for state and federal aid and eventually bringing it under jurisdiction of the county. This would eventually relieve the city of its responsibility."

Pay raise: "A pay raise for employes is long past due especially in the face of the continued rise in the cost of living. A raise should be granted when the citizens make it possible for us to do so. But I think such pay raises should be based upon the volume of work required and that actually produced."

County Board Hears Several Complaints

The meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday was routine with only two complaints on roads and a number of minor matters being considered by the commissioners.

Raymond Drake, a resident of Hazen Road, appeared before the board to urge that something be done about a deep ditch along Mill Run Road at its intersection with the Hazen Road.

Drake said that the intersection is dangerous and that many times cars which meet at that point are forced into the ditch, which he said is about three feet deep.

Drake said the roadway is only 15 feet wide and the drivers of cars emerging from the Hazen Road into Mill Run Road have poor visibility.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he would visit the scene to ascertain the conditions. Both commissioners promised to have the situation remedied. Drake also said the county board should consider designating various roads with signs for the convenience of persons unfamiliar with roads throughout the county rural area.

Howard Malcolm contacted Commissioner Wilkinson to ask that the brush along the Malcolm Road in the Little Orleans section be cut. He said the brush has encroached upon the right of way and has made driving dangerous. The matter was referred to Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor.

Activities Are Continued For City's Playgrounds

While playgrounds are closed, activities are continuing and the Recreation Department announced yesterday it is beginning a free swim program at Constitution Park today.

All children registered on the playgrounds will be offered two days of free swimming, one this week and another next week. Swim periods will be from 10 a. m. to noon and the department will furnish personnel including lifeguards and assistant lifeguards.

Group 1 (southern) will swim today and next Monday, August 25. Group 2 (northern) will swim Thursday and next Wednesday, August 27.

The northern group is composed of North End, Centre Street, Columbia Street, Gephart, Mt. Royal, Ridgedale and West Side playgrounds.

In the Recreation Department's swimming program during the summer, 644 children from the playgrounds who were eight years old or over, took the 10-lesson program. A large number received certificates from the Red Cross.

Meanwhile, playgrounds, through the cooperation of department-trained, volunteer help, are continuing activities, mostly in the evening. The department is also furnishing necessary equipment.

At Centre Street, there will be a pre-teen party today at 7 p. m. Award ribbons for the season will be presented tonight. Mrs. Margaret Buzzard is playground director and announced that a hayride will be conducted Saturday evening under the supervision of Mrs. Dorothy Heavener, department supervisor.

East Side had a rock 'n' roll dance last night and the playground has continued the evening program. Today a volleyball playoff between boys' and girls' teams is scheduled; a square dance Thursday and hayride Friday.

Mapleside is planning a festival Thursday, August 28 directed by the president of the Playground Association, Mrs. Shirley Goss, and her committee.

At Gephart, tennis nets have been left in place and courts are available for play. Some tennis tourney playoffs are being conducted there by David LaFon, instructor.

Sound Budget Is Urged For City By Mrs. Roeder

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder said yesterday that in bringing the city's budget into its proper perspective "We must also maintain a sound balance among those services which citizens enjoy even in the smallest of our country's communities."

Mrs. Roeder said the people of Cumberland have indicated by their vote in June that they wanted the administration to practice economy and she endorsed the conservative approach.

Noting that government costs, department personnel, population and services have increased since 1940, Mrs. Roeder said that in that period the expense of operation mounted faster than the city had means to add to its income.

"How then can the city keep adding to its personnel and providing extra services when it does not increase its revenue? The people have ruled they are not in favor of more taxes by defeating a proposal to increase the tax limitation last August and by rejecting the $500,000 bond issue in the last general election. At the same time they were heard to urge more economy and insist that certain services be decreased in some way," she said.

Then she added: "Since the city deals mostly in labor (personnel) rather than materials, any retrenchment has to be done in that field."

She pointed out the city had $130,900 less surplus to begin this fiscal year, there was no increase in revenue but expenses went up.

"As a result, cuts which have been made were tailored to suit the money we have and the anticipated revenue. We have taken a conservative view of the revenue anticipated and the economy might have been carried further but for projects to which the city was committed by the previous administration including the new Armory, Cumberland Thruway, relocation of utilities in connection with the Thruway, and the Housing Project. Meanwhile, we are trying to find out just what the cost of these projects plus other improvement programs will cost.

"Naturally, a bond issue has to be considered. But in my opinion this is not the time because we do not know how much we want to borrow. In the second place, it would be poor economy to borrow a little now and then find more is needed later. It would be better to borrow all at once and let some of the money work for you by drawing interest while various projects are completed," she said.

Noting there has been talk the city is considering long-range financial planning, Mrs. Roeder said it is not only being considered but has started with balancing of the budget conservatively as the first step.

Referring to a change of policy in regard to services, Mrs. Roeder said council should first "think it out" and have something better to propose.

She said the first step has been taken to erase the city's "down at the heels" physical appearance by providing $36,000 for special projects in the budget. The city has had no general improvement bond issue since 1920 and "while our efforts in this budget are only a drop in the bucket, the fact that a step toward future improvements has been taken brightens the outlook somewhat," she continued.

Mrs. Roeder said she wanted to clarify her position on certain matters and correct wrong impressions she said had arisen from reports of budget sessions.

"Let me state I am heartily in favor of retaining the school crossing guards, recreation, improvement of library facilities and a pay raise for city employes."

Then she listed each as follows:

Recreation: "I can say that sufficient money was provided to carry out the present summer program without curtailing it ahead of schedule. We did not force the playgrounds to close early."

Library: "I feel we should continue our study toward getting it into the position of being eligible for state and federal aid and eventually bringing it under jurisdiction of the county. This would eventually relieve the city of its responsibility."

Pay raise: "A pay raise for employes is long past due especially in the face of the continued rise in the cost of living. A raise should be granted when the citizens make it possible for us to do so. But I think such pay raises should be based upon the volume of work required and that actually produced."

West Virginia Prison Escapee Recaptured

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — An inmate from the State Penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va., who escaped during an outdoor basketball game at Wheeling, W. Va., nearly one month ago was captured without a struggle here Monday by six Pennsylvania and West Virginia detectives.

James F. McGee, 46, a sports writer of the prison paper, The Penscope, had accompanied the prison basketball team to Wheeling where it dropped an 81-39 decision to Yinging Packers of Martins Ferry, Ohio, July 25.

When a check of the prisoners was made after the match, sports writer McGee was missing.

County Board Hears Several Complaints

The meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday was routine with only two complaints on roads and a number of minor matters being considered by the commissioners.

Raymond Drake, a resident of Hazen Road, appeared before the board to urge that something be done about a deep ditch along Mill Run Road at its intersection with the Hazen Road.

Drake said that the intersection is dangerous and that many times cars which meet at that point are forced into the ditch, which he said is about three feet deep.

Drake said the roadway is only 15 feet wide and the drivers of cars emerging from the Hazen Road into Mill Run Road have poor visibility.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he would visit the scene to ascertain the conditions. Both commissioners promised to have the situation remedied. Drake also said the county board should consider designating various roads with signs for the convenience of persons unfamiliar with roads throughout the county rural area.

Howard Malcolm contacted Commissioner Wilkinson to ask that the brush along the Malcolm Road in the Little Orleans section be cut. He said the brush has encroached upon the right of way and has made driving dangerous. The matter was referred to Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor.

Activities Are Continued For City's Playgrounds

While playgrounds are closed, activities are continuing and the Recreation Department announced yesterday it is beginning a free swim program at Constitution Park today.

All children registered on the playgrounds will be offered two days of free swimming, one this week and anotner next week. Swim periods will be from 10 a. m. to noon and the department will furnish personnel including lifeguards and assistant lifeguards.

Group 1 (southern) will swim today and next Monday, August 25. Group 2 (northern) will swim Thursday and next Wednesday, August 27.

The southern group is composed of Thomas S. Post, East Side, Penn Avenue, Pine Avenue, Virginia Avenue, Lamont Street, Mapleside and Johnson Heights playgrounds.

The northern group is composed of North End, Centre Street, Columbia Street, Gephart, Mt. Royal, Ridgedale and West Side playgrounds.

In the Recreation Department's swimming program during the summer, 644 children from the playgrounds who were eight years old or over, took the 10-lesson program. A large number received certificates from the Red Cross.

Meanwhile, playgrounds, through the cooperation of department-trained, volunteer help, are continuing activities, mostly in the evening. The department is also furnishing necessary equipment.

At Centre Street, there will be a pre-teen party today at 7 p. m. Award ribbons for the season will be presented tonight. Mrs. Margaret Buzzard is playground director and announced that a hayride will be conducted Saturday evening under the supervision of Mrs. Dorothy Heavener, department supervisor.

East Side had a rock 'n' roll dance last night and the playground has continued the evening program. Today a volleyball playoff between boys' and girls' teams is scheduled; a square dance Thursday and hayride Friday.

Mapleside is planning a festival Thursday, August 28 directed by the president of the Playground Association, Mrs. Shirley Goss, and her committee.

At Gephart, tennis nets have been left in place and courts are available for play. Some tennis tourney playoffs are being conducted there by David LaFon, instructor.

Policewoman Need Is Cited By Chief Flynn

The need of a policewoman on the City Police Force was stressed yesterday by Chief R. Emmett Flynn, who pointed out that a vast amount of preventive police work is left undone when a department is without a woman police officer.

The chief said it is generally recognized that there is a type of police work which cannot and should not be done by men. The exact scope of a policewoman's work has yet to be determined, he continued, mainly because it has to be determined through a long process of experience.

The appointment of Mrs. Bettie Williams to the force was a step forward in police work, Chief Flynn said, and it is his hope to form a Juvenile Bureau composed of Mrs. Williams and a detective. The formation of such a bureau will be assurance to the people of Cumberland that their children will be given every opportunity to become good citizens, he declared.

Except for very serious offenses, the chief explained, policemen have wide powers to decide who among teen-agers arrested will be referred to a juvenile court, school authorities or welfare agencies. The policeman also decides if youthful offenders will be dealt with by the police themselves, and what, if any, charges are to preferred. Since these decisions are of such importance, they should be made only by a specialist such as a policewoman trained in counseling and with a woman's desire to care for children, Chief Flynn stressed.

A good police officer who is skilled in tracking down criminals is not necessarily skilled in handling delinquent youth, the chief continued, adding that he did not think it just for men to search women's apartments alone or to question young girls.

The chief said it is his considered opinion that a youth specialist, such as a policewoman, should investigate and pass on each such case.

He concluded by stating that it is a significant experience when a youthful offender first comes in contact with the law, and the relationship must be of a type that serves well for the youth's rehabilitation and respect for law and order.

Canal Bill Moves Forward

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to authorize establishment of a Chesapeake & Ohio National Park is scheduled for House Interior Committee consideration Wednesday.

The full committee announced it will meet at 10 a. m. to consider the bill. The measure has been passed by the Senate and was approved Monday by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Gracie Pfost (D-Idaho).

The Senate bill contains a provision that establishment of the 185-mile park along the C & O Canal between Washington and Cumberland would not preclude the construction of a dam or dams on the Potomac River should Congress later authorize such projects.

Opponents of the measure contend establishment of the park should be postponed until Army Engineers have completed a survey for future water supplies.

If approved by the full committee, the bill could be considered by the House through Rules Committee clearance or by being called up under suspension of the rules. Under the latter procedure a two-thirds majority of those voting would be required for passage.

The subcommittee approved both its own and another bill passed by the Senate.

The legislation, as approved, contains a provision that establishment of a park will not prevent construction of dams in the Potomac, should Congress later consider them necessary.

Should the full Committee approve the bill, it could reach the House floor only after the House Rules Committee voted to put it on the calendar or the Speaker of the House asked for a suspension of rules. In the latter event, a two-thirds vote would be required for passage.

During Monday's hearing Charles A. Robinson Jr., staff engineer of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, tried unsuccessfully to have the bill amended to authorize specifically the construction of a hydroelectric dam at River Bend in the Potomac.

He insisted the reservation now in the bill is meaningless. "No matter how you hedge on language," he said, "the conservationists would be in the same position of saying 'this is a national park and you can't flood it."

O'Brien replied: "By writing in this provision, we have served notice to the people that we intend to provide these other things when they become necessary . . . I don't think the conservationists would have a leg to stand on if Congress authorized them."

Ullman explained his lengthy questioning of some earlier witnesses: "I have been interested in getting a complete record here so as to counter the tremendous pressure that might be brought in the future. I feel this amendment will back up the Congress in any action it decides to take later."

The day's second witness, Albert K Herling, said a park should not be created until after Army engineers have finished their current study of water resources in the Potomac Basin. Herling is editor of The Trades Unionists, official newspaper of the Greater Washington Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

Local Man Given Fine

A local man was found guilty of maintaining a health nuisance within the city limits at a hearing yesterday in Police Court.

Magistrate Morris Baron found Gerald Fetterman, 235 Independence Street, guilty and fined him $50.

The Magistrate suspended the fine on condition that the situation is corrected by the end of the month.

Fetterman was accused by the Health Department of maintaining a nuisance. He was charged with housing a large number of chickens, ducks and turkeys on his property.

Four women, who reside in the section, testified that the odor was so strong they were unable to sit on their porches and had to keep doors and windows closed all summer.

Five Wills Admitted To Probate Here

The wills of five persons were admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court, including that of John Parch, 69, who police said killed his wife and then took his own life last week at their home, 7 Bellevue Street.

In his will, signed August 5, eight days before the tragedy, Parch left his estate to his widow, Mrs. Margaret Parch. The will stated that in the event "my wife dies in a common accident with me" the estate was bequeathed to a sister of Mrs. Parch. She was listed as Mrs. Olive V. McAbee, city. It was also provided that Mrs. McAbee was to be executrix of the will in the case of Mrs. Parch's death before Parch.

The will of Mrs. Dorothy I. Robertson, city, who died August 2 in Florida, named Charles Z. Heskett, local attorney, as executor. He posted $25,000 bond yesterday to handle the estate.

Cash bequests were made to Mrs. Naomi Bretz and Mrs. Maude Gibson. The estate was left to George and William Winter, brothers of Mrs. Robertson.

The estate of George W. Keller, city, who died July 21, 1957, was left to a son, Claude S. Keller. A cash bequest was made to Mrs. Virgil Crawford, a daughter. The son is executor of the estate.

The will of Clara Catherine Stegmaier, city, was left to Anna Helen Stegmaier, Rose Mary Stegmaier, and Elizabeth Mary Stegmaier, sisters of the deceased. Anna Helen and Rose Mary Stegmaier are executrices of the estate.

The will of Gracie Anna Lanam, Westernport, named Horace P. Whitworth Jr., attorney, as executor.

Bequests were made to Paul J. Murphy Jr., Westernport, a grandson, and Mary Frances Martin, Baltimore, a granddaughter.

The bulk of the estate was left to Carrie E. Grayson, Philadelphia, a daughter and the five children of Mary Alma Murphy, a deceased sister of Gracie Anna Lanam.

Direct VA Loan Approved

The Veterans Administration is designating all of Allegany County, with the exception of the City of Cumberland, as a housing credit shortage area in which direct loans may be made, "effective at once."

Announcement of the move was made yesterday by Rep. DeWitt Hyde upon the receipt of a letter from W. J. Driver, acting chief benefits director.

Since early in 1957 the local real estate board, veteran organization and Rep. Hyde have been working to get direct loans authorized for Allegany County.

In regard to Cumberland's exception, Driver's notice stated:

"We feel that leaders should be given a reasonable length of time to resume GI activity in areas where loans have been generally available in former years.

"For this reason we are deferring action with respect to the City of Cumberland, ending the possible easing in the supply of mortgage funds during the next two months."

About nine months ago Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, introduced the plan here, with Howard Spiker as chairman.

Direct VA Loan Approved

The Veterans Administration is designating all of Allegany County, with the exception of the City of Cumberland, as a housing credit shortage area in which direct loans may be made, "effective at once."

Announcement of the move was made yesterday by Rep. DeWitt Hyde upon the receipt of a letter from W. J. Driver, acting chief benefits director.

Since early in 1957 the local real estate board, veteran organization and Rep. Hyde have been working to get direct loans authorized for Allegany County.

In regard to Cumberland's exception, Driver's notice stated:

"We feel that leaders should be given a reasonable length of time to resume GI activity in areas where loans have been generally available in former years.

"For this reason we are deferring action with respect to the City of Cumberland, ending the possible easing in the supply of mortgage funds during the next two months."

About nine months ago Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, introduced the plan here, with Howard Spiker as chairman.

Behind The News In Business

by Leslie Gould

NEW YORK—A loophole in the federal securities laws and regulations permits a stock swindler with no conviction in the last 10 years and any man convicted of any other crime—rape to murder—to go into the securities business.

The last N. Y. State Legislature plugged this loophole as to the Empire State.

N. Y. State Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz has taken the first action under this amendment to the State's Martin Act covering securities.

An ex-convict, with a record of 27 arrests dating back to 1932 and including arson, safe-cracking and war frauds and two prison terms for kidnapping and subornation of perjury, was found managing a securities firm operating in the heart of the financial district.

Two months ago the Securities and Exchange Commission obtained a temporary injunction against the firm, the ex-convict and other officers and salesmen.

The firm was charged with running a "boiler shop" operation in the sale of shares in a Canadian mining concern, Shoreland Mines, Ltd.

The SEC in its investigation charged, in connection with the high pressure selling of the mining stock, a phone listed in the name of a Canadian beauty at a Fifth Ave. apartment was used.

The girl in the case—Linda Lord, a beautiful blonde—took the Fifth Amendment when called before the SEC, claiming her "privilege against self-incrimination."

The SEC took an unusual step in its action, getting a restraining order against the firm's salesmen as well as the officers. In the past actions against alleged "boiler shops," nothing was done about the salesmen. They moved with their lists to another firm, often financed by the same individuals as in the closed up shop.

The Attorney General's action is even more significant and can go a long ways to cleaning up the "boiler shops" operating in and on the fringe of the financial district. They use high pressure telephone salesmen, some with criminal records, peddling worthless and near worthless securities to the unsuspecting public.

Hundreds of millions of dollars have been lost by the investing public from here to California and Maine to Florida in the last five years. This column exposed the operation in a series two years ago, having a reporter at the time get a job within one of the "boiler" rooms to get the evidence.

For a time the operators quieted down, but recently they have been active again.

The ridiculous part of the securities laws is that up to now an ex-convict is barred from working on the New York waterfront, but he could sell securities. The SEC rules permit a stock swindler to resume operations 10 years after his conviction. A man, convicted 10 years ago and sent up for nine years, could within one year after leaving prison go back in business at the old stand.

JAPAN PROTESTS TESTS

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan protested to the British government Tuesday over the announcement that Britain would resume its nuclear tests on Christmas Island in the Pacific. The protest note pointed out that Japan previously had demanded a halt to such tests. It said Japan would reserve the rights to claim compensation for any damage suffered by its people as a result of the nuclear tests.

SOCIAL SECURITY

The House approved by voice vote and sent to the White House a bill raising social security benefits and taxes. The bill would provide the nearly 12 million persons on the rolls with benefit increases of about 7 per cent, effective with their February checks. It also would raise payroll taxes, effective Jan. 1. The Senate already had approved the bill.

Milk Survey Being Made In County

The Allegany County Health Department yesterday began a survey of the Cumberland milkshed.

Included will be four area dairies and the farms which supply them with milk.

The survey is being conducted by Alexander Pais, supervisor of milk control for the State Health Department, and J. B. Dowling and Harvey Shockley, sanitarians of the county unit.

Mr. Dowling said the survey is being made now so that milk grades can be announced soon for the first half of the year. Plans call for completing the survey by Friday.

The Health Department here grades, according to United States Public Health standards, all milk produced in the milkshed.

At present, the county's seven pasteurizing plants process more than 12,000 gallons of milk daily.

It is produced by some 402 farm producers in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Much of this milk has to be shipped by tank trucks to metropolitan areas which have inadequate milksheds.

Grades made in milk surveys are vital to the industry, as markets usually refuse to accept milk which is under 90.

Milk is currently being shipped within a 600 mile radius of the city.

In connection with the survey, the Health Department has scheduled a dairy sanitation meeting Friday at 10 a. m. in its offices here. All milk plant operators have been invited.

Present will be C. S. Brinsfield, chief of the Division of Food Control.

Stark Fired By W.Va. Air Commission

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Hubert H. Stark, executive director of the West Virginia Aeronautics Commission, was fired Tuesday after a one-hour special meeting of the Commission at Kanawha Airport.

The 57-year-old Stark, appointed director of the old West Virginia Board of Aeronautics in 1937 and of the present commission 10 years later, was fired on a motion by commission member Edward F. McKee of Wheeling.

McKee read his motion into the record after an open meeting and the group went into executive session. Forty-five minutes later, the four members present voted unanimously to dismiss Stark effective immediately.

The meeting was called after Gov. Cecil H. Underwood wired commission chairman Hulett C. Smith of Beckley last Friday, charging Stark with an "intolerable and complete lack of management," in handling an aerial marking program.

Underwood told newsmen last Friday that Stark authorized expenditures of $5,794 on such work during the past year, while only $2,000 had been appropriated for it by the Legislature for 1957-58.

Burdett To Seek Office

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Assistant state treasurer Joe F. Burdett is resigning from state office to seek elective office for the second time in little more than three years.

Burdett announced that he will step down Sept. 1 as assistant to Treasurer Orel J. Skeen to devote full time to his campaign for an unexpired two-year term as secretary of state. He was nominated in the Aug. 5 primary to oppose incumbent Republican Helen Holt.

Skeen named Joseph F. Rykoskey, of Benwood, to replace Burdett who had held the post since Skeen took office in January, 1957.

Two Insurance Men Beaten, One Robbed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two insurance men were beaten and one was robbed by two young hitchhikers Monday night near Clendenin.

John Crouse, 49, Charleston, suffered a concussion and an injured right arm in the beating. Harley Holcomb, 37, Nitro, sustained a deep scalp laceration and a fractured finger.

Holcomb said the pair overpowered him and Crouse and repeatedly slugged them after they picked them up on W. Va. 4. He said he managed to drive off and notify police when the assailants stopped along a road and proceeded to beat Crouse unmercifully.

Holcomb drove back to the spot and found Crouse unconscious. He had been robbed of $20.

W.Va. Has Five New Polio Cases

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Five new cases of polio were reported to the State Health Department last week, bringing West Virginia's 1958 total to 41, it was disclosed Tuesday.

State Health Director N. H. Dyer said four of the new cases were in McDowell County and affected children aged 1, 3, 4 and 6. Two of these victims definitely had not received the Salk anti-polio vaccine and information on the other two was not available.

Dyer again repeated his plea that all persons, particularly children, receive the Salk vaccine, either from their family physician or the health department.

The total number of cases reported this year is 25 above the number for the corresponding period in 1957, Dyer said.

Dehn Operates Virginia YMCA

Lawrence Dehn, former secretary of Central YMCA here, now is winding up a successful summer season at Fairfax-Falls Church, Va., YMCA.

Mr. Dehn, who left here to take the Virginia post, is executive secretary of the 1,000-member Y in northern Virginia, which is negotiating for eight acres of land to launch a new building project.

Four Cumberland youths are working on Mr. Dehn's staff for the summer. They are his son, Warren, a counselor at the YMCA's summer camp; John Jackson, who has been aquatic and first aid director at the camp; William Sitter, youth director and tennis instructor at the Y, and Dale Middleton, chief clerk at the Y.

Judge Harris Files Opinion

When a person wills an absolute estate to an heir, he cannot qualify and curtail this act, according to a nine-page opinion filed yesterday in an equity case in Allegany County Circuit Court by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

This opinion concerned an interpretation of the will of Mrs. Jennie Elizabeth Llewellyn of Frostburg, who died June 20, 1957. Mrs. Llewellyn's will of April 12, 1944, which was admitted to probate July 19, 1957, appointed her daughter, Mrs. Louise L. Rank, executrix. Mrs. Rank qualified as executrix of her mother's will July 19, 1957, but filed no list of debts or inventory.

Mrs. Rank died October 20, 1957, intestate, without children and left her husband, J. Lawrence Rank, surviving her. Mr. Rank qualified as administrator of his wife's estate January 28 of this year. No administrator has yet been appointed for Mrs. Llewellyn's estate.

Judge Harris' opinion concerns an interpretation of the following paragraph of Mrs. Llewellyn's will:

"All of my estate, of every nature and description, real, personal and mixed, and wheresoever the same may be situated, and whether acquired before or after the execution of this will, I give, devise and bequeath to my daughter, Louise Llewellyn Rank, to be her absolute property, provided, however, that upon the death of my said daughter, whatever of property or estate she may have received from me and which shall remain at that time undisposed of, I give, devise and bequeath to my son-in-law, J. Lawrence Rank, for and during the course of his natural life, and upon his death I give, devise and bequeath said property and estate to my daughter, Hattie Burkett, for and during the course of her natural life, after which said property shall descend to my surviving grandchildren, share and share alike, absolutely and in fee simple."

Quoting a number of opinions to support his conclusions, Judge Harris ruled that Mrs. Llewellyn gave all her estate absolutely and in fee simple to Mrs. Rank, her daughter. An absolute estate having been given to Mrs. Rank, Mrs. Llewellyn could not legally qualify and curtail the same.

W.Va. Hikes Employers' Rates In Jobless Fund

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia State Employment Security Director Henry L. Ash said Tuesday a decline in the state unemployment compensation fund has brought about an increase in employers rates for the third quarter of 1958.

Ash said the fund total for the second quarter, ending June 30, was $3,990,087, making mandatory a two-step increase prescribed by the Legislature under an amendment to the compensation law passed at a special one-day session June 23.

All employers' rates, except those with zero or 2.3 or more will be increased four-tenths of one per cent. Those with a zero rating must pay one-half of one per cent and those with 2.3 or over will be raised to the maximum of 2.7.

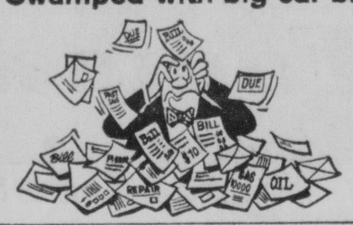

The staggered raises changed the previous law under which all rates were raised to the maximum when the fund fell below $50,000,000.

The legislative amendment provided that for each $5,000,000 the fund declined below $60,000,000 the employer is increased one step, or two-tenths per cent.

When the fund falls below $40,000,000 the maximum 2.7 per cent then is made effective for all employers. However, should this happen before July 1, 1959, the maximum rate would not be made effective until it has fallen below $35,000,000.

They are his son, Warren, a counselor at the YMCA's summer camp; John Jackson, who has been aquatic and first aid director at the camp; William Sitter, youth director and tennis instructor at the Y, and Dale Middleton, chief clerk at the Y.

Judge Harris Files Opinion

When a person wills an absolute estate to an heir, he cannot qualify and curtail this act, according to a nine-page opinion filed yesterday in an equity case in Allegany County Circuit Court by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

This opinion concerned an interpretation of the will of Mrs. Jennie Elizabeth Llewellyn of Frostburg, who died June 20, 1957. Mrs. Llewellyn's will of April 12, 1944, which was admitted to probate July 19, 1957, appointed her daughter, Mrs. Louise L. Rank, executrix. Mrs. Rank qualified as executrix of her mother's will July 19, 1957, but filed no list of debts or inventory.

Mrs. Rank died October 20, 1957, intestate, without children and left her husband, J. Lawrence Rank, surviving her. Mr. Rank qualified as administrator of his wife's estate January 28 of this year. No administrator has yet been appointed for Mrs. Llewellyn's estate.

Judge Harris' opinion concerns an interpretation of the following paragraph of Mrs. Llewellyn's will:

"All of my estate, of every nature and description, real, personal and mixed, and wheresoever the same may be situated, and whether acquired before or after the execution of this will, I give, devise and bequeath to my daughter, Louise Llewellyn Rank, to be her absolute property, provided, however, that upon the death of my said daughter, whatever of property or estate she may have received from me and which shall remain at that time undisposed of, I give, devise and bequeath to my son-in-law, J. Lawrence Rank, for and during the course of his natural life, and upon his death I give, devise and bequeath said property and estate to my daughter, Hattie Burkett, for and during the course of her natural life, after which said property shall descend to my surviving grandchildren, share and share alike, absolutely and in fee simple."

Quoting a number of opinions to support his conclusions, Judge Harris ruled that Mrs. Llewellyn gave all her estate absolutely and in fee simple to Mrs. Rank, her daughter. An absolute estate having been given to Mrs. Rank, Mrs. Llewellyn could not legally qualify and curtail the same.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia State Employment Security Director Henry L. Ash said Tuesday a decline in the state unemployment compensation fund has brought about an increase in employers rates for the third quarter of 1958.

Ash said the fund total for the second quarter, ending June 30, was $3,990,087, making mandatory a two-step increase prescribed by the Legislature under an amendment to the compensation law passed at a special one-day session June 23.

All employers' rates, except those with zero or 2.3 or more will be increased four-tenths of one per cent. Those with a zero rating must pay one-half of one per cent and those with 2.3 or over will be raised to the maximum of 2.7.

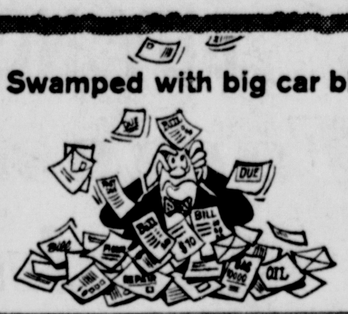

The staggered raises changed the previous law under which all rates were raised to the maximum when the fund fell below $50,000,000.

The legislative amendment provided that for each $5,000,000 the fund declined below $60,000,000 the employer is increased one step, or two-tenths per cent.

When the fund falls below $40,000,000 the maximum 2.7 per cent then is made effective for all employers. However, should this happen before July 1, 1959, the maximum rate would not be made effective until it has fallen below $35,000,000.

A Strike That Shouldn't Come

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, talks as if a strike against either Ford or General Motors is inevitable next month, but the decision hasn't been made yet.

The auto industry has more than 100,000 unemployed, most of whom will be called back to work as 1959 models come off the assembly line. The prospect of a strike, instead of getting back on the payroll, is not exactly attractive to most union members.

This is the more likely in view of the fact that management has a contract ready if the union will sign. It calls for 16 cents an hour of wage increases over a two-year period, and other benefits.

Reuther wants much more, but the bird in hand may look better to auto workers than Reuther's bargaining package.

Union funds are low. Should a strike last 10 weeks, it would cost $80 million against General Motors and $35 million against Ford. The union does not have that much money in its treasury. If Ford and General Motors stand together, instead of surrendering to the strategy of being picked off one at a time, that would make it all the more awkward for Reuther.

In view of the need of both industry and labor to work out of the recession as rapidly as possible, it will be better if this strike never comes off. It will be better for the public, too. Nearly everybody would like to see some sign that the spiral, in which prices chase wages, is flattening out.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Real And Present Danger

I hold a circular issued by Jimmy Hoffa's International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America. The particular circular comes from Police Department Chapter, Local 237, and is an Authorization for Deduction of Dues.

In a word, the police department of the largest city in the United States is to be subject to the check-off and becomes a collector of dues for a union whose corruption has been so great that it has required months of public hearings by a committee of the United States Senate. It is amazing that Hoffa's organization brazenly continues to expand under these circumstances.

Although the circular is signed by Henry Feinstein as president, what have such people as Johnny Dio and other hoods to do with this effort to establish gangster control of the New York police force? The Teamsters Union has that reputation although individual officers and members may be splendid people. And in how many cities is this organizational drive being conducted?

The police force of any city is a semi-military organization that must be governed rigidly. Its members must be subject to fines, suspensions and dismissals in order that discipline may be maintained. What this Teamsters Union invasion of the police force can mean is that an outside gangster control of the police could come into existence, imperilling the lives and the property of citizens and order in the community. For instance, does one want the same control over the police that exists over trucking in the garment industry?

What happens if the union officials "fraternally" choose to protect certain hoods who may have infiltrated a related union? Does that mean that the police are to take orders from their superior officers or from the union?

In a circular issued by the aforesaid Henry Feinstein, he explains that the police need the Teamsters to help them get what they cannot get through their own organizations which are not part of the labor movement. Feinstein says that the object of his drive among the police is to "restore the policeman to first-class citizenship." Precisely what that means, it is very difficult to say except that his concept is to remove the police from being a disciplined body. In this extremely profound circular, Feinstein informs the police, that "the custom of the country is the law of the land," a rule that holds in China where local custom prevails but not in the United States where laws passed by legislatures and departmental regulations govern. His point is that it is customary to have unions. Does Hoffa wish to organize the Army as Teamsters?

Who is Henry Feinstein who is organizing policemen into Teamsters? Is he a policeman? Has he ever served in the police force? He has never been a policeman in any city.

One comes across such a situation as this in his own city but in how many other cities have the Teamsters issued charters to organize police unions? To whom were such charters issued and what kind of men are in control of the union? It is not customary in the Teamsters Union, as the McClellan Committee has well established, for the membership to have anything to say about the management of the union. It is a private enterprise owned by the officers and organizers and they operate it in their own interest and, as has been shown in many instances such as Dave Beck, his son and others, for their own profit.

Therefore, it is wise for citizens all over the country to look at their own police forces to see whether the Teamsters Union has got control of them and what they are doing with them. Some municipal politicians and social workers take the position that as these days municipalities engage in all sorts of activities which formerly were private, some municipal departments are proprietary and therefore are really like private enterprise. So, these should have the same kind of transactions with unions as any other business would have.

Whatever can be said for this argument, and much can be said against it, it cannot be applied to the police who represent the sovereign power of the state to maintain law and order, to regulate traffic, to protect school children, to arrest thieves, murderers and other criminals, etc. It is impossible to have dual control in police matters.

Rep. Smith Opposes One Sewage Bill, But Favors Similar Measure

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Congressman Howard Smith, the Virginia Democrat who's sometimes called the "Nasser of the Potomac" is not officially in favor of sewage. But it all depends on whose sewage it is

Two sewage bills have been before the Rules Committee, over which Smith presides and which keeps tight control over which bills shall or shall not come before the House of Representatives for a vote. They are:

Sewage Bill No. 1 would give an additional $50,000,000 over a ten-year period to help cities clean up their rivers and install sewage disposal units. Thus downstream towns on a river wouldn't be drinking the sewage of the towns above.

Congressman Smith is flatly opposed to this bill. He will not let it out of his Rules Committee for a vote by the full House of Representatives.

Sewage Bill No. 2 permits Fairfax County, Virginia, in Congressman Smith's old baliwick to funnel its sewage into the already overloaded sewage system of the District of Columbia. The bill was prompted by the building of the big super-spy agency, the Central Intelligence headquarters, on the banks of the Potomac.

This sewage bill was rushed through the House of Representatives like lightning, thanks to the Congressman from Northern Virginia. He did not care if other cities in the U.S.A. had to drink the sewage of the cities above. But he did not want Northern Virginia to worry about sewage. He wanted it sent over to the District of Columbia.

Unlucky Contractors

One of the worst scandals of the postwar periods has been the wanton awards of big government contracts not on the basis of the lowest bidder but sometimes on the basis of friends. During the war, competitive bidding was ignored on the excuse of speed. Since the war it has been sidetracked on all sorts of excuses, though the motive frequently is friendship.

One interesting case which bears investigation is the contract for supervision of a big dam in Formosa, which admirers of Senator Knowland want to call "Knowland Dam," because of his consistent efforts to aid Chiang Kai-Shek.

Knowland, incidentally, has nothing to do with the contract for supervising this $40,000,000 project which will go not to the lowest bidder, J. A. Jones of Charlotte, North Carolina, but to a Panamanian firm with headquarters in California, but which does not even pay taxes in the United States.

One significant sidelight on this contract is the manner in which Ralph Tudor, former Undersecretary of the Interior, has slid back and forth between the contracting business and government, retaining powerful friends on both sides of the street.

Tudor used to be chief engineer of the Morrison-Knudsen contracting firm in China, then became vice president of its Panamanian subsidiary, Morrison-Knudsen International. Then in 1947 he left the firm to become head of his own Tudor Engineering Company which continued close relations with Morrison-Knudsen.

When Eisenhower came into office, Tudor was made undersecretary of the Interior, resigned in 1954, but later served as advisor to the State Department and to the Internatoinal Cooperation Administration. It is these two agencies which are handling the big "Knowland Dam" in Formosa.

Lucky Contractors

Eight companies submitted bids on this dam, which is to be built with foreign aid funds supplied by the U. S. taxpayer. Lowest bidder turned out to be the J. A. Jones Company. But despite this, the Tudor Engineering company, advisers to the International Cooperation Administration, advised that the contract go either to Guy Atkinson Company or Tudor's old firm, Morrison-Knudsen International.

Tudor claimed that Jones' company lacked sufficient machinery, a claim that proved false. Then it claimed Jones could not supply proper direction, to which Jones countered by offering Harvey Slocum, world famous dam builder to direct the project.

Despite this, Tudor Engineering stood pat on its advice against Jones and for Tudor's old company, Morrison-Knudsen. And though the contracts division of ICA decided to award the contract to Jones, it was overruled by Edwin Arnold, deputy director of ICA, on the ground that Morrison-Knudsen could save the government money.

The actual fee to be charged by Jones was $309,000 as against $810,000 charged by Morrison-Knudsen. Yet the former firm of Ralph Tudor is getting the contract.

Here are some clues as to what may have influenced this contract award to a higher bidder:

Clue No. 1—Tudor Engineering got its lucrative contract as adviser to ICA through Fred J. Huber. Mr. Huber works for Morrison-Knudsen. He, Huber, is also chief stockholder in Lynch Wilde and Co. Lynch Wilde and Co. is retained for around $1,000 a month by Tudor Engineering. The money, incidentally, comes from ICA.

Clue No. 2—Harry Morrison is close to President Eisenhower. He attends White House stag parties and was appointed by Ike to the Hoover Commission and to the water resources and power task force.

Macabre Debate Over The Years Of 'The Gap'

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Fundamental questions about the inner workings of our kind of human society are not often argued in the American Congress. But last week, the Senate actually got around to arguing rather heatedly about what may well be the biggest single question confronting the democracies in the H-bomb age.

This is the question whether the people have a right to know the hard facts of the national situation, or whether these facts should be sedulously concealed from all but the enemy.

The macabre debate about this question followed the important speech by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Kennedy had gravely warned of the danger of present American defense policies, which will concede to the Soviets overwhelming superiority in nuclear striking power during the years of "gap" or "missile lag"—the years 1960 through 1964. He had earnestly and stirringly called for a great national effort to avert "the mortal peril" of these years just ahead.

The nature of the peril was most concisely summed up in the figures on the predicted balance of intercontinental ballistic missiles, which Sen. Kennedy quoted from a report in this space. Since that report was published, it has been learned that the American government's official forecasts of Soviet output of intercontinental ballistic missiles have been adjusted downward by one year. Here, then, are the corrected figures, accepted as realistic on the highest American governmental level. They give the long range missile balance which our defense policies will tolerate.

1961: U. S. 70 ICBMs versus U. S. R. R. 500 ICBMs
1962: U. S. 130 ICBMs versus U. S. S. R. 1,000 ICBMs
1963: U. S. 130 ICBMs versus U. S. S. R. 1,500 ICBMs

There is nothing in prospect that will alter this balance in the years of "gap," except a few score of the Navy's submarine-borne Polaris missiles. The Pentagon's hucksters have lately hurried into print a glowing feature about the solid-fuelled Minuteman missile which is counted on to close the "gap" in the end. A major national magazine presented the figure in a way that suggested Minuteman was already entering our armory. But on present schedules, there is no likelihood of a single Minuteman becoming operational before the "gap's" last year.

Such was the situation that drove Kennedy to speak out, and to urge drastic remedies. The sequel got almost no notice because the debate occurred late at night. It began when good, bumbling Sen. Homer Capehart of Illinois rose to speak in a condition of really frothing excitement. Sen. Capehart announced his intention of invoking Senate Rule XXXV—the rule that clears the galleries when secret matters are under discussion—if any Senator ever again publicly told such unpleasant truths as Kennedy had told.

"How is it going to sound to the Russian people," cried Capehart, "when they read that a Senator of the United States . . . said that the United States is inferior to Russia? Perhaps I am wrong. Senators can say what they please, but I say that . . . could give comfort to our enemies."

Capehart did not once deny the accuracy of Kennedy's facts. He said he hoped they were not accurate, but had no means of knowing. On the Senate floor were many members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and Joint Atomic Energy Committee, having the access to the classified information that Kennedy does not have. Not one of these men rose to dispute the accuracy of Kennedy's facts. Instead, a whole series of them, led by Sens. Symington of Missouri and Jackson of Washington, rose to praise Kennedy. They affirmed that he had spoken no more than the truth, with no whit of exaggeration.

Again, poor Capehart did not suggest that Kennedy had given any new information to the masters of the Kremlin. He could not do so. Even he was well aware that the American missile program is a matter of public record. Even he could hardly claim that the Kremlin does not know about its own missile program. Informing the American people, not the Kremlin, was what he really objected to. But once he cried out:

"If what the Senator from Massachusetts said is true, . . . Congress should not adjourn. If what he says is true, Congress should appropriate another twenty billion."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The seconds ticked by like grains of sand running through an hour glass wet. To ease the silence, Gayle and I phoned our relatives. "Giny is in Holy Name Hospital. What? Oh, in Teaneck, New Jersey. Yop. Any minute, we hope." This is a mistake. My father, who already has four great-grandchildren, called the clan. Soon, the hospital was hit with inquiries and the switchboard operator almost lost her mind saying: "Mrs. Charles Frechette? Sorry, we have no patient by that name."

This confused everyone. They phoned me to ask if there was a baby on the way or not. We said there was. The hospital said there was no Ginny. The truth was that Dr. Albert Higdon, a handsome man who is a partner in the medical firm of Higdon, Beaugard and Fox—which sounds like an Alabama real estate outfit—told Charlie Frechette to keep his cotton-picking wife out of the hospital until the contractions were five minutes apart.

The least worried was the mother-elect. She was as big as Wallace Beery and twice as jolly. She had complete faith in God, the Blessed Mother and her doctors. The women in the family were shocked to find that Ginny looked forward to the birth as one might to a new adventure. No fears, no pain, no anxiety.

At 11:15 p. m. she felt a contraction. She told her husband about it and he looked at her and looked at his watch. A little later, she said: "There's another." Charlie nodded. "Okay. That's exactly five minutes. Let's go."

They went. He wanted to drive her up to the hospital door. She said no. They walked it. At midnight, she was in a silly nightshirt waiting. Charlie was in another room, smoking. Doctor Fox took care of all the preliminary work. Time ticked on slowly, on a hot night. Other women were in the room on the same timeless errand of love.

The only sound was a stifled moan or the soft slapping sound of rubber heels and the clank of a rosary. The Sisters moved back and forth, the bright scrubbed skin matching the kindly smiles. A young girl lost control and screamed. Her mother had told her it would be awful. And it was.

At 7:30 a. m. Doctor Fox called Dr. Higdon. Higdon had had a good night's sleep. He arrived bright and ready. He and Ginny had a talk. They understood each other. He told Ginny what to do. She did it. He asked her if she felt any bad pains. "No," she said. He smiled behind the mask. "Any minuten now," he said.

At 8:10 a. m. he gave her a needle. She tried to turn it down. "I want this to be natural. I'm not in bad pain." He shook his head. "We have a few minor complications," he said. "Take the needle." She did.

The time was 8:23 a. m. A baby girl was born. It was a feet-first baby. She weighed 6 pounds, 11 ounces, and she had straight red hair and blue eyes, like Charlie. She hung upside down, in the doctor's hand, and a moment later, she grimaced and cried.

Doctor Higdon handed her to a nurse and Ginny sighed and smiled a tired smile. She had her own baby. And, even as she dreamed, she knew that it would be called Robin. Doctor Higdon nodded to the nurse and began to probe. His eyes opened wide above the mask. Then he grinned.

At 8:27 a. m. a second girl was born. Ginny came up out of the needle and beamed at the doctor. "Two?" she asked wordlessly. He nodded. The second one had dark hair in wet ringlets. Ginny smiled and shook her head from side to side and murmured: "Pamela." The baby weighed 7 pounds, 8 ounces.

Later, Sister M. Bartholomew, who is the hospital librarian and has nothing to do with new babies except to love them, found the new father in the corridor. He had a mechanical smile and glazed eyes. "Twins," she said happily. She received no reply, and no glance of recognition.

She waved her hand back and forth in front of his face but nothing happened. Mechanically, he walked to a phone booth and called me. "Twins," he said. "Twins. Both girls. Both doing fine. Ginny is fine. I'm fine too."

He hung up. I wanted to say something but nobody was listening. The operator cut in. "Number please?" she said. "Two," I said. "Two and I'm a grandfather and I can hardly breathe."

Most People Can Avoid Being Caught Flatfooted

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The appearance of the feet is no indication of their strength. Some persons with fallen arches can walk miles, jump fences, and skip rope. Flatfoot in their case is hereditary and is common in certain races.

The arches are held up by an ingenious interlocking of the ligaments, tendons, and muscles of the foot. These structures are weakened in persons suffering from acquired flat feet. Pain stems from strain on these structures through bearing weight on parts of the foot not built for this purpose.

In some instances, muscles and ligaments become weak early in life from faulty walking and posture. Unless such abnormalities are corrected, a lifetime of discomfort ensues. The bones become fixed in unnatural positions and the soft tissues overstretch like rubber bands that have lost their elasticity. Improper shoes play a role in producing flat feet.

The condition may not be detected in athletic persons because they have strong muscles to compensate for the defect. Pain develops when strength wanes as a result of illness. This occurred to a professional football player who had his appendix removed. His arches became so weak during the few days spent in bed, he could hardly walk after leaving the hospital.

A somewhat similar situation exists when an individual changes from a sitting to a standing occupation. This occurs to nonathletic students, for example, who spend most of their time seated in the classroom or studying. Their feet give way after graduation when they begin to pound the pavements.

Foot trouble is likely to be accentuated by obesity or malnutrition. Temporary relief is obtained by wearing good, corrective shoes containing pads or bars to hold up the weakened arches. More permanent results come with exercise, particularly walking. The foot must be strengthened to hold up the arches. Good posture and walking properly help distribute body weight where nature intended.

REST WEAKENS ARCHES

C. M. writes: Does a long period of bed rest break down the arches? After I started walking around, following an illness, I suffered from arch pain.

REPLY

Yes, and this is one of the most common causes of trouble along this line. In some instances it occurs after spending a week in bed. Specialists refer to this condition as decompensation of the feet. As you walk more and more they will become stronger.

DISTURBED BY DAFFODILS

E. B. P. writes: I suffered from a skin irritation every spring until I discovered it was caused by daffodils. I wonder if others have the same problem.

REPLY

PYLOROSPASM

M. J. writes: What causes spasms of the pylorus in an adult?

REPLY

Nervousness and irritation are common causes. Irritation may be associated with ulcer or gastritis or follow dietary indiscretions, including overindulgence in alcohol.

BLOOD PLASMA FRACTION

H. J. writes: What is gamma globulin and what is it given for?

REPLY

It is the protein factor of the blood that contains many of the antibodies against disease. It is used principally as a prophylaxis against measles.

PEPTIC ULCER

N. R. writes: Are stomach and duodenal ulcers the same?

REPLY

Yes. Ten per cent of peptic ulcers are located in the stomach and the remainder in the first part of the small intestine (duodenum) within an inch of the exit valve of the gastric pouch. Stomach ulcers are more serious because they may become malignant.

TOMORROW: Seizures of four Types.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

You've heard lots of mean stories about finance company agents swooping down to repossess autos, TV sets, pianos, and what not. Here's a nice story for a change:

An agent had to remind an old farmer that he hadn't paid the last two of 50 installments on a new car. "It's in the barn," said the farmer sadly — and in a low voice so his wife couldn't hear, "I'm afraid you'll have to take that car of yours back."

The agent walked with him to the barn. There he found the car shiny and new, up on blocks, carefully covered with a tarpaulin, its speedometer showing only 12 miles — the distance from the auto sales room to the barn.

"But you've hardly driven this car!" exclaimed the agent. "Didn't feel I should," explained

The agent slammed shut his collection book, put the tarpaulin back over the car, and said, "I guess we'll just let you have this car till your crops come in."

Union funds are low. Should a strike last 10 weeks, it would cost $80 million against General Motors and $35 million against Ford. The union does not have that much money in its treasury. If Ford and General Motors stand together, instead of surrendering to the strategy of being picked off one at a time, that would make it all the more awkward for Reuther.

In view of the need of both industry and labor to work out of the recession as rapidly as possible, it will be better if this strike never comes off. It will be better for the public, too. Nearly everybody would like to see some sign that the spiral, in which prices chase wages, is flattening out.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Real And Present Danger

I hold a circular issued by Jimmy Hoffa's International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America. The particular circular comes from Police Department Chapter, Local 237, and is an Authorization for Deduction of Dues.

In a word, the police department of the largest city in the United States is to be subject to the check-off and becomes a collector of dues for a union whose corruption has been so great that it has required months of public hearings by a committee of the United States Senate. It is amazing that Hoffa's organization brazenly continues to expand under these circumstances.

Although the circular is signed by Henry Feinstein as president, what have such people as Johnny Dio and other hoods to do with this effort to establish gangster control of the New York police force? The Teamsters Union has that reputation although individual officers and members may be splendid people. And in how many cities is this organizational drive being conducted?

The police force of any city is a semi-military organization that must be governed rigidly. Its members must be subject to fines, suspensions and dismissals in order that discipline may be maintained. What this Teamsters Union invasion of the police force can mean is that an outside gangster control of the police could come into existence, imperilling the lives and the property of citizens and order in the community. For instance, does one want the same control over the police that exists over trucking in the garment industry?

What happens if the union officials "fraternally" choose to protect certain hoods who may have infiltrated a related union? Does that mean that the police are to take orders from their superior officers or from the union?

In a circular issued by the aforesaid Henry Feinstein, he explains that the police need the Teamsters to help them get what they cannot get through their own organizations which are not part of the labor movement. Feinstein says that the object of his drive among the police is to "restore the policeman to first-class citizenship." Precisely what that means, it is very difficult to say except that his concept is to remove the police from being a disciplined body. In this extremely profound circular, Feinstein informs the police, that "the custom of the country is the law of the land," a rule that holds in China where local custom prevails but not in the United States where laws passed by legislatures and departmental regulations govern. His point is that it is customary to have unions. Does Hoffa wish to organize the Army as Teamsters?

Who is Henry Feinstein who is organizing policemen into Teamsters? Is he a policeman? Has he ever served in the police force? He has never been a policeman in any city.

One comes across such a situation as this in his own city but in how many other cities have the Teamsters issued charters to organize police unions? To whom were such charters issued and what kind of men are in control of the union? It is not customary in the Teamsters Union, as the McClellan Committee has well established, for the membership to have anything to say about the management of the union. It is a private enterprise owned by the officers and organizers and they operate it in their own interest and, as has been shown in many instances such as Dave Beck, his son and others, for their own profit.

Therefore, it is wise for citizens all over the country to look at their own police forces to see whether the Teamsters Union has got control of them and what they are doing with them. Some municipal politicians and social workers take the position that as these days municipalities engage in all sorts of activities which formerly were private, some municipal departments are proprietary and therefore are really like private enterprise. So, these should have the same kind of transactions with unions as any other business would have.

Whatever can be said for this argument, and much can be said against it, it cannot be applied to the police who represent the sovereign power of the state to maintain law and order, to regulate traffic, to protect school children, to arrest thieves, murderers and other criminals, etc. It is impossible to have dual control in police matters.

'Boo!'

Rep. Smith Opposes One Sewage Bill, But Favors Similar Measure

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Congressman Howard Smith, the Virginia Democrat who's sometimes called the "Nasser of the Potomac" is not officially in favor of sewage. But it all depends on whose sewage it is

Two sewage bills have been before the Rules Committee, over which Smith presides and which keeps tight control over which bills shall or shall not come before the House of Representatives for a vote. They are:

Sewage Bill No. 1 would give an additional $50,000,000 over a ten-year period to help cities clean up their rivers and install sewage disposal units. Thus downstream towns on a river wouldn't be drinking the sewage of the towns above.

Congressman Smith is flatly opposed to this bill. He will not let it out of his Rules Committee for a vote by the full House of Representatives.

Sewage Bill No. 2 permits Fairfax County, Virginia, in Congressman Smith's old baliwick to funnel its sewage into the already overloaded sewage system of the District of Columbia. The bill was prompted by the building of the big super-spy agency, the Central Intelligence headquarters, on the banks of the Potomac.

This sewage bill was rushed through the House of Representatives like lightning, thanks to the Congressman from Northern Virginia. He did not care if other cities in the U.S.A. had to drink the sewage of the cities above. But he did not want Northern Virginia to worry about sewage. He wanted it sent over to the District of Columbia.

Unlucky Contractors

One of the worst scandals of the postwar periods has been the wanton awards of big government contracts not on the basis of the lowest bidder but sometimes on the basis of friends. During the war, competitive bidding was ignored on the excuse of speed. Since the war it has been sidetracked on all sorts of excuses, though the motive frequently is friendship.

One interesting case which bears investigation is the contract for supervision of a big dam in Formosa, which admirers of Senator Knowland want to call "Knowland Dam," because of his consistent efforts to aid Chiang Kai-Shek.

Knowland, incidentally, has nothing to do with the contract for supervising this $40,000,000 project which will go not to the lowest bidder, J. A. Jones of Charlotte, North Carolina, but to a Panamanian firm with headquarters in California, but which does not even pay taxes in the United States.

One significant sidelight on this contract is the manner in which Ralph Tudor, former Undersecretary of the Interior, has slid back and forth between the contracting business and government, retaining powerful friends on both sides of the street.

Tudor used to be chief engineer of the Morrison-Knudsen contracting firm in China, then became vice president of its Panamanian subsidiary, Morrison-Knudsen International. Then in 1947 he left the firm to become head of his own Tudor Engineering Company which continued close relations with Morrison-Knudsen.

When Eisenhower came into office, Tudor was made undersecretary of the Interior, resigned in 1954, but later served as advisor to the State Department and to the Internatoinal Cooperation Administration. It is these two agencies which are handling the big "Knowland Dam" in Formosa.

Lucky Contractors

Eight companies submitted bids on this dam, which is to be built with foreign aid funds supplied by the U. S. taxpayer. Lowest bidder turned out to be the J. A. Jones Company. But despite this, the Tudor Engineering company, advisers to the International Cooperation Administration, advised that the contract go either to Guy Atkinson Company or Tudor's old firm, Morrison-Knudsen International.

Tudor claimed that Jones' company lacked sufficient machinery, a claim that proved false. Then it claimed Jones could not supply proper direction, to which Jones countered by offering Harvey Slocum, world famous dam builder to direct the project.

Despite this, Tudor Engineering stood pat on its advice against Jones and for Tudor's old company, Morrison-Knudsen. And though the contracts division of ICA decided to award the contract to Jones, it was overruled by Edwin Arnold, deputy director of ICA, on the ground that Morrison-Knudsen could save the government money.

The actual fee to be charged by Jones was $309,000 as against $810,000 charged by Morrison-Knudsen. Yet the former firm of Ralph Tudor is getting the contract.

Here are some clues as to what may have influenced this contract award to a higher bidder:

Clue No. 1—Tudor Engineering got its lucrative contract as adviser to ICA through Fred J. Huber. Mr. Huber works for Morrison-Knudsen. He, Huber, is also chief stockholder in Lynch Wilde and Co. Lynch Wilde and Co. is retained for around $1,000 a month by Tudor Engineering. The money, incidentally, comes from ICA.

Clue No. 2—Harry Morrison is close to President Eisenhower. He attends White House stag parties and was appointed by Ike to the Hoover Commission and to the water resources and power task force.

Macabre Debate Over The Years Of 'The Gap'

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Fundamental questions about the inner workings of our kind of human society are not often argued in the American Congress. But last week, the Senate actually got around to arguing rather heatedly about what may well be the biggest single question confronting the democracies in the H-bomb age.

This is the question whether the people have a right to know the hard facts of the national situation, or whether these facts should be sedulously concealed from all but the enemy.

The macabre debate about this question followed the important speech by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Kennedy had gravely warned of the danger of present American defense policies, which will concede to the Soviets overwhelming superiority in nuclear striking power during the years of "gap" or "missile lag"—the years 1960 through 1964. He had earnestly and stirringly called for a great national effort to avert "the mortal peril" of these years just ahead.

The nature of the peril was most concisely summed up in the figures on the predicted balance of intercontinental ballistic missiles, which Sen. Kennedy quoted from a report in this space. Since that report was published, it has been learned that the American government's official forecasts of Soviet output of intercontinental ballistic missiles have been adjusted downward by one year. Here, then, are the corrected figures, accepted as realistic on the highest American governmental level. They give the long range missile balance which our defense policies will tolerate.

1961: U. S. 70 ICBMs versus U. S. R. R. 500 ICBMs

1962: U. S. 130 ICBMs versus U. S. S. R. 1,000 ICBMs

1963: U. S. 130 ICBMs versus U. S. S. R. 1,500 ICBMs

There is nothing in prospect that will alter this balance in the years of "gap," except a few score of the Navy's submarine-borne Polaris missiles. The Pentagon's hucksters have lately hurried into print a glowing feature about the solid-fuelled Minuteman missile which is counted on to close the "gap" in the end. A major national magazine presented the figure in a way that suggested Minuteman was already entering our armory. But on present schedules, there is no likelihood of a single Minuteman becoming operational before the "gap's" last year.

Such was the situation that drove Kennedy to speak out, and to urge drastic remedies. The sequel got almost no notice because the debate occurred late at night. It began when good, bumbling Sen. Homer Capehart of Illinois rose to speak in a condition of really frothing excitement. Sen. Capehart announced his intention of invoking Senate Rule XXXV—the rule that clears the galleries when secret matters are under discussion—if any Senator ever again publicly told such unpleasant truths as Kennedy had told.

"How is it going to sound to the Russian people," cried Capehart, "when they read that a Senator of the United States . . . said that the United States is inferior to Russia? Perhaps I am wrong. Senators can say what they please, but I say that . . . could give comfort to our enemies."

Capehart did not once deny the accuracy of Kennedy's facts. He said he hoped they were not accurate, but had no means of knowing. On the Senate floor were many members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and Joint Atomic Energy Committee, having the access to the classified information that Kennedy does not have. Not one of these men rose to dispute the accuracy of Kennedy's facts. Instead, a whole series of them, led by Sens. Symington of Missouri and Jackson of Washington, rose to praise Kennedy. They affirmed that he had spoken no more than the truth, with no whit of exaggeration.

Again, poor Capehart did not suggest that Kennedy had given any new information to the masters of the Kremlin. He could not do so. Even he was well aware that the American missile program is a matter of public record. Even he could hardly claim that the Kremlin does not know about its own missile program. Informing the American people, not the Kremlin, was what he really objected to. But once he cried out:

"If what the Senator from Massachusetts said is true, . . . Congress should not adjourn. If what he says is true, Congress should appropriate another twenty billion."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

There are affairs in the state of men when you have to tip-toe past the agenda.

Things are touchier than fingerprint powder. You can upset the apple-cart by throwing a peel over the wrong shoulder.

With every parallel a tight-wire and every boundary a barrier it is soothing to know Dior's young successor, St. Laurent, has solved all international problems by dropping the hemline.

St. Laurent doesn't perch on the mezzanine of his swatch atelier and holler, "Look out below."

He skewers a couple of bastings, expectorates a set of pins and jumps back. It means the sack look is back in the bag.

So why worry about Korean, Polish and Near Eastian frontiers when we're mapping the patterns?

But it might be well to keep testing the atomic war-heads in case Khrushchev doesn't read the fashion pages.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The seconds ticked by like grains of sand running through an hour glass wet. To ease the silence, Gayle and I phoned our relatives. "Giny is in Holy Name Hospital. What? Oh, in Teaneck, New Jersey. Yop. Any minute, we hope." This is a mistake. My father, who already has four great-grandchildren, called the clan. Soon, the hospital was hit with inquiries and the switchboard operator almost lost her mind saying: "Mrs. Charles Frechette? Sorry, we have no patient by that name."

This confused everyone. They phoned me to ask if there was a baby on the way or not. We said there was. The hospital said there was no Ginny. The truth was that Dr. Albert Higdon, a handsome man who is a partner in the medical firm of Higdon, Beaugard and Fox—which sounds like an Alabama real estate outfit—told Charlie Frechette to keep his cotton-picking wife out of the hospital until the contractions were five minutes apart.

The least worried was the mother-elect. She was as big as Wallace Beery and twice as jolly. She had complete faith in God, the Blessed Mother and her doctors. The women in the family were shocked to find that Ginny looked forward to the birth as one might to a new adventure. No fears, no pain, no anxiety.

At 11:15 p. m. she felt a contraction. She told her husband about it and he looked at her and looked at his watch. A little later, she said: "There's another." Charlie nodded. "Okay. That's exactly five minutes. Let's go."

They went. He wanted to drive her up to the hospital door. She said no. They walked it. At midnight, she was in a silly nightshirt waiting. Charlie was in another room, smoking. Doctor Fox took care of all the preliminary work. Time ticked on slowly, on a hot night. Other women were in the room on the same timeless errand of love.

The only sound was a stifled moan or the soft slapping sound of rubber heels and the clank of a rosary. The Sisters moved back and forth, the bright scrubbed skin matching the kindly smiles. A young girl lost control and screamed. Her mother had told her it would be awful. And it was.

At 7:30 a. m. Doctor Fox called Dr. Higdon. Higdon had had a good night's sleep. He arrived bright and ready. He and Ginny had a talk. They understood each other. He told Ginny what to do. She did it. He asked her if she felt any bad pains. "No," she said. He smiled behind the mask. "Any minuten now," he said.

At 8:10 a. m. he gave her a needle. She tried to turn it down. "I want this to be natural. I'm not in bad pain." He shook his head. "We have a few minor complications," he said. "Take the needle." She did.

The time was 8:23 a. m. A baby girl was born. It was a feet-first baby. She weighed 6 pounds, 11 ounces, and she had straight red hair and blue eyes, like Charlie. She hung upside down, in the doctor's hand, and a moment later, she grimaced and cried.

Doctor Higdon handed her to a nurse and Ginny sighed and smiled a tired smile. She had her own baby. And, even as she dreamed, she knew that it would be called Robin. Doctor Higdon nodded to the nurse and began to probe. His eyes opened wide above the mask. Then he grinned.

At 8:27 a. m. a second girl was born. Ginny came up out of the needle and beamed at the doctor. "Two?" she asked wordlessly. He nodded. The second one had dark hair in wet ringlets. Ginny smiled and shook her head from side to side and murmured: "Pamela." The baby weighed 7 pounds, 8 ounces.

Later, Sister M. Bartholomew, who is the hospital librarian and has nothing to do with new babies except to love them, found the new father in the corridor. He had a mechanical smile and glazed eyes. "Twins," she said happily. She received no reply, and no glance of recognition.

She waved her hand back and forth in front of his face but nothing happened. Mechanically, he walked to a phone booth and called me. "Twins," he said. "Twins. Both girls. Both doing fine. Ginny is fine. I'm fine too."

He hung up. I wanted to say something but nobody was listening. The operator cut in. "Number please?" she said. "Two." I said. "Two and I'm a grandfather and I can hardly breathe."

Most People Can Avoid Being Caught Flatfooted

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The appearance of the feet is no indication of their strength. Some persons with fallen arches can walk miles, jump fences, and skip rope. Flatfoot in their case is hereditary and is common in certain races.

The arches are held up by an ingenious interlocking of the ligaments, tendons, and muscles of the foot. These structures are weakened in persons suffering from acquired flat feet. Pain stems from strain on these structures through bearing weight on parts of the foot not built for this purpose.

In some instances, muscles and ligaments become weak early in life from faulty walking and posture. Unless such abnormalities are corrected, a lifetime of discomfort ensues. The bones become fixed in unnatural positions and the soft tissues overstretch like rubber bands that have lost their elasticity. Improper shoes play a role in producing flat feet.

The condition may not be detected in athletic persons because they have strong muscles to compensate for the defect. Pain develops when strength wanes as a result of illness. This occurred to a professional football player who had his appendix removed. His arches became so weak during the few days spent in bed, he could hardly walk after leaving the hospital.

A somewhat similar situation exists when an individual changes from a sitting to a standing occupation. This occurs to non-athletic students, for example, who spend most of their time seated in the classroom or studying. Their feet give way after graduation when they begin to pound the pavements.

Foot trouble is likely to be accentuated by obesity or malnutrition. Temporary relief is obtained by wearing good, corrective shoes containing pads or bars to hold up the weakened arches. More permanent results come with exercise, particularly walking. The foot must be strengthened to hold up the arches. Good posture and walking properly help distribute body weight where nature intended.

REST WEAKENS ARCHES

C. M. writes: Does a long period of bed rest break down the arches? After I started walking around, following an illness, I suffered from arch pain.

REPLY

Yes, and this is one of the most common causes of trouble along this line. In some instances it occurs after spending a week in bed. Specialists refer to this condition as decompensation of the feet. As you walk more and more they will become stronger.

DISTURBED BY DAFFODILS

E. B. P. writes: I suffered from a skin irritation every spring until I discovered it was caused by daffodils. I wonder if others have the same problem.

REPLY

PYLOROSPASM

M. J. writes: What causes spasms of the pylorus in an adult?

REPLY

Nervousness and irritation are common causes. Irritation may be associated with ulcer or gastritis or follow dietary indiscretions, including overindulgence in alcohol.

BLOOD PLASMA FRACTION

H. J. writes: What is gamma globulin and what is it given for?

REPLY

It is the protein factor of the blood that contains many of the antibodies against disease. It is used principally as a prophylaxis against measles.

PEPTIC ULCER

N. R. writes: Are stomach and duodenal ulcers the same?

REPLY

Yes. Ten per cent of peptic ulcers are located in the stomach and the remainder in the first part of the small intestine (duodenum) within an inch of the exit valve of the gastric pouch. Stomach ulcers are more serious because they may become malignant.

TOMORROW: Seizures of four Types.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

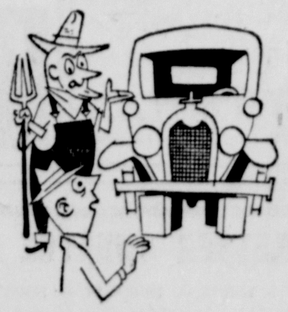

By Bennett Cerf

You've heard lots of mean stories about finance company agents swooping down to repossess autos, TV sets, pianos, and what not. Here's a nice story for a change:

An agent had to remind an old farmer that he hadn't paid the last two of 50 installments on a new car. "It's in the barn," said the farmer sadly — and in a low voice so his wife couldn't hear, "I'm afraid you'll have to take that car of yours back."

The agent walked with him to the barn. There he found the car shiny and new, up on blocks, carefully covered with a tarpaulin, its speedometer showing only 12 miles — the distance from the auto sales room to the barn.

"But you've hardly driven this car!" exclaimed the agent. "Didn't feel I should," explained

The agent slammed shut his collection book, put the tarpaulin back over the car, and said, "I guess we'll just let you have this car till your crops come in."

Nine Counties In West Va. Lose $351,048

Assessment Penalty Levied

CHARLESTON W. Va. (UPI)—Nine 'Vest Virginia counties will lose $351,048 in state aid to schools during the coming school year for failure to meet minimum property assessment standards under a 1953 penalty law.

Biggest loser will be Fayette County, which will have its allocation cut by $140,650; followed by Greenbrier County, $73,003; Wood County, $38,615, and Mercer County, $29,640.

It was reported that the Fayette County Board of Education may file a test suit to determine the constitutionality of the penalty law.

It provides that counties shall lose a proportionate share of their state normal aid if their average property assessments fail to reach a specified percentage of valuations set for that county by the state tax commissioner's survey.

The required level for 1958-59 is 45 per cent, which rises a final 5 per cent to 50 per cent next year. Any county's loss is equal to the percentage by which it assessments fall below the 45 per cent level.

The board said Fayette County's assessments average only 39.4 per cent of the tax commissioner's valuations. Greenbrier 39.08 per cent, Wood 42.68, and Mercer 43.7.

Other counties and their tentative assessments and penalties were:

Berkeley 41.18, $29,097; Greenbrier 39.08, $73,003; Mercer 43.7, $29,640; Nicholas 44.45, $5,941; Putnam 43, $13,561; Summers 42.98, $12,383; Webster 43.73, $8,158; Wood 42.69, $38,615.

Fayette County, including this year's penalties, has lost $247,684 in state aid for its public schools. Greenbrier is second in total losses with $170,099 in the three-year period since the inception of the legislation.

The 1958 total is twice that of the $175,326 in penalties for 1957. The 1956 figure was $126,047, bringing the three year total to $652,421.

Frostburg Employe Resigns

FROSTBURG — Franklin Martens, assistant water superintendent, here, resigned his position last evening at the mid month meeting. He stated that he had accepted a position at State Teachers College as maintenance foreman.

William Plummer and Fred Wilson, Wrights Crossing, asked the council what a group of 9 to 10 families who presently receive their water from a line running to the Maplehurst Country Club, would have to do to tap onto the new line recently laid to the undergarment factory.

Council told them they would have to form a company, lay their own lines, purchase a master meter and pay for the tap.

They would also be responsible for collections as the city would only issue one bill for the total amount used over the master meter.

The Robert Hohing clothing store was awarded the contract for nine uniforms for the city police.

Assessment Penalty Levied

CHARLESTON W. Va. (UPI)—Nine West Virginia counties will lose $351,048 in state aid to schools during the coming school year for failure to meet minimum property assessment standards under a 1953 penalty law.

Biggest loser will be Fayette County, which will have its allocation cut by $140,650; followed by Greenbrier County, $73,003; Wood County, $38,615, and Mercer County, $29,640.

It was reported that the Fayette County Board of Education may file a test suit to determine the constitutionality of the penalty law.

It provides that counties shall lose a proportionate share of their state normal aid if their average property assessments fail to reach a specified percentage of valuations set for that county by the state tax commissioner's survey.

The required level for 1958-59 is 45 per cent, which rises a final 5 per cent to 50 per cent next year. Any county's loss is equal to the percentage by which it assessments fall below the 45 per cent level.

The board said Fayette County's assessments average only 39.4 per cent of the tax commissioner's valuations, Greenbrier 39.08 per cent, Wood 42.68, and Mercer 43.7.

Other counties and their tentative assessments and penalties were:

Berkeley 41.18, $29,097; Greenbrier 39.08, $73,003; Mercer 43.7, $29,640; Nicholas 44.45, $5,941; Putnam 43, $13,561; Summers 42.98, $12,383; Webster 43.73, $8,158; Wood 42.69, $38,615.

Fayette County, including this year's penalties, has lost $247,684 in state aid for its public schools. Greenbrier is second in total losses with $170,099 in the three-year period since the inception of the legislation.

The 1958 total is twice that of the $175,326 in penalties for 1957. The 1956 figure was $126,047, bringing the three year total to $652,421.

Indians Hand Slumping Yanks 4th Straight Loss, 8-6

Colavito, Wertz Hit Home Runs

Ford Knocked Out, Kucks Takes Loss, Don Mossi Winner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two mighty home runs by Rocky Colavito and Vic Wertz carried the Cleveland Indians to an 8-6 victory over the slumping New York Yankees, who lost their fourth straight game Tuesday night and their ninth in the last 12 starts.

Despite a long talking-to by Casey Stengel concerning big margins that went down the drain before, the Yankees frittered away a 6-3 lead, left 13 men on base, and saw their American League lead sliced to 10½ games over the second-place Chicago White Sox.

Wertz' homer with one on in the seventh broke a 6-6 tie and sent reliefer Johnny Kucks down to his sixth defeat against eight victories. The blow travelled 375 feet into the lower right field stands and was Wertz' second homer since returning to action on July 22 following a 3½ month layoff because of a broken ankle.

Colavito belted his 28th homer of the season with two on in the fifth off Duke Maas. The homer travelled 410 feet, landed in the left field bullpen, and tied the score at 6-6. Then, in the bottom of the frame, Colavito cut loose with a spectacular throw from right field to nail Elston Howard trying to score from second on Norm Siebern's long single.

Southpaw Don Mossi was credited with his seventh victory. He entered the game in the fourth inning and held the Yankees scoreless, although he gave up six hits before Ray Narleski bailed him out in the seventh.

Whitey Ford started for the Yankees and gave up three runs, including Dick Brown's inside-the-park homer, in the two innings he worked.

The Yankees raked Cleveland starter Cal McLish for three runs in the third on a pair of walks and successive ground-rule doubles by Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra, then went ahead, 6-3, with another three-run cluster in the fourth without benefit of a base hit.

Errors by Wertz, Billy Hunter, and Billy Moran, coupled with two walks, comprised the Yankees' fourth inning "rally."

Dodgers' Don Drysdale Defeats Milwaukee, 4-1

Snaps 7-Game Win Streak Of Braves

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lanky Don Drysdale snapped a seven-game Milwaukee winning streak Tuesday night by pitching the Dodgers to a 4-1 victory in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader.

Given a three-run cushion in the second inning by shortstop Charlie Neal's 21st home run, Drysdale pitched a five-hitter as he worked his first complete game since June 26, when he beat the Braves at Milwaukee.

Neal hit a floater over the left field screen that seemed to hang momentarily over the barrier and then drop into the stands to score Norm Larker and Gil Hodges ahead of him.

Bill Bruton smashed one of the rare Coliseum homers into the right field boxes 360 feet from the plate in the third inning to narrow the Dodger lead to two runs.

But Drysdale, apparently not satisfied with that lead, hit his fifth homer of the season with none on in the fifth inning to regain the three-run lead.

For Drysdale, it was his seventh straight win over the Milwaukee squad, to whom he has lost only one game in his major league career. Carlton Willey worked seven innings for Milwaukee and aside from the second inning when Neal hit his homer, he was just as effective as Drysdale. He was lifted in the eighth for a pinch-hitter.

Nellie Fox Sets Durability Record

BOSTON (UPI) — Dick Donovan's four-hitter lifted the torrid White Sox to their sixth straight victory Tuesday night, 7-1, over the Boston Red Sox as Chicago's second baseman Nellie Fox set a major league mark for durability.

The 30-year-old Fox had three singles in five trips, driving in the deciding run in the third inning, in his 478th consecutive game for the second-place Chisox. The old mark for second basemen was 477, set by Eddy Collins, also of the White Sox in 1918.

Jim Rivera's two-run homer in the seventh was the biggest of 10 Chicago hits off loser Frank Sullivan and reliefers Bud Byerly and Bill Monbouquette. Jackie Jensen got two of the Boston safeties, socking his 33rd home run over the left field screen in the fifth and singling to left in the second.

Only four batters reached first against the deliberate-pitching Donovan who has now won seven of his last eight starts to bring his slate to 10-11 after a hard early season. Jimmy Piersall beat out an infield hit in the eighth but never advanced while Ted Williams lined a two-out single in the ninth.

Fox and Al Smith paced the White Sox with three singles apiece. Chicago scored one run on Luis Aparicio's triple and a passed ball in the first inning and tallied three times in the eighth when the Red Sox committed two of their three errors.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Roy Sievers drove in two runs with his 34th homer and a single Tuesday night to lead the Washington Senators in handing the Detroit Tigers their fifth straight defeat, 3-1.

A crowd of 10,970, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon, saw Sievers enjoy a perfect night at bat with four hits in four at-bats to raise his batting average to .317. His home run kept him close to the Yankees' Mickey Mantle in the battle for the American League lead in that department.

Sievers' slugging enabled the Senators to even their home record for the season at 29 wins and 29 defeats, their best home mark in several years.

Indians Hand Slumping Yanks 4th Straight Loss, 8-6

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two mighty home runs by Rocky Colavito and Vic Wertz carried the Cleveland Indians to an 8-6 victory over the slumping New York Yankees, who lost their fourth straight game Tuesday night and their ninth in the last 12 starts.

Despite a long talking-to by Casey Stengel concerning big margins that went down the drain before, the Yankees frittered away a 6-3 lead, left 13 men on base, and saw their American League lead sliced to 10½ games over the second-place Chicago White Sox.

Wertz' homer with one on in the seventh broke a 6-6 tie and sent reliefer Johnny Kucks down to his sixth defeat against eight victories. The blow travelled 375 feet into the lower right field stands and was Wertz' second homer since returning to action on July 22 following a 3½ month layoff because of a broken ankle.

Colavito belted his 28th homer of the season with two on in the fifth off Duke Maas. The homer travelled 410 feet, landed in the left field bullpen, and tied the score at 6-6. Then, in the bottom of the frame, Colavito cut loose with a spectacular throw from right field to nail Elston Howard trying to score from second on Norm Siebern's long single.

Southpaw Don Mossi was credited with his seventh victory. He entered the game in the fourth inning and held the Yankees scoreless, although he gave up six hits before Ray Narleski bailed him out in the seventh.

Whitey Ford started for the Yankees and gave up three runs, including Dick Brown's inside-the-park homer, in the two innings he worked.

The Yankees raked Cleveland starter Cal McLish for three runs in the third on a pair of walks and successive ground-rule doubles by Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra, then went ahead, 6-3, with another three-run cluster in the fourth without benefit of a base hit.

Errors by Wertz, Billy Hunter, and Billy Moran, coupled with two walks, comprised the Yankees' fourth inning "rally."

Dodgers' Don Drysdale Defeats Milwaukee, 4-1

Snaps 7-Game Win Streak Of Braves

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lanky Don Drysdale snapped a seven-game Milwaukee winning streak Tuesday night by pitching the Dodgers to a 4-1 victory in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader.

Given a three-run cushion in the second inning by shortstop Charlie Neal's 21st home run, Drysdale pitched a five-hitter as he worked his first complete game since June 26, when he beat the Braves at Milwaukee.

Neal hit a floater over the left field screen that seemed to hang momentarily over the barrier and then drop into the stands to score Norm Larker and Gil Hodges ahead of him.

Bill Bruton smashed one of the rare Coliseum homers into the right field boxes 360 feet from the plate in the third inning to narrow the Dodger lead to two runs.

But Drysdale, apparently not satisfied with that lead, hit his fifth homer of the season with none on in the fifth inning to regain the three-run lead.

For Drysdale, it was his seventh straight win over the Milwaukee squad, to whom he has lost only one game in his major league career. Carlton Willey worked seven innings for Milwaukee and aside from the second inning when Neal hit his homer, he was just as effective as Drysdale. He was lifted in the eighth for a pinch-hitter.

Nellie Fox Sets Durability Record

BOSTON (UPI) — Dick Donovan's four-hitter lifted the torrid White Sox to their sixth straight victory Tuesday night, 7-1, over the Boston Red Sox as Chicago's second baseman Nellie Fox set a major league mark for durability.

The 30-year-old Fox had three singles in five trips, driving in the deciding run in the third inning, in his 478th consecutive game for the second-place Chisox. The old mark for second basemen was 477, set by Eddy Collins, also of the White Sox in 1918.

Jim Rivera's two-run homer in the seventh was the biggest of 10 Chicago hits off loser Frank Sullivan and reliefers Bud Byerly and Bill Monbouquette. Jackie Jensen got two of the Boston safeties, socking his 33rd home run over the left field screen in the fifth and singling to left in the second.

Only four batters reached first against the deliberate-pitching Donovan who has now won seven of his last eight starts to bring his slate to 10-11 after a hard early season. Jimmy Piersall beat out an infield hit in the eighth but never advanced while Ted Williams lined a two-out single in the ninth.

Fox and Al Smith paced the White Sox with three singles apiece. Chicago scored one run on Luis Aparicio's triple and a passed ball in the first inning and tallied three times in the eighth when the Red Sox committed two of their three errors.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Roy Sievers drove in two runs with his 34th homer and a single Tuesday night to lead the Washington Senators in handing the Detroit Tigers their fifth straight defeat, 3-1.

A crowd of 10,970, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon, saw Sievers enjoy a perfect night at bat with four hits in four at-bats to raise his batting average to .317. His home run kept him close to the Yankees' Mickey Mantle in the battle for the American League lead in that department.

Sievers' slugging enabled the Senators to even their home record for the season at 29 wins and 29 defeats, their best home mark in several years.

Both Homers Come With One Aboard In Chicago Game

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bill Mazeroski and Dick Stuart both hit two run homers Tuesday to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Starter Curt Raydon got the win, allowing the Cubs six hits and two earned runs before being pulled for a pinch hitter in the seventh. It was Raydon's seventh win, although he's hurled only two complete games.

The loss was tagged to Cub starter Taylor Phillips, who lasted until the sixth. Phillips now has failed to finish his last 11 starts.

Stuart's sixth inning blow, which sailed over the left field bleachers into the street, proved the game winner.

The Cubs opened the scoring with an unearned run on two Pirate first-inning errors. Tony Taylor singled, stole second, went to third when catcher Hank Foiles threw wildly to second, and scored when third baseman Frank Thomas missed a throw.

Pittsburgh bounced back in the second when Thomas led off with a double and Mazeroski followed with his 15th home run of the season.

Chicago tied it in the fourth on two walks and Dale Long's double and the game remained deadlocked until the sixth when, with one out, Roberto Clemente singled and Stuart homered.

The Cubs nicked Raydon for a third run on two singles in the sixth, then got final singles off reliever Bob Porterfield in the eighth and ninth.

Waner Suffers Heart Attack

Paul Is Admitted To Omaha Hospital

OMAHA (AP) — Paul Waner, "big poison" of the Pittsburgh Pirates a generation ago and a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, is in an Omaha hospital after suffering a heart attack Monday night.

Omaha Cardinals Manager Bill Bergesch said doctors were worried about Waner's condition during the night but that the former slugger was improved Tuesday.

Waner, whose hits topped the magic 3,000 mark in two decades of play, was stricken in an Omaha hotel after attending a ball game. He has been a batting instructor for the St. Louis Cardinals organization and was here to work with hitters of the Omaha American Assn. team, a Cardinal farm club.

Mrs. Hilton led the Group A players with a net 37 while Mrs. Evans paced Group B with a net 23.

Twenty-two members participated.

Miss Betty Hanna is the medalist in the annual fall championship tournament with a score of 108. The 17 qualifiers have been divided into three flights for match play.

Bold Ruler Starts Career As Sire

PARIS, Ky. (AP)—Bold Ruler, thoroughbred racing's horse of the year in 1957, arrived at nearby Claiborne Farm Tuesday to enter a new career as a sire.

The Wheatley Stable's great handicap star arrived from Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and appeared fresh. HE will go to stud in 1959 at Claiborne, the home of his famed pappy, Nasrullah.

The 4-year-old colt finished sixth in his last start July 26 in the Brooklyn Handicap and either injured an ankle in that race or in training.

When the Campobello school opened in 1926 Walter L. Bowers was the first grid mentor. The last year at old Allegany County High School on Greene Street (1925) Jim Lazard was the coach.

Prof. Bowers coached football teams at Allegany 11 seasons.

A DRAGON KILLER, winner of the Arlington Classic, was named for a fun and charity organization, the Illustrious Order of Dragon Killers, whose Chief Exalted Dragon is the husband of Mrs. S. Helene Sacacca, who owns the colt.

BUD WILKINSON, coach of great Oklahoma football teams, quarterbacked the College All-Stars to their first victory over the pros in 1937. It was over the Green Bay Packers.

TOMMY STITCHER, son of Police Officer Henry "Ditty" Stitcher, a one-time baseball star himself, led the pitchers of the Dapper Dan Little League this season with a 6-0 record.

Pitching for the Dodgers, Dan Division champs, Stitcher beat the Senators, Indians and Tigers twice each.

Howard Reynolds of the Phillies, champions of the Dapper Division, posted a 6-1 record. He whipped the Pirates, thrice, the Red Sox twice and Yankees, once, and lost a 7-6 verdict to the Red Sox.

Dan—Ronnie Isner, Athletics 4-1; Carl Hubble, Senators 3-1; Rocky Klosterman, Dodgers 4-2; Tommy Bishop, Tigers 2-1; Tommy Zembower, Tigers 4-3; Gary Shroyer, Braves 4-3; John Roy, Senators 3-3; Mike Kelly, Braves 3-4.

Dapper—Lee Miller, Red Sox 4-1; Mike "Babe" Adams, Pirates 2-1; Billy Ronsley, Cardinals 5-3; Russ Reynolds, Yankees 3-2; Tom Wallace, Yankees 4-4; Richie Robinson, Red Sox 2-2; Jerry Young, Giants 2-2; Vinnie DelaGrange, Phillies 2-3; Wayne Jewell, Pirates, 3-5 and Bill Dean, Pirates 2-5.

GEORGE S. COOPER, retired sports editor of the Johnstown Tribune Democrat, says no amateur baseball player ever hit the ball over the right field wall at the Point Stadium but he recalls that two former Middle Atlantic League players belted homers over that distance point.

One was Al Milnar of Zanesville, who hit over the barrier but received credit for only a triple when he overran an overjoyed baserunner who stopped to congratulate Milnar after he rounded third base.

The other guy who socked one over the wall during a game was Jack Duberstein, who started the 1931 season as first baseman of the Cumberland Colts. Duberstein was the left-handed first sacker, who faded out here because he couldn't hit curve ball pitching and gave way to Max Posnak, the basketball star from St. John's College in New York.

Cooper mentioned that in the late 1920s Babe Ruth and Gehrig hit several over the wall during practice when the Yankees played exhibition games there but they failed to hit any over in the regular game.

Ruth is the only player ever to hit the ball over the centerfield fence at old Mid City Park on Wineow street. That, too, was during practice before an exhibition game between the Yankees and Colts.

There is the AAABA tourney at Johnstown for 19-years-and-under, Little League at Williamsport, the VFW Teener at Hershey, the Prep tourney at Munhall, the Pony League event at Washington and the NABF in Altoona.

Sixteen teams from nine states and the District of Columbia played in the Johnstown tourney which ended last night with Washington, D. C. and Milford, Del., as the finalists.

It cost a little more than $100 per day for lodging and meals for each team that played there during the past week.

Kirkland's Triple Sews It Up, 4 To 3

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Willie Kirkland tripled home Orlando Cepeda with an unearned run in the 10th inning Tuesday to give the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The winning tally got on base when second baseman Johnny Temple dropped a high pop fly by Cepeda after racing for the ball down the first base line and bumping into first basemen Dee Fondy. Then Kirkland smashed a drive into right center field which sent Cepeda home and gave the Giants their 19th last-inning triumph of the season.

Johnny Antonelli, who had homered in the third inning and had a three-hitter going into the ninth, went all the way to win his 14th. The losing pitcher was Hal Jeffcoat, who started the 10th after reliefer Willard Schmidt had gone out for a pinch hitter.

The Giants held a 3-1 lead as the ninth opened, then Jerry Lynch singled and Pete Whisenant sent the game into extra innings by hitting his seventh home run of the season.

Bob Purkey, who had held San Francisco to one run in 46 innings before Tuesday's contest, gave up the homer to Antonelli and the two other Giant runs, which had scored on a pair of doubles by Leon Wagner.

Purkey gave up eight hits during his span of seven innings while Antonelli struck out eight and yielded five safeties.

Wagner drove home Willie Mays, who had singled, in the third inning and then doubled across Danny O'Connell after the Irishman had opened the fifth with a single and moved around to third on a sacrifice and infield out.

Stuart, Mazeroski Hit Homers As Pirates Win, 4-3

Raydon Posts 7th Triumph Of Campaign

Both Homers Come With One Aboard In Chicago Game

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bill Mazeroski and Dick Stuart both hit two run homers Tuesday to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Starter Curt Raydon got the win, allowing the Cubs six hits and two earned runs before being pulled for a pinch hitter in the seventh. It was Raydon's seventh win, although he's hurled only two complete games.

The loss was tagged to Cub starter Taylor Phillips, who lasted until the sixth. Phillips now has failed to finish his last 11 starts.

Stuart's sixth inning blow, which sailed over the left field bleachers into the street, proved the game winner.

The Cubs opened the scoring with an unearned run on two Pirate first-inning errors. Tony Taylor singled, stole second, went to third when catcher Hank Foiles threw wildly to second, and scored when third baseman Frank Thomas missed a throw.

Pittsburgh bounced back in the second when Thomas led off with a double and Mazeroski followed with his 15th home run of the season.

Chicago tied it in the fourth on two walks and Dale Long's double and the game remained deadlocked until the sixth when, with one out, Roberto Clemente singled and Stuart homered.

The Cubs nicked Raydon for a third run on two singles in the sixth, then got final singles off reliever Bob Porterfield in the eighth and ninth.

The winning tally got on base when second baseman Johnny Temple dropped a high pop fly by Cepeda after racing for the ball down the first base line and bumping into first basemen Dee Fondy. Then Kirkland smashed a drive into right center field which sent Cepeda home and gave the Giants their 19th last-inning triumph of the season.

Johnny Antonelli, who had homered in the third inning and had a three-hitter going into the ninth, went all the way to win his 14th. The losing pitcher was Hal Jeffcoat, who started the 10th after reliefer Willard Schmidt had gone out for a pinch hitter.

The Giants held a 3-1 lead as the ninth opened, then Jerry Lynch singled and Pete Whisenant sent the game into extra innings by hitting his seventh home run of the season.

Bob Purkey, who had held San Francisco to one run in 46 innings before Tuesday's contest, gave up the homer to Antonelli and the two other Giant runs, which had scored on a pair of doubles by Leon Wagner.

Purkey gave up eight hits during his span of seven innings while Antonelli struck out eight and yielded five safeties.

Wagner drove home Willie Mays, who had singled, in the third inning and then doubled across Danny O'Connell after the Irishman had opened the fifth with a single and moved around to third on a sacrifice and infield out.

A DRAGON KILLER, winner of the Arlington Classic, was named for a fun and charity organization, the Illustrious Order of Dragon Killers, whose Chief Exalted Dragon is the husband of Mrs. S. Helene Sacacca, who owns the colt.

BUD WILKINSON, coach of great Oklahoma football teams, quarterbacked the College All-Stars to their first victory over the pros in 1937. It was over the Green Bay Packers.

TOMMY STITCHER, son of Police Officer Henry "Ditty" Stitcher, a one-time baseball star himself, led the pitchers of the Dapper Dan Little League this season with a 6-0 record.

Howard Reynolds of the Phillies, champions of the Dapper Division, posted a 6-1 record. He whipped the Pirates, thrice, the Red Sox twice and Yankees, once, and lost a 7-6 verdict to the Red Sox.

Dan—Ronnie Isner, Athletics 4-1; Carl Hubble, Senators 3-1; Rocky Klosterman, Dodgers 4-2; Tommy Bishop, Tigers 2-1; Tommy Zembower, Tigers 4-3; Gary Shroyer, Braves 4-3; John Roy, Senators 3-3; Mike Kelly, Braves 3-4.

Dapper—Lee Miller, Red Sox 4-1; Mike "Babe" Adams, Pirates 2-1; Billy Ronsley, Cardinals 5-3; Russ Reynolds, Yankees 3-2; Tom Wallace, Yankees 4-4; Richie Robinson, Red Sox 2-2; Jerry Young, Giants 2-2; Vinnie DelaGrange, Phillies 2-3; Wayne Jewell, Pirates, 3-5 and Bill Dean, Pirates 2-5.

GEORGE S. COOPER, retired sports editor of the Johnstown Tribune Democrat, says no amateur baseball player ever hit the ball over the right field wall at the Point Stadium but he recalls that two former Middle Atlantic League players belted homers over that distance point.

One was Al Milnar of Zanesville, who hit over the barrier but received credit for only a triple when he overran an overjoyed baserunner who stopped to congratulate Milnar after he rounded third base.

The other guy who socked one over the wall during a game was Jack Duberstein, who started the 1931 season as first baseman of the Cumberland Colts. Duberstein was the left-handed first sacker, who faded out here because he couldn't hit curve ball pitching and gave way to Max Posnak, the basketball star from St. John's College in New York.

Cooper mentioned that in the late 1920s Babe Ruth and Gehrig hit several over the wall during practice when the Yankees played exhibition games there but they failed to hit any over in the regular game.

Ruth is the only player ever to hit the ball over the centerfield fence at old Mid City Park on Wineow street. That, too, was during practice before an exhibition game between the Yankees and Colts.

PENNSYLVANIA can boast of being the national capital of "boys baseball" this month.

There is the AAABA tourney at Johnstown for 19-years-and-under, Little League at Williamsport, the VFW Teener at Hershey, the Prep tourney at Munhall, the Pony League event at Washington and the NABF in Altoona.

Sixteen teams from nine states and the District of Columbia played in the Johnstown tourney which ended last night with Washington, D. C. and Milford, Del., as the finalists.

It cost a little more than $100 per day for lodging and meals for each team that played there during the past week.

Paul Is Admitted To Omaha Hospital

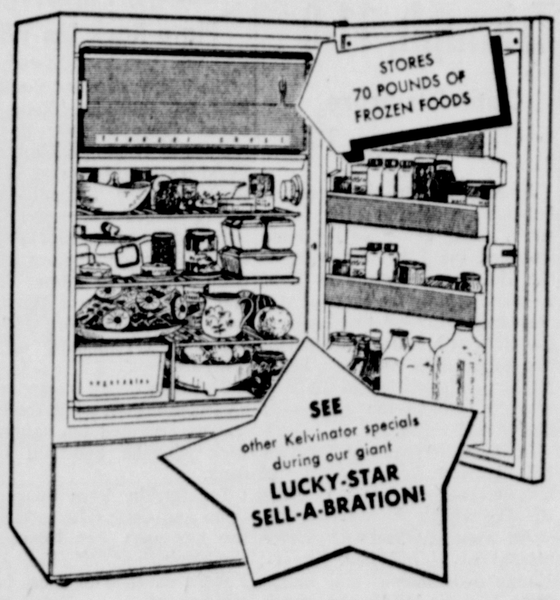

OMAHA (AP) — Paul Waner, "big poison" of the Pittsburgh Pirates a generation ago and a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, is in an Omaha hospital after suffering a heart attack Monday night.

Omaha Cardinals Manager Bill Bergesch said doctors were worried about Waner's condition during the night but that the former slugger was improved Tuesday.

Waner, whose hits topped the magic 3,000 mark in two decades of play, was stricken in an Omaha hotel after attending a ball game. He has been a batting instructor for the St. Louis Cardinals organization and was here to work with hitters of the Omaha American Assn. team, a Cardinal farm club.

Patterson-Harris Bout Gate Sets California Record

21,680 Paid $234,183 To See Heavies

Champ Will Clear $300,000; Theater TV Draws Million

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson's successful title defense against Roy Harris was a financial as well as an artistic victory.

Promoter Bill Rosesohn, trying his hand at the fight game for the first time, said Tuesday that Patterson's 12-round knockout over the big fellow from Cut and Shoot, Tex., attracted 21,680 fans in Wrigley Field Monday night.

The gross was $234,183.25 and the net $202,764.83.

The gross broke the California record of $233,331 for the Sugar Ray Robinson-Bobo Olsen middleweight fight here in May, 1956.

Dr. Rudolph Ponce of the California Athletic Commission said it took 14 stitches to sew up three cuts on Harris' face. Two were slight cuts about the left eye. Ten stitches were needed for a jagged slash above the right eyebrow.

Roy Gets $100,000

Otherwise, Harris, who lost his first fight after 22 straight wins, was in good physical shape and his bankroll was enriched by his $100,000 guarantee.

Patterson, floored for a four-court in the second round, got up to give Harris a merciless beating. The champion reduced the challenger's face to a cut, bloody mess and knocked him down four times. Harris' trainer called it quits after the 12th round and it went into the records as a knockout.

Patterson, 23, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was unmarked and he, too, could count his third winning defense of the title a most lucrative one.

The Patterson camp guaranteed Harris his $100,000 out of the champ's take. Patterson got 50 per cent of the net live gate and a similar share of the closed circuit theater television.

The champion will clear an estimated $300,000.

TV Draws Million

Irving Kahn, president of Telemprompter Corp., which staged the theater TV, said approximately 200,000 fans saw the fight in 15 theaters in 133 cities.

He said they paid approximately a million dollars and that Patterson's share would exceed the $210,000 that he was guaranteed for the theater TV. Kahn said exact figures will not be known for several days.

Harris and his wife spent the night with friends away from his local hotel headquarters. But he called his trainer, Bill Gore, Tuesday morning and said he felt fine and was ready to fight any time.

Praises Challenger

Patterson said he believes that Harris "would do all right with any of the other heavyweights in action today." The names of Archie Moore, whom Patterson knocked out to win the title in 1956, and Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., were mentioned as possible victims if they ever met Harris.

Patterson said he wants to fight more often, even next month, but D'Amato would not go on record for a definite engagement. He said Floyd probably would defend his title again this year but he declined to name any possible opponent.

D'Amato said that the only definite commitment Patterson has is a title fight in Colorado Springs, sometim next June. Gov. Steven McNichols of Colorado, in a brief talk, said the fight would be a feature of the state's "rush to the Rockies" centennial celebration next year. Final details or an opponent h ve not been discussed.

Wise Margin Wins Over Chit Chat

Mlle. Diane Third At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 19 (AP)—Under a confident ride by Jockey Nick Shuk, Samuel Tufano's Wise Margin scored the first victory in his comeback campaign when he drove to a one length victory in the President Purse at Atlantic City race course. Mrs. Eugenia E. Bankhead's Chit Chat who had installed a new seven furlong time mark here just one week ago finished second in the mile and a sixteenth test. Mlle. Dianne carried the blue and white silks of Harold H. Polk to the show award.

Wise Margin was clocked in 1.43 and as the second choice of the 21,581 onlookers paid $9.20, $3.60 and $2.20.

Shuk was in no hurry today with the 8-year-old Market Wise horse and down the backside was running sixth as Mlle. Dianne and Chit Chat were putting on a private show.

Turning for home Chit Chat went to the front as Mlle. Dianne faded slightly but Wise Margin was under full steam. However, it did not appear in the early stretch that the leader would be caught but Chit Chat began to weary in the late stages as Wise Margin poured it on.

The winner closed a vigorous campaign last December and early this year was sent to stud at the owner's New Jersey farm.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—At least 90 colleges — from Alabama to little William Penn of Oskaloosa, Iowa — hired new head football coaches for this fall as a result of a bigger-than-usual turnover caused by death, retirement, promotion and outright firings.

There'll be new head men at Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Tex A. & M., UCLA, Stanford, Arizona State, Iowa State, Utah and Virginia among the bigger schools plus a raft of newcomers at the smaller places where winning is nearly as important as at a football factory.

It was a rough year all around. Last year, for instance, only 78 new coaches were hired.

Least expected, of course, was the change at UCLA, caused by the death of Henry (Red) Sanders, who died of a heart attack only last week. He'll be replaced by his staff, led by senior assistant George Dickerson.

Cause Chain Reactions

When Bear Bryant left Texas A. & M. after a successful season to relieve J. B. Whitworth at Alabama, things began popping. Texas A. & M. succeeded in luring Jim Myers from Iowa State. So Iowa State promoted an assistant, Clay Stapleton, to try his hand for the first time as a head coach.

Jack Mitchell, one of the nation's up and coming young coaches, decided to leave Arkansas to take Jack Mather's job at Kansas, a move he obviously considered an advance in his career. Arkansas then dickered with Frank Broyles of Missouri and got him. Missouri promptly hired Dan Devine who had a 10-0 year at Arizona (Tempe) State. Tempe then promoted Frank Kush, a recent Michigan State star, as head coach.

Shaw Goes to Eagles

Of the 50 so-called major colleges that hired new coaches, 31 went for assistant coaches starting out on their first head coaching jobs. Few of the really big outfits went for untried coaches, but Arizona State, Utah, Iowa State, Lafayette, Montana, Montana State, Virginia and West Texas State were among those not afraid to try it.

Generally, the turnover strictly was a move to get a better record and it didn't make much difference whether the school was big or little.

Ouachita College at Arkadelphia, Ark., with a 1-9 record last year, decided to try Lamar Watkins as this year's coach. William Penn College, which scored only six points last season in compiling an 0-4-1 record acquired Earl Craven to see what he could do.

But a guy still could lose and not blow his job. Johnny Druze of Marquette is 0-19 for the last two years. But Johnny will be back.

Darrell Madden Rides Triple At Rockingham

Madden started his streak on The Goon ($33.40) in the fifth, followed with Marion County ($15.40) and wound up on Great Grant ($17.80) in the seventh.

A $227.20 daily double was returned by Resand ($14.80) in the first and My Town ($29.60) in the second.

six children and lives across the street from the Forest Park golf course in Baltimore.

Miss Downey, who won the Cumberland Country Club Invitation Tournament three years in a row and retired the first Old Export Bowl offered by the Cumberland Brewing Company, says everyone in her family played golf so at the age of ten she took up the game, first swinging a club in her back yard, then moving across the street to the golf course.

Her early golf instructors were two well known pros, Frank Invernezzi at Forest Park and Charley Betschler of Hillendale Country Club.

Musial Is Named Football Chairman

NEW YORK (UPI) — St. Louis Cardinal star Stan Musial Tuesday was named chairman of the 27th annual football game benefit at Yankee Stadium, Oct. 19, for needy cancer victims at the American Medical Center in Denver.

The game will be the home opener of the New York Giants, who will meet the Chicago Cardinals. This will mark the 27th year that the Giants have set aside a large allotment of tickets for the support of the non-sectarian medical center.

Musial reports that part of this year's proceeds will be devoted to the establishment of a special athletes' wing at the center.

Game Is Shifed

The Rotary-Lions Hot Stove League game set for today at 6 p. m., at Fort Hill Field has been transferred to Stitcher Field.

WILL SHOW HOW TO SAVE HAIR AND PREVENT BALDNESS

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Cumberland on August 21, Thursday only.

Trichologist J. J. Stalteri will be in charge, representing the dynamic Harlow Hair Experts organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1:00 to 8:00 p. m. Thursday at the Ft. Cumberland Hotel.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked personally at regular intervals by a Harlow expert.

WHO CAN BE HELPED

For many years now Harlow Hair Experts have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the body of scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Harlow treatment.

Will the new Harlow treatment cure baldness? "No". For we cannot help men and women who are slickbald after years of gradual hair-loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions such as "Spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring an excessive hair loss — dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea — can be corrected by the Harlow home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

Evidence of the success of the Harlow method is that the organization has quickly expanded to serve hundreds of cities in 32 states.

Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't thing anybody can stop hair loss —" or "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep right on losing hair until you're bald . . . unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair growing condition again.

SATISFY 95%

"Actually, our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim," says Harlow, "for we satisfy at least 95% of our clients which, when you consider that almost every person is a 'doubter' or a 'putter-offer' where hair is concerned, is an excellent showing. Getting these doubters and putter-offers to come in for an examination is really the problem."

EXAMINE YOU FREE

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair at home. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

GUARANTEED SATISFACTION

The Harlow Hair Experts will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it costs you nothing.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Ft. Cumberland Hotel, Thursday only between 1:00 and 8:00 p. m., for Mr. J. J. Stalteri's room number. He does not make appointments so come in at your convenience.

You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Patterson-Harris Bout Gate Sets California Record

Champ Will Clear $300,000; Theater TV Draws Million

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson's successful title defense against Roy Harris was a financial as well as an artistic victory.

Promoter Bill Rosesohn, trying his hand at the fight game for the first time, said Tuesday that Patterson's 12-round knockout over the big fellow from Cut and Shoot, Tex., attracted 21,680 fans in Wrigley Field Monday night.

The gross was $234,183.25 and the net $202,764.83.

The gross broke the California record of $233,331 for the Sugar Ray Robinson-Bobo Olsen middleweight fight here in May, 1956.

Dr. Rudolph Ponce of the California Athletic Commission said it took 14 stitches to sew up three cuts on Harris' face. Two were slight cuts about the left eye. Ten stitches were needed for a jagged slash above the right eyebrow.

Roy Gets $100,000

Otherwise, Harris, who lost his first fight after 22 straight wins, was in good physical shape and his bankroll was enriched by his $100,000 guarantee.

Patterson, floored for a four-count in the second round, got up to give Harris a merciless beating. The champion reduced the challenger's face to a cut, bloody mess and knocked him down four times. Harris' trainer called it quits after the 12th round and it went into the records as a knockout.

Patterson, 23, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was unmarked and he, too, could count his third winning defense of the title a most lucrative one.

The Patterson camp guaranteed Harris his $100,000 out of the champ's take. Patterson got 50 per cent of the net live gate and a similar share of the closed circuit theater television.

The champion will clear an estimated $300,000.

TV Draws Million

Irving Kahn, president of Telemprompter Corp., which staged the theater TV, said approximately 200,000 fans saw the fight in 15 theaters in 133 cities.

He said they paid approximately a million dollars and that Patterson's share would exceed the $210,000 that he was guaranteed for the theater TV. Kahn said exact figures will not be known for several days.

Harris and his wife spent the night with friends away from his local hotel headquarters. But he called his trainer, Bill Gore, Tuesday morning and said he felt fine and was ready to fight any time.

Praises Challenger

Patterson said he believes that Harris "would do all right with any of the other heavyweights in action today." The names of Archie Moore, whom Patterson knocked out to win the title in 1956, and Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., were mentioned as possible victims if they ever met Harris.

Patterson said he wants to fight more often, even next month, but D'Amato would not go on record for a definite engagement. He said Floyd probably would defend his title again this year but he declined to name any possible opponent.

D'Amato said that the only definite commitment Patterson has is a title fight in Colorado Springs, sometim next June. Gov. Steven McNichols of Colorado, in a brief talk, said the fight would be a feature of the state's "rush to the Rockies" centennial celebration next year. Final details or an opponent h ve not been discussed.

Weatherly Is Sued

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Roy Weatherly, one-time Cleveland Indians baseball star now with the San Antonio Mission team, was sued for divorce Tuesday by his wife who resides at Euclid.

Mrs. Weatherly charged the centerfielder with gross neglect of duty and asked custody of their daughter, Gayle, 16. They were married in 1939.

Captures Baruch Birthday Handicap

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—Georgiana Foster's Viscount (111) hung up the fastest six furlongs of the meeting, 1:11 4/5 to win today's featured "Bernard Baruch Birthday Handicap" by two and three quarter lengths from E. J. Gould's Golden East (113). A half length farther back Maurice Newton's favored Egotistical (122) was third by two over Edward Seinfeld's Decimal (120).

The winner, a chestnut horse by Case Ace from Quick Touch was ridden by Larry Adams and paid $15.60, $4.50, $2.50. Golden East returned $3.90, $2.50 and Egotistical, $2.40.

Bernard Baruch in whose honor today's star attraction was named on the occasion of his 88th birthday was present in the winners circle to take part in brief ceremonies. The trophy was accepted from Baruch by Viscount's trainer, Severio Cardile in behalf of Georgiana Foster.

six children and lives across the street from the Forest Park golf course in Baltimore.

Miss Downey, who won the Cumberland Country Club Invitation Tournament three years in a row and retired the first Old Export Bowl offered by the Cumberland Brewing Company, says everyone in her family played golf so at the age of ten she took up the game, first swinging a club in her back yard, then moving across the street to the golf course.

Her early golf instructors were two well known pros, Frank Invernezzi at Forest Park and Charley Betschler of Hillendale Country Club.

Mlle. Diane Third At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 19 (AP)—Under a confident ride by Jockey Nick Shuk, Samuel Tufano's Wise Margin scored the first victory in his comeback campaign when he drove to a one length victory in the President Purse at Atlantic City race course. Mrs. Eugenia E. Bankhead's Chit Chat who had installed a new seven furlong time mark here just one week ago finished second in the mile and a sixteenth test. Mlle. Dianne carried the blue and white silks of Harold H. Polk to the show award.

Wise Margin was clocked in 1.43 and as the second choice of the 21,581 onlookers paid $9.20, $3.60 and $2.20.

Shuk was in no hurry today with the 8-year-old Market Wise horse and down the backside was running sixth as Mlle. Dianne and Chit Chat were putting on a private show.

Turning for home Chit Chat went to the front as Mlle. Dianne faded slightly but Wise Margin was under full steam. However, it did not appear in the early stretch that the leader would be caught but Chit Chat began to weary in the late stages as Wise Margin poured it on.

The winner closed a vigorous campaign last December and early this year was sent to stud at the owner's New Jersey farm.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—At least 90 colleges — from Alabama to little William Penn of Oskaloosa, Iowa — hired new head football coaches for this fall as a result of a bigger-than-usual turnover caused by death, retirement, promotion and outright firings.

There'll be new head men at Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Tex A. & M., UCLA, Stanford, Arizona State, Iowa State, Utah and Virginia among the bigger schools plus a raft of newcomers at the smaller places where winning is nearly as important as at a football factory.

It was a rough year all around. Last year, for instance, only 78 new coaches were hired.

Least expected, of course, was the change at UCLA, caused by the death of Henry (Red) Sanders, who died of a heart attack only last week. He'll be replaced by his staff, led by senior assistant George Dickerson.

Cause Chain Reactions

When Bear Bryant left Texas A. & M. after a successful season to relieve J. B. Whitworth at Alabama, things began popping. Texas A. & M. succeeded in luring Jim Myers from Iowa State. So Iowa State promoted an assistant, Clay Stapleton, to try his hand for the first time as a head coach.

Jack Mitchell, one of the nation's up and coming young coaches, decided to leave Arkansas to take Jack Mather's job at Kansas, a move he obviously considered an advance in his career. Arkansas then dickered with Frank Broyles of Missouri and got him. Missouri promptly hired Dan Devine who had a 10-0 year at Arizona (Tempe) State. Tempe then promoted Frank Kush, a recent Michigan State star, as head coach.

Of the 50 so-called major colleges that hired new coaches, 31 went for assistant coaches starting out on their first head coaching jobs. Few of the really big outfits went for untried coaches, but Arizona State, Utah, Iowa State, Lafayette, Montana, Montana State, Virginia and West Texas State were among those not afraid to try it.

Generally, the turnover strictly was a move to get a better record and it didn't make much difference whether the school was big or little.

Ouachita College at Arkadelphia, Ark., with a 1-9 record last year, decided to try Lamar Watkins as this year's coach. William Penn College, which scored only six points last season in compiling an 0-4-1 record acquired Earl Craven to see what he could do.

But a guy still could lose and not blow his job. Johnny Druze of Marquette is 0-19 for the last two years. But Johnny will be back.

Darrell Madden Rides Triple At Rockingham

Madden started his streak on The Goon ($33.40) in the fifth, followed with Marion County ($15.40) and wound up on Great Grant ($17.80) in the seventh.

A $227.20 daily double was returned by Resand ($14.80) in the first and My Town ($29.60) in the second.

Musial Is Named Football Chairman

NEW YORK (UPI) — St. Louis Cardinal star Stan Musial Tuesday was named chairman of the 27th annual football game benefit at Yankee Stadium, Oct. 19, for needy cancer victims at the American Medical Center in Denver.

The game will be the home opener of the New York Giants, who will meet the Chicago Cardinals. This will mark the 27th year that the Giants have set aside a large allotment of tickets for the support of the non-sectarian medical center.

Musial reports that part of this year's proceeds will be devoted to the establishment of a special athletes' wing at the center.

They Re-grew Hair!
IN 9 MONTHS — IN 6 MONTHS

Mr. N. Newhouse, Woodale, Ill. — Mrs. H. Haller, Miami, Fla.

Hair Specialist Here THURSDAY
WILL SHOW HOW TO SAVE HAIR AND PREVENT BALDNESS

CORAL GABLES, Fla. — New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Cumberland on August 21, Thursday only.

Trichologist J. J. Stalteri will be in charge, representing the dynamic Harlow Hair Experts organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1:00 to 8:00 p. m. Thursday at the Ft. Cumberland Hotel.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked personally at regular intervals by a Harlow expert.

WHO CAN BE HELPED

For many years now Harlow Hair Experts have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the body of scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Harlow treatment.

Will the new Harlow treatment cure baldness? "No". For we cannot help men and women who are slickbald after years of gradual hair-loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions such as "Spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring an excessive hair loss — dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea — can be corrected by the Harlow home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

Evidence of the success of the Harlow method is that the organization has quickly expanded to serve hundreds of cities in 32 states.

Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't thing anybody can stop hair loss —" or "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep right on losing hair until you're bald . . . unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair growing condition again.

SATISFY 95%

"Actually, our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim," says Harlow, "for we satisfy at least 95% of our clients which, when you consider that almost every person is a 'doubter' or a 'putter-offer' where hair is concerned, is an excellent showing. Getting these doubters and putter-offers to come in for an examination is really the problem."

EXAMINE YOU FREE

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair at home. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

GUARANTEED SATISFACTION

The Harlow Hair Experts will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it costs you nothing.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Ft. Cumberland Hotel, Thursday only between 1:00 and 8:00 p. m., for Mr. J. J. Stalteri's room number. He does not make appointments so come in at your convenience.

You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Examinations are given in private.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 diamond	Pass	1 heart
Pass	1 spade	Pass	2 clubs
Pass	2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts
Pass	4 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Club 4.

East obtained a good match point result for his side today with a neat defensive play that held declarer to his contract. The hand was selected from tournament play where an overtrick frequently represents the difference between an inferior and an excellent score.

The first three bids were routine and then South chose a somewhat unorthodox call. He knew it was proper to rebid in his six card suit but he did not wish to force to game by jumping in hearts nor did he wish to risk a pass by merely rebidding the suit. He temporized once more with a two club bid, forcing for the round.

When North bid two no trump, South rebid his six card suit. With a potential ruffing value in clubs, North elected to raise to four hearts.

West decided to open the club 4 and dummy's jack held the trick. In an effort to steal an overtrick, declarer immediately led a low spade. West won with the ace and promptly shifted to the king of diamonds.

If East, in routine fashion, plays low declarer will take the rest of the tricks, for he will win the next lead and discard a diamond on the queen of spades. He can then arrange to ruff one club in dummy and discard one on the spade jack.

However, East did not play reflexly. If West had another diamond, then declarer held a singleton and this was probably the last trick for the defense. But if West's king were alone it was vital to overtake and give him the ruff. Considering that he had more to gain than to lose East played his diamond ace and returned the suit. West's ruff held the declarer to his contract.

Two W.Va. Youths Enlist In Navy

They are Bobby Joseph Hartman, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olie Dayton Hartman, and Arno Eugene VanMeter, nephew of Dessie Marie Van Meter. Both youths have been sent to the Naval Training Station at San Diego for basic training.

ATOMIC ENERGY

President Eisenhower signed a bill expanding the authority of the Atomic Energy Commission to release nuclear materials for use within the United States. The bill also permits the AEC to enter into five-year contracts for purchase of supplies and to set up a plan for succession of command in the event of casualties suffered in war time.

SKATE TO VISIT DANES

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — The Danish admiralty said Tuesday that the U.S. nuclear submarine Skate, en route from its voyage under the North Pole, was expected to visit Copenhagen Aug. 28. The Skate was due here following calls at the Norwegian ports of Bergen and Oslo.

Words Are Going Out

I was lying in my hammock the other day listening to David Seville — or maybe it's Dic Savile; anyhow one of those teenage singers — belting away at: "Oo- ee- oo- ah - ah - ting - tang." "What phrasing!" I was saying to myself. I haven't heard phrasing like that since kindergarten when we used to practice the vowel sounds in class.

"Oo-ee-oo-ah-ah-ting-tang-walla-walla-bing-bang" is — as any damn fool knows — from the lyrics of that smash hit song "Witch Doctor." Brother, that's poetry a man can get his teeth into. That is, if he's a teen-ager he can get his teeth into it. If he's an older man — a square like me — he may prefer words. It's tough on us older guys because words, let's face it, are going out. Nobody uses words anymore, at least not when writing popular songs. Of course, if you want to write an unpopular song, go ahead — put words in it. You won't even get in to see the publisher.

Ah, me, I can remember way back when painters used to paint things. I mean things like trees, or people, or horses. Of course, that was many years ago, children. Pass me a little more gruel, poke up the fire, kiddies, and let grandpa tell you about those distant days. It was many, many years after representational painting went out of style that words went out of style, too. It didn't happen overnight. We had "Three Little Fishes" — was that its name — back in the 'thirties.

Back then, kiddies, many songs were simply about love. She loves me or she doesn't love me — simple basic themes which are much too uncomplicated for you youngsters. Your needs are far more complex and dark and obscure than we primitives who preceded you. Just the other day I heard a song which — unless my ears were playing me tricks — went: "I'm just sitting in a vacant lot with a bird sitting on my head." Those are, I grant you, words but I'd almost rather they weren't. "I belong in someone's arms," trills the man in the vacant lot. "And I belong in a tree," trills the bird.

Well, as I say, we primitives had simpler needs. I love you. I need you. I miss you. I lost you. I'm sorry now. You'll be sorry eventually. Those were our basic themes and we could play endless variations on them and, believe me, Irving Berlin did.

"I'll be loving you always," is the first line of one of our simple love songs of the period which might be classified as pre-Purple-People-Eater. We were earth-bound, and God help us, articulate and we used words to express our needs. Or to put it another way, we had needs so we used words to express them.

Today, when a cult of nothingness spreads from the jazz salons of San Francisco to St. Germain, the needs become not so much complicated as nonexistent. As they become less and less existent, the need for words dwindles and presently you achieve: "Oo-ee-oo-ah-ting-tang," which might be described as the nirvana of nothingness.

To pass on to other matters, "Camera 3," CBS' experimental program on Sunday mornings at 11:30 a. m. EDT offered "Emily Dickinson — Portrait of a Poet" as the first presentation of Robert Herridge, who was the producer of the program from its inception in 1953 until 1956 and is now back as guest-producer for a bit.

Having little money, "Camera 3" employs ideas and words which are plentiful and cheap. In the portrait of Emily Dickinson, Mr. Herridge used a lone actress, Lois Nettleton, who spouted rivers of Miss Dickinson's astringent, thoughtful and wonderfully feminine poetry, meanwhile wandering through pools of light. There was some graphic and perceptive camera work and there was also, I'm afraid, some rather arty and contrived camera work but the total effect was one of simplicity and singleness of aim.

The poetry was stitched together by an off-stage narrator who gave a precis of Miss Dickinson's austere existence but mostly and quite properly, the half-hour was given over to the poetry. It was not so much a portrait as a pencil sketch and what's the matter with that? I'd love to see more genuine profiles of real people on television which has neglected the art of biography entirely, except for people like Winston Churchill, who are drawn much too skimpily.

Poverty — and "Camera 3" is blessedly poor — has some clear advantages. Poverty requires great simplicity which a lot of money would never permit and "Camera 3" has a great nobility and purity of purpose which no sponsor would allow.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 diamond	Pass	1 heart
Pass	1 spade	Pass	2 clubs
Pass	2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts
Pass	4 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Club 4.

East obtained a good match point result for his side today with a neat defensive play that held declarer to his contract. The hand was selected from tournament play where an overtrick frequently represents the difference between an inferior and an excellent score.

The first three bids were routine and then South chose a somewhat unorthodox call. He knew it was proper to rebid in his six card suit but he did not wish to force to game by jumping in hearts nor did he wish to risk a pass by merely rebidding the suit. He temporized once more with a two club bid, forcing for the round.

When North bid two no trump, South rebid his six card suit. With a potential ruffing value in clubs, North elected to raise to four hearts.

West decided to open the club 4 and dummy's jack held the trick. In an effort to steal an overtrick, declarer immediately led a low spade. West won with the ace and promptly shifted to the king of diamonds.

If East, in routine fashion, plays low declarer will take the rest of the tricks, for he will win the next lead and discard a diamond on the queen of spades. He can then arrange to ruff one club in dummy and discard one on the spade jack.

However, East did not play reflexly. If West had another diamond, then declarer held a singleton and this was probably the last trick for the defense. But if West's king were alone it was vital to overtake and give him the ruff. Considering that he had more to gain than to lose East played his diamond ace and returned the suit. West's ruff held the declarer to his contract.

Two W.Va. Youths Enlist In Navy

They are Bobby Joseph Hartman, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olie Dayton Hartman, and Arno Eugene VanMeter, nephew of Dessie Marie Van Meter. Both youths have been sent to the Naval Training Station at San Diego for basic training.

ATOMIC ENERGY

The bill also permits the AEC to enter into five-year contracts for purchase of supplies and to set up a plan for succession of command in the event of casualties suffered in war time.

SKATE TO VISIT DANES

John Jones & Son, Inc.

Has John Jones really slaved all of his life so his son could take over? Perhaps Mrs. Jones could throw some light on this question.

Since he was a small boy, John Jones, Jr. has wanted to be a forest ranger. But his father has been so wrapped up in his own success that he has never asked his son what he wanted to do with his life.

The fact that John should be free to make his own choice of a career has never entered his father's mind.

Words Are Going Out

I was lying in my hammock the other day listening to David Seville — or maybe it's Dic Savile; anyhow one of those teenage singers — belting away at: "Oo- ee- oo- ah - ah - ting - tang." "What phrasing!" I was saying to myself. I haven't heard phrasing like that since kindergarten when we used to practice the vowel sounds in class.

"Oo-ee-oo-ah-ah-ting-tang-walla-walla-bing-bang" is — as any damn fool knows — from the lyrics of that smash hit song "Witch Doctor." Brother, that's poetry a man can get his teeth into. That is, if he's a teen-ager he can get his teeth into it. If he's an older man — a square like me — he may prefer words. It's tough on us older guys because words, let's face it, are going out. Nobody uses words anymore, at least not when writing popular songs. Of course, if you want to write an unpopular song, go ahead — put words in it. You won't even get in to see the publisher.

Ah, me. I can remember way back when painters used to paint things. I mean things like trees, or people, or horses. Of course, that was many years ago, children. Pass me a little more gruel, poke up the fire, kiddies, and let grandpa tell you about those distant days. It was many, many years after representational painting went out of style that words went out of style, too. It didn't happen overnight. We had "Three Little Fishes" — was that its name — back in the 'thirties.

Back then, kiddies, many songs were simply about love. She loves me or she doesn't love me — simple basic themes which are much too uncomplicated for you youngsters. Your needs are far more complex and dark and obscure than we primitives who preceded you. Just the other day I heard a song which — unless my ears were playing me tricks — went: "I'm just sitting in a vacant lot with a bird sitting on my head." Those are, I grant you, words but I'd almost rather they weren't. "I belong in someone's arms," trills the man in the vacant lot. "And I belong in a tree," trills the bird.

Well, as I say, we primitives had simpler needs. I love you. I need you. I miss you. I lost you. I'm sorry now. You'll be sorry eventually. Those were our basic themes and we could play endless variations on them and, believe me, Irving Berlin did.

In Memoriam

SHRIVER—In memory of our dear sister and aunt, Rhoda Florence Shriver, who passed away Aug. 19, 1954.
In the Book of Life there are memories
Of the happiest we have known,
And recorded in, love is the Blessing
Of a wonderful sister and aunt, our own.
You are gone, but the treasure you left us
Is truly a value untold;
A life filled with deeds of kindness
And beauty of heart and soul.
Sister and niece, Ella Loneman Warrenfeltz and Fay Mullenix, Niece.

In Memoriam

SHRIVER—In memory of our dear sister and aunt, Rhoda Florence Shriver, who passed away Aug. 19, 1954.
In the Book of Life there are memories
Of the happiest we have known,
And recorded in love is the Blessing
Of a wonderful sister and aunt, our own.
You are gone, but the treasure you left us
Is truly a value untold:
A life filled with deeds of kindness
And beauty of heart and soul.

Mexicans Beat Pearl Harbor In LL Tourney

Kankakee, Darien Reach Semi-Finals

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) —Hector Torres, allowing only one hit, pitched defending champion Monterrey, Mexico, to an 11-0 victory over Pearl Harbor in the opening round of the 12th annual Little League World Series Tuesday.

The slim, fast-balling right-hander struck out 18 batters and walked one as his teammates pounded two Pearl Harbor pitchers for nine hits. Torres hit a three-run homer in the sixth inning, while his battery mate, Carlos Trevino, hit one with the bases empty in the first.

The lone hit off the 12-year-old Torres was a single by Pete Quiban in the third inning. He fanned the side in the second, third and fifth innings, requiring only nine pitches in the fifth.

Kankakee, Ill., defeated Portland, Ore., 2-1, in the final game of the day to join Monterrey and Darien, Conn., in the semifinals. Home runs accounted for all the runs.

Tommy Alldrin's four-ply blast put Portland ahead in the third inning, but Mike Debetta tied it up with a homer in the fourth. Dan Fowler hit for the circuit in the final inning for the Kankakee triumph.

Tom McKay and Dick Wise went the route for Kankakee and Portland, respectively. Portland outhit the winners, 8-5. Wise struck out eight and allowed only one walk. McKay fanned two and walked four. Wednesday, Kankakee will meet Gadsden, Ala., which drew a bye Tuesday.

Monterrey, sentimental favorite of the crowd, will meet Darien, Conn., in the semi-final round Wednesday. Darien took the opening game of the series Tuesday from Valley Field, Quebec, 7-2, on the four-hit pitching of Al Siemering and two home runs.

Dorothy Kirby Is Upset Victim Of Judy Eller

JoAnne Gunderson Wins Over Lindsay

The 17-year-old national girls champion, only two-time winner of the event, tied the veteran Atlanta golfer on the 18th hole, halved the first extra hole on birdie 4's and then clinched victory when Miss Kirby three-putted the 20th.

Miss Eller was joined in the third round by the defending champion, JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle; the British ladies titleholder, Mrs. George Valentine of Scotland; Canada's hope, Mrs. Douglas Streit, and 60 others with hopes of capturing America's top women's amateur golf prize.

Two rounds of eliminations are scheduled Wednesday over the Wee Burn Country Club course and two more Thursday designed to reduce the field to four. Semi-finals are slated Friday and the title round Saturday.

Miss Gunderson, who scored a stretch-running 3-and-1 run triumph ove. the formidable Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., was at the 19th tee when the exciting Eller-Kirby match started into extra holes.

"Want my hat for luck?" JoAnne asked Miss Eller.

Both had to sink tough putts on the par five 19th—Miss Eller from eight feet and Miss Kirby from five—to halve the hole.

On the 330-yard 20th, Miss Kirby pitched to the green, about 35 feet past the cup but the Old Hickory girl missed to the right. Miss Eller chipped magnificently to within 2½ feet. Miss Kirby left herself a four-footer and missed coming back. That was the clincher.

JoAnne Gunderson Wins Over Lindsay

The 17-year-old national girls champion, only two-time winner of the event, tied the veteran Atlanta golfer on the 18th hole, halved the first extra hole on birdie 4's and then clinched victory when Miss Kirby three-putted the 20th.

Miss Eller was joined in the third round by the defending champion, JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle; the British ladies titleholder, Mrs. George Valentine of Scotland; Canada's hope, Mrs. Douglas Streit, and 60 others with hopes of capturing America's top women's amateur golf prize.

Two rounds of eliminations are scheduled Wednesday over the Wee Burn Country Club course and two more Thursday designed to reduce the field to four. Semi-finals are slated Friday and the title round Saturday.

Miss Gunderson, who scored a stretch-running 3-and-1 run triumph ove. the formidable Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., was at the 19th tee when the exciting Eller-Kirby match started into extra holes.

"Want my hat for luck?" JoAnne asked Miss Eller.

"Sure," said Judy, catching the bright red, white-feathered hat and setting it jauntily on her head.

Both had to sink tough putts on the par five 19th—Miss Eller from eight feet and Miss Kirby from five—to halve the hole.

On the 330-yard 20th, Miss Kirby pitched to the green, about 35 feet past the cup but the Old Hickory girl missed to the right. Miss Eller chipped magnificently to within 2½ feet. Miss Kirby left herself a four-footer and missed coming back. That was the clincher.

Mexicans Beat Pearl Harbor In LL Tourney

Kankakee, Darien Reach Semi-Finals

The slim, fast-balling right-hander struck out 18 batters and walked one as his teammates pounded two Pearl Harbor pitchers for nine hits. Torres hit a three-run homer in the sixth inning, while his battery mate, Carlos Trevino, hit one with the bases empty in the first.

The lone hit off the 12-year-old Torres was a single by Pete Quiban in the third inning. He fanned the side in the second, third and fifth innings, requiring only nine pitches in the fifth.

Kankakee, Ill., defeated Portland, Ore., 2-1, in the final game of the day to join Monterrey and Darien, Conn., in the semifinals. Home runs accounted for all the runs.

Tommy Alldrin's four-ply blast put Portland ahead in the third inning, but Mike Debetta tied it up with a homer in the fourth. Dan Fowler hit for the circuit in the final inning for the Kankakee triumph.

Tom McKay and Dick Wise went the route for Kankakee and Portland, respectively. Portland outhit the winners, 8-5. Wise struck out eight and allowed only one walk. McKay fanned two and walked four. Wednesday, Kankakee will meet Gadsden, Ala., which drew a bye Tuesday.

Monterrey, sentimental favorite of the crowd, will meet Darien, Conn., in the semi-final round Wednesday. Darien took the opening game of the series Tuesday from Valley Field, Quebec, 7-2, on the four-hit pitching of Al Siemering and two home runs.

Bowhunters Plan 28-Target Field Tourney, Aug. 24

The Cumberland Bowhunters will hold a 28-target field tournament on Sunday, August 24. Registration will begin at 12:30, and shooting will begin at 1:30. The tournament will be held at the field range in back of the Mt. Pleasant Church on Mt. Pleasant Road. Mt. Pleasant Road is east of Cumberland on U. S. Route 40.

Birds Drop Pair To Kansas City

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Kansas City Athletics swept a doubleheader from the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday night, winning the first game 4-1 on a five-hitter by Ned Garver and taking the nightcap on a 15-hit attack, 6-4.

The two wins gave the A's five victories in the last six games.

Garver, who gained his 11th victory, gave a superb pitching performance as he held the Orioles to one unearned run. Then the A's sluggers took over in the nightcap, led by Bob Martyn who had a double and two singles and Joe DeMaestri, who belted his fifth homer of the year.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Lovely Lustrous Hair

Shampoos are more frequently needed in the summer; for wind, dust, sun and perspiration play havoc with your hair.

When you drive in an open car, as many do, the force of the air, filled with particles of dust, will bring it right to your scalp. There are many attractive scarf hats or the latest wig types that are both becoming and practical, by keeping hair from becoming dusty. The fashionable "headache" bands made of fabrics to match your dress, or just scarfs, will keep the hair from becoming wind-blown.

Before starting out on a trip, it might be wise to put your hair into condition by a visit to your hairdresser. Following that, a little lanolin hair cream or brilliantine applied to ends of the hair will keep it shiny.

You'll find that, although it may be your usual custom to have your hair shampooed at a salon, during the vacation period when you're not near your favorite operator, it's a most beneficial habit to do it yourself. The change from a hot dryer will show in the added luster that your hair will noticeably have after a home shampoo. But, be sure and choose a sunny day when you can dry your hair outdoors.

Give yourself three soapings. Then rinse and rinse, using quantities of water until it fairly "squeaks." It's always good to wind up with a cold rinse. Towel-dry the hair outside, rubbing the hair in a back-and-forth motion. Separate it into sections and rub the scalp too. When it is completely dry, comb and brush it and stay in the sun a little longer with your hair hanging loose.

Shake your hair occasionally to change the position. Of course, you wash your comb and brush ahead of time.

TOMORROW: See Yourself.

YOUR COLOR TYPE. Here's your personal colorscope, scientifically designed to determine just which colors keep you looking complexion-perfect and charming of dress. A copy of my all-new booklet "Your Color Type" is on its way to you for 25c and a stamped, return envelope sent to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this paper.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

While Louella O. Parsons is in Hawaii her column will be written by Dorothy Manners.

HOLLYWOOD — Spencer Tracy didn't wait to see the script before signing with Stanley Kramer to star in "Inherit the Wind," in the Clarence Darrow role created by Paul Muni on Broadway. Spencer seems to be tied in with every mention of a Darrow casting. He also was offered the role of the Chicago criminal lawyer in "Compulsion" (Leopold and Loeb case) but preferred Kramer's Darrow.

Dramatists Bob Lawrence and Jerry Lee's "Inherit the Wind" is based on the famed Scopes trial during which the brilliant Darrow and William Jennings Bryan fought out the right to teach the theory of evolution.

Kramer currently is basking in the high praise being heaped on his problem drama, "The Defiant Ones," with Tony Curtis and Sidney Poitier.

The treatments Mario Lanza undergoes to get himself ready for a new film sound like something out of a horror movie. In order to get Mario's mind off food and wine (his lavish buffets at his home have even the Romans groaning), he is subjected to the most grueling medical and psychological care.

Mario is just out of a sanatorium in Germany where he underwent hypnosis and isolation treatment. While he's under hypnosis, he's told over and over that he doesn't want food, that is bad for him and that he hates it. He is completely isolated and under sedation to make him sleep most of the time until the poundage comes off.

Interesting that Leslie Nielsen, nephew of the late loved Jean Hersholt, has been talking to Jean's widow, Via, about bringing Jean's life story to the screen. Nielsen has formed his own company with the backing of millionaire Marty Perfit, head of a marble and mosaics company.

"I wouldn't attempt to play my uncle," Leslie tells me, "I'm nowhere near the type. But we think we could get a beautiful story out of Jean's self-sacrificing life." Via is in favor.

Ben Bogeaus rocketed off to New York about his Jules Verne's "From the Earth to the Moon" movie right after the U.S. Air Force helped out publicity - wise by taking a shot at the moon over the week end.

Bogeaus and Lee Zavitz have developed a new process, in collaboration with Technicolor engineers, called Giantscope which is said to be adaptable to color projection on all screens. Joe Cotten, George Sanders, Debra Paget and Don Dubbins are the first actors to be shot in the new process.

The James Mason clan, back from their six-weeks tour in "Midsummer," say "Never again." James lost 12 pounds, Pamela lost nine. Only prodigy Portland gained five — which she doesn't mind at all.

Along with the losses, Pamela comes up minus her suitcases containing all her sack dresses. Her only comment on this, "I hope they stay lost!"

Lou Costello, who's revamping his career to take in drama as well as comedy, similar to the roles played by the late Wallace Beery, has bought Rowland Barber's original, "The Secret Bride of Candy Rock." Barber scripted "Somebody Up There Likes Me."

"Candy Rock" has a wacky plot about the citizens of a small town who discover that a vapor emitted from a candy rock, makes it possible for anyone inhaling it to live to be 100 years old. Lou's old producer sidekick, Eddie Sherman, will again be his associate in filming this comedy.

Hollywood in Shorts: Aly Khan's brother Sadruddin and his wife, former model Nina Dyer, expect their first baby as a Christmas present. They're vacationing in the Austrian Tyrol.

That millionaire who looks so much like Hedy Lamarr's ex—isn't. He's William Dugger and he couldn't take his eyes off Hedy at La Rue.

Another charming luncheon for bride-to-be Suzie Mayer hosted by Mrs. Norman Taurog and Mrs. Harry Brand at Hillcrest Country Club.

"The Big Country" preem on the 22nd has taken on such proportions that the parking lot next to Romanoff's will be elegantly tented and decorated to take care of the guests. Gregory Peck, Jean Simmons and Carroll Baker will do the greeting in about $12,000 worth of fancy decorations.

Restaurant owner Sam Wllessi has the high-cost-of-entertainment problem licked. He not only serves good food at his Round Robin in the Valley but he croons his own sexy love songs to such customers as Linda Darnell (her husband was along) and Lynn Roberts (Mannie Franks in t-a tendance).

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

NEW YORK — Here are a few facts, fears and frets picked up in the course of some recent travels and travails:

The coast road between San Francisco and Los Angeles is every bit as spectacular as Italy's unforgettable Amalfi Drive.

After what the Russian mobs did to our embassy building in Moscow, we should at least charge the Kremlin for the cops we keep on 24-hour duty at the Russian's UN delegation headquarters on Park Avenue.

The once-scabrous area north of Melbourne, Fla., and around Cocoa Beach, has bloomed since the dawn of the space age. There is now a Missile Town, Fla., and half a dozen motels which use rocket names or emblems. Press headquarters last week was at a beaut — the Starlite Motel — featuring a neon spectacular whose rocket stays up longer than did our poor moon missile.

The international air lines have replaced, to a great degree, the services once a routine part of our consular and diplomatic corps. The traveler in trouble today, or in need of advice, information, or a cashed check, will take up the matter with Pan-Am, TWA, Air France, B.O.A.C., SAS or one of those. It grows increasingly hard for an American wanderer to reach a U. S. State Department man on the telephone.

The most difficult turn U. S. foreign policy has had to make in a long time was the comprehension that any Arab country which overthrows its ruling class may not necessarily turn Communist overnight.

A firm I wouldn't want to be working for this week is Lipsett, Inc., a reputable junk dealer on a huge scale. The outfit is going to start breaking up the carrier Enterprise. The great Navy fighting ship, at one time the only carrier we had left in operation against the Japanese, was bought for $561,333. Eight Moran tugs will pull the proud vessel from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to the dismantling berth in Kearny, N.J. Raise your hat as she passes.

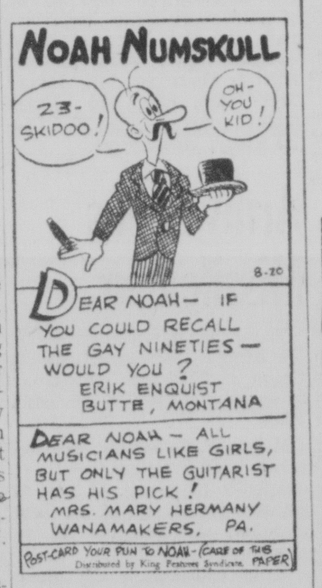

Proponents of statehood for Alaska — the vote's coming up soon—point out that until 1956 Alaska was excluded from the federal-aid highway program, and then only one-third of its area was used in the formula for computing the apportionment of funds. The territory now receives $13 million a year from the federal government for this work. As a state it would get $30 million.

Left undecided in the statehood question is what will happen to the dole given to Eskimo women who cannot support a child. They receive $75 a month for such support. Parents with several children sometimes give one to a poor aunt or cousin, so she can earn her keep through the child. Unmarried Eskimo girls unable to obtain work have a baby and immediately receive the $75 allowance.

Bitterest comment on the interservice rocket rivalry was expressed shortly after the Air Force's missile failed in the shoot for the moon. "I'll bet the beer is flowing and 'Hochs!' are being shouted all over the place at Huntsville." It was a reference to the colony of German missile experts, headed by Werhner von Braun, which has aided the Army's missile program so successfully.

Ex-war correspondent Johnny Moroso played football in high school and college, then pro football, went through three invasions and the buzz bombing of London—without a scratch. Now he's at New Rochelle (N.Y.) Hospital with a fractured right knee, fractured left jaw, black eye, one tooth knocked out, two others chipped and a 20-stitch cut on his lower lip. Fell down his cellar steps, cold sober.

The population of Ireland fell from more than eight million in 1840 to 4,300,000 in 1950.

Cost Of Dining Hall At College Is Disputed

State Agency Would Cut $100,000

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two State departments differ in estimating what a new building at Frostburg State Teachers College should cost.

The differences came out Tuesday as the Department of Education presented its capital improvements request for the next fiscal year to the State Planning Commission.

The education department, which operates five teachers' colleges, asked for $536,000 for construction of a dining hall-student activities building at the Frostburg college.

But the Department of Public Improvement has indicated it feels more than $100,000 can be cut from the cost by prudent trimming.

The General Assembly allotted $425,000 for the building several years ago, but the lowest construction bid was $550,000. The plans were altered and bids taken again, but they were still too high.

The project was dropped until now.

The Department of Public Improvements still believes the building could be constructed at the original figure — $425,000. But the education department believes any reduction in its request would destroy the usefulness of the building and damage the appearance of the Frostburg campus.

The education department's total request for capital improvements was for $4,346,600.

Post Office Installs Mail Conveyor

Workmen of the Oliver Corporation of York, Pa., yesterday began installing the 37-foot steel conveyor which is powered by a three-horsepower master electric chain-driven motor, which can be operated from each floor level.

The conveyor's rubber, ridge-top belt, built especially for postal work, can run forward and in reverse for carrying mail to the second floor for sorting, and back to the first floor mail room for delivery.

The conveyor was transported from York to Cumberland in three sections, and yesterday the workmen began installation. They expect to have the new equipment in operation today or tomorrow.

This is part of a renovation project started at the local post office earlier this year. A flight of steps for postal employes was also built from the first floor to the second floor. The postal workers can now enter both mail-rooms or leave the post office from the rear. The use of the elevator for carrying mail to the second floor will be eliminated when the conveyor is put into use.

Another part of the project is the construction of a "look-out" on the second floor for use by mail inspectors who will be able to observe the postal workers on duty in the mailroom occupied years ago by the federal court.

4-H, FFA Members Share Spotlight At Fair Today

The 41st annual Cumberland Fair approaches its midpoint today with Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members sharing the spotlight.

FFA boys from Allegany and Garrett counties will compete in a livestock judging contest this morning. Then, the regional FFA officers from the two counties will meet.

Yesterday afternoon there was a large delegation of youngsters on hand for the first of the two children's matinees planned this week. The second matinee will be Thursday. David Nazelrod, 137 Valley Drive, Cresap Park, won the bicycle given away at yesterday's matinee.

There was plenty of activity last night on the stage in front of the Fair grandstand. The Marine Corps color guard conducted a flag raising ceremony and Charles Sager, a member of the Frostburg State Teachers College faculty, sang the National Anthem, accompanied by Jessie Griffith at the organ.

Four of the five area queens were presented to the grandstand audience and Miss Marlene Clark of Baltimore Pike, the Allegany County Farm Queen, received the first of the five orchids to be given away. A different queen will be the recipient of an orchid each night. Others introduced were Miss Ann Drane of Piedmont, Mineral County Farm Queen; Miss Eileen LaBute of Somerset County, the Pennsylvania Maple Queen, and Miss Sue Hershberger, the Garrett County Farm Queen.

Miss Patricia Mathias, the West Virginia Poultry Queen, was unable to attend because of illness, but Fair officials say she will be on hand Saturday night.

Then came the Velvetones, Eddie Hasenbuhler, Bill Boyer, Charles Offutt and Sonny Kompanek, accompanied by Gale Eackles at the piano. Finally, Gayle Proudfoot did an acrobatic dance.

Henderson Asks Telegram Campaign For Parkway

Retired Chief Judge George Henderson, an outspoken proponent of the C&O Canal Parkway bill, last night urged that other people who want the Parkway send telegrams to the chairman of a House committee that will take up the bill today.

Mr. Henderson, as chairman of the Allegany County Youth Commission, sent a telegram last night to Rep. Wade Aspinal, acting chairman of the House Interior Committee, which will begin study of the bill at 10 a. m. today. (See story on page 10)

Earlier, proponents of the bill had all but given up hope of its passage at the present session of the Congress. It was sent up to the full committee only yesterday by a subcommittee which had been holding hearings.

At first it had been thought that no further meetings of the full committee would be held during this session. But later it was announced that the Parkway bill will be on this morning's agenda.

Mr. Henderson said the inexpensive development of four miles of the canal area at Battie Mixon fishing hole near Oldtown indicates what could be done at many places along the canal if federal funds were used.

He urged that local citizens send their telegrams to "Hon. Wade Aspinal, Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, House Office Building, Washington, D. C."

Gas In Well Causes Stir

Morris Clem of Bowman's Addition has gasoline in his well but public officials seem to be at a loss concerning what to do about the situation.

Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg, a state fire investigator working for the state insurance commissioner, yesterday informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners about Mr. Clem's problem. Gasoline is running into both his well and his septic tank.

Mr. Jacobs said last night the condition has been getting progressively worse since June. The Clems have been unable to use their well water except for sanitary purposes. Whenever the toilet is flushed there is a strong odor of gasoline, according to the investigator.

The investigator has called this matter to the attention of Leo Emerick, the Bowman's Addition fire chief, the Health Department, the county commissioners and the state's attorney.

There is a service station several hundred yards away from the Clem residence but the owner denies that his gasoline tanks leak.

Parent-Child Study Leaders Plan Sessions

Eleven leaders who will direct the parent-child study program in the Allegany County public schools during the coming school year will attend a two-day workshop starting next Tuesday in the Board of Education conference room, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel.

Mr. Higgins explained that the organization is now complete for the second year of structured program of parent-child study. Last year was the first when paid leadership was provided to direct the discussion groups.

Next Tuesday the 11 leaders will preview resource material, including pamphlets, films and film strips available for use with their study groups. On the second day, next Wednesday, Dr. Fred Thompson from the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland will lead a discussion on content material. The sessions will extend from 9 a. m. until 2 p. m. each day.

Last May the leaders had their first workshop in preparation for the new school year.

The workship and the parent-child study program will center on the affectional area of human growth and development. Mr. Higgins explained the affectional area as dealing with the experience impact of the relationship within the family group, and aids in helping people better understand the behavior and growth of children.

Registration for the study groups will be conducted in the various schools around the county about the middle of September, according to Mr. Higgins. Each group will meet six times and no more frequently than once a week and must meet at least once every two weeks. School principals will inform their patrons of the opportunity to register in the program. Groups must have at least 15 parents enrolled and must maintain an average attendance of at least 12.

Last year there were 23 groups with total registration of 585 parents and average attendance of about 450.

Mr. Higgins said a greater effort will be undertaken to organize study groups in the high schools of the county, as well as the elementary schools. The only high schools now having such groups are the 12-year institutions at Mt. Savage, Flintstone and Oldtown.

The 11 leaders for the 1958-59 parent-child study program are Mrs. Clara Mae Vogtman, Frostburg; Mrs. Janette McFarland, Frostburg; Mrs. Ruby Adams, RFD 3, Keyser; Mrs. Katherine Kyle, Flintstone; Mrs. Juanita Isiminger, Roberts Place, and Mrs. Kathleen Kave, this city, all of whom were leaders last school year, and Mrs. Margaret Wolfe, Oldtown; Mrs. Jean Howard, RFD 2, Flintstone; Mrs. Homer Berry, this city; Mrs. Frank Simpson, this city, and Mrs. Louise Kiddy, Westernport.

This is the first time enlistees will be assigned to the group from the Cumberland recruiting office. The deadline is Wednesday, August 27, and those with a high school education, or who attended high school and have had no previous military training, are eligible.

Baron Says City Needs Policewoman

Magistrate Agrees With Police Chief

Trial Magistrate Morris Baron, former magistrate of Juvenile Court, agrees with Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn that Mrs. Bettie Williams should be retained as a policewoman in Cumberland.

There is a possibility she will be dropped from the Police Department roster as a result of budget talks by city officials. Chief Flynn is highly in favor of keeping the policewoman on duty. (See "Policewoman" on page 10)

In a letter to the police chief, Magistrate Baron, who is a member of the Governor's Commission for the Prevention and Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency, said he wished to register "my strong disapproval of the proposal to dispense with the services of Mrs. Bettie Williams."

"I know personally that she has done, and is doing a splendid job in the field of juvenile delinquency in this community. As it is, this community is way behind other cities of the same size, (even the city of Hagerstown) in its provisions and facilities for the handling and supervision of youthful offenders."

He said the removal of the policewoman would be a step backward. It is even a poor policy from an economic point of view, he said.

"Every boy or girl that is committed to a State Training School, costs the state between $2,700 and $2,800 a year. How much cheaper is it to retain Mrs. Williams on her job, so that two or three girls may remain at home instead of being sent to institutions.

"I have said before that this community is not yet awake to the great and growing problem of juvenile crime. There is very little done to show our realization of it. Your appointment of a woman member of your force to handle female offenders manifested a step in the right direction. Now it would all seem that we are on the point of taking two steps backward."

Magistrate Baron expressed this hope to the police chief: "I trust that in the end, in spite of the shortage of funds, we still stand for progress."

Sunny Weather To Continue

In Cumberland the temperature dropped to 48 yesterday morning. The mercury climbed to 80 degrees yesterday and skies were sunny and clear.

Post Office Installs Mail Conveyor

A labor and time-saving mail conveyor is being installed between the first and second floors of the Cumberland Post Office.

Workmen of the Oliver Corporation of York, Pa., yesterday began installing the 37-foot steel conveyor which is powered by a three-horsepower master electric chain-driven motor, which can be operated from each floor level.

The conveyor's rubber, ridge-top belt, built especially for postal work, can run forward and in reverse for carrying mail to the second floor for sorting, and back to the first floor mail room for delivery.

The conveyor was transported from York to Cumberland in three sections, and yesterday the workmen began installation. They expect to have the new equipment in operation today or tomorrow.

This is part of a renovation project started at the local post office earlier this year. A flight of steps for postal employes was also built from the first floor to the second floor. The postal workers can now enter both mail-rooms or leave the post office from the rear. The use of the elevator for carrying mail to the second floor will be eliminated when the conveyor is put into use.

Another part of the project is the construction of a "look-out" on the second floor for use by mail inspectors who will be able to observe the postal workers on duty in the mailroom occupied years ago by the federal court.

The 41st annual Cumberland Fair approaches its midpoint today with Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members sharing the spotlight.

FFA boys from Allegany and Garrett counties will compete in a livestock judging contest this morning. Then, the regional FFA officers from the two counties will meet.

All of the 4-H dairy cattle at Fairgo will be judged today by Richard Saacke, a dairy specialist at the University of Maryland.

Yesterday afternoon there was a large delegation of youngsters on hand for the first of the two children's matinees planned this week. The second matinee will be Thursday. David Nazelrod, 137 Valley Drive, Cresap Park, won the bicycle given away at yesterday's matinee.

There was plenty of activity last night on the stage in front of the Fair grandstand. The Marine Corps color guard conducted a flag raising ceremony and Charles Sager, a member of the Frostburg State Teachers College faculty, sang the National Anthem, accompanied by Jessie Griffith at the organ.

Four of the five area queens were presented to the grandstand audience and Miss Marlene Clark of Baltimore Pike, the Allegany County Farm Queen, received the first of the five orchids to be given away. A different queen will be the recipient of an orchid each night. Others introduced were Miss Ann Drane of Piedmont, Mineral County Farm Queen; Miss Eileen LaBute of Somerset County, the Pennsylvania Maple Queen, and Miss Sue Hershberger, the Garrett County Farm Queen.

Miss Patricia Mathias, the West Virginia Poultry Queen, was unable to attend because of illness, but Fair officials say she will be on hand Saturday night.

Before the professional talent presented a variety show in front of the grandstand, there was a three-act program of local talent. The Four Lasses, Mary Ethel Knieriem, Fay Moore, Cindy Parsons and Kathleen Neely, winners of the city talent show this summer, sang three selections, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Knieriem.

Then came the Velvetones, Eddie Hasenbuhler, Bill Boyer, Charles Offutt and Sonny Kompanek, accompanied by Gale Eackles at the piano. Finally, Gayle Proudfoot did an acrobatic dance.

About 3,000 adults paid their way into the Fairgrounds last night, bringing with them several thousand children. Several thousand also were on hand for the matinee.

Attaches last night said the conditions and extent of the injuries of the two victims were undetermined. State Police had sketchy information on the accident, which occurred about 6:55 p. m.

Gas In Well Causes Stir

Morris Clem of Bowman's Addition has gasoline in his well but public officials seem to be at a loss concerning what to do about the situation.

Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg, a state fire investigator working for the state insurance commissioner, yesterday informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners about Mr. Clem's problem. Gasoline is running into both his well and his septic tank.

Mr. Jacobs said last night the condition has been getting progressively worse since June. The Clems have been unable to use their well water except for sanitary purposes. Whenever the toilet is flushed there is a strong odor of gasoline, according to the investigator.

The investigator has called this matter to the attention of Leo Emerick, the Bowman's Addition fire chief, the Health Department, the county commissioners and the state's attorney.

There is a service station several hundred yards away from the Clem residence but the owner denies that his gasoline tanks leak.

Parent-Child Study Leaders Plan Sessions

Eleven leaders who will direct the parent-child study program in the Allegany County public schools during the coming school year will attend a two-day workshop starting next Tuesday in the Board of Education conference room, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel.

Mr. Higgins explained that the organization is now complete for the second year of structured program of parent-child study. Last year was the first when paid leadership was provided to direct the discussion groups.

Next Tuesday the 11 leaders will preview resource material, including pamphlets, films and film strips available for use with their study groups. On the second day, next Wednesday, Dr. Fred Thompson from the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland will lead a discussion on content material. The sessions will extend from 9 a. m. until 2 p. m. each day.

Last May the leaders had their first workshop in preparation for the new school year.

The workship and the parent-child study program will center on the affectional area of human growth and development. Mr. Higgins explained the affectional area as dealing with the experience impact of the relationship within the family group, and aids in helping people better understand the behavior and growth of children.

Registration for the study groups will be conducted in the various schools around the county about the middle of September, according to Mr. Higgins. Each group will meet six times and no more frequently than once a week and must meet at least once every two weeks. School principals will inform their patrons of the opportunity to register in the program. Groups must have at least 15 parents enrolled and must maintain an average attendance of at least 12.

Last year there were 23 groups with total registration of 585 parents and average attendance of about 450.

Mr. Higgins said a greater effort will be undertaken to organize study groups in the high schools of the county, as well as the elementary schools. The only high schools now having such groups are the 12-year institutions at Mt. Savage, Flintstone and Oldtown.

The 11 leaders for the 1958-59 parent-child study program are Mrs. Clara Mae Vogtman, Frostburg; Mrs. Janette McFarland, Frostburg; Mrs. Ruby Adams, RFD 3, Keyser; Mrs. Katherine Kyle, Flintstone; Mrs. Juanita Isiminger, Roberts Place, and Mrs. Kathleen Kave, this city, all of whom were leaders last school year, and Mrs. Margaret Wolfe, Oldtown; Mrs. Jean Howard, RFD 2, Flintstone; Mrs. Homer Berry, this city; Mrs. Frank Simpson, this city, and Mrs. Louise Kiddy, Westernport.

Basic training will be taken at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Martin Luther Hare, 8 Elizabeth Street, was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Gay Mellon of Keyser. He waived preliminary hearing and was committed to jail in default of $1,000 bond to await action of the October term of the Mineral County Grand Jury.

Hare was arrested here Monday by City Police following an investigation by Lt. Robert Shrout of the B&O Police.

Lt. Shrout said the wire was taken from along the B&O tracks in the Patterson Creek area. It was being used there for repair work on the tower at Patterson Creek.

Lt. Shrout said the wire was stolen on several different occasions in July and was taken to Johnstown, Pa., and Hollidaysburg, Pa., where it was sold to junk dealers.

Baron Says City Needs Policewoman

Magistrate Agrees With Police Chief

Trial Magistrate Morris Baron, former magistrate of Juvenile Court, agrees with Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn that Mrs. Bettie Williams should be retained as a policewoman in Cumberland.

There is a possibility she will be dropped from the Police Department roster as a result of budget talks by city officials. Chief Flynn is highly in favor of keeping the policewoman on duty. (See "Policewoman" on page 10)

In a letter to the police chief, Magistrate Baron, who is a member of the Governor's Commission for the Prevention and Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency, said he wished to register "my strong disapproval of the proposal to dispense with the services of Mrs. Bettie Williams."

"I know personally that she has done, and is doing a splendid job in the field of juvenile delinquency in this community. As it is, this community is way behind other cities of the same size, (even the city of Hagerstown) in its provisions and facilities for the handling and supervision of youthful offenders."

He said the removal of the policewoman would be a step backward. It is even a poor policy from an economic point of view, he said.

"Every boy or girl that is committed to a State Training School, costs the state between $2,700 and $2,800 a year. How much cheaper is it to retain Mrs. Williams on her job, so that two or three girls may remain at home instead of being sent to institutions.

"I have said before that this community is not yet awake to the great and growing problem of juvenile crime. There is very little done to show our realization of it. Your appointment of a woman member of your force to handle female offenders manifested a step in the right direction. Now it would all seem that we are on the point of taking two steps backward."

Magistrate Baron expressed this hope to the police chief: "I trust that in the end, in spite of the shortage of funds, we still stand for progress."

Henderson Asks Telegram Campaign For Parkway

Retired Chief Judge George Henderson, an outspoken proponent of the C&O Canal Parkway bill, last night urged that other people who want the Parkway send telegrams to the chairman of a House committee that will take up the bill today.

Mr. Henderson, as chairman of the Allegany County Youth Commission, sent a telegram last night to Rep. Wade Aspinal, acting chairman of the House Interior Committee, which will begin study of the bill at 10 a. m. today. (See story on page 10)

Earlier, proponents of the bill had all but given up hope of its passage at the present session of the Congress. It was sent up to the full committee only yesterday by a subcommittee which had been holding hearings.

At first it had been thought that no further meetings of the full committee would be held during this session. But later it was announced that the Parkway bill will be on this morning's agenda.

Mr. Henderson said the inexpensive development of four miles of the canal area at Battie Mixon fishing hole near Oldtown indicates what could be done at many places along the canal if federal funds were used.

He urged that local citizens send their telegrams to "Hon. Wade Aspinal, Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, House Office Building, Washington, D. C."

Eight From Cumberland To Attend Rescue Session

Eight local residents, including two high school students, plan to attend the second and final session of an all-day rescue clinic conducted for rescue and first aid squads of Western Maryland Sunday at the Federal Civil Defense Facility at Olney.

Those persons who also attended the initial session August 17 include Frank Schilling, Miss Mildred Twigg, Phillip F. Hoenicka, Robert C. Arthur, Edmund D. Dawson, Robert F. Jeffries, Mrs. Gay M. Clark and Jesse H. Baker.

Sponsored by the Maryland Civil Defense Agency cooperating with the CD organizations of Allegany, Garrett, Frederick and Washington counties, the program is under the direction of William A. Chenoweth, assistant training officer for the state agency.

At Sunday's session, Dr. Harry W. Gray of Frederick will show a film and discuss emergency maternity care; Phillip Hitechew of Frederick will give a demonstration of acetylene cutting, and Jesse Baker of Cumberland will demonstrate lashing and rigging.

In addition to these subjects, Captain Martin C. McMahon of the Baltimore Fire Department will give a demonstration of the mouth-to-mouth method of artificial respiration. Captain McMahon has gained national fame for his experimentation at Baltimore City hospitals on the new method.
